Conclusion ................................................................................................... 53
Joseph Alleine was born into a Puritan family at Devizes, in Wiltshire, and baptized on April 8th, 1634. England was then in the throes of the stirring events that were soon to lead to the Civil War, and before Alleine was ten years old the Market Square, where his home stood, echoed with the crash of cannon and the peal of musket as Royalist put Roundhead to flight at the battle of Roundway (July, 1643). Two years later the tables were turned and Cromwell himself saw to it that the blue banner of Parliament was raised aloft over the old castle that stood opposite the home of Alleine's childhood. The family circle was also not without its trials. His father, though a clothier of good standing, suffered some of the economic misfortunes of war; and to their grief, Joseph's eldest brother, Edward, already in the ministry, died in 1645.

That same year saw Alleine "setting forth in the Christian race" and imploring his father that he might be educated to "succeed his brother in the work of the ministry." Thus, in April, 1649, we find him going up to Oxford to sit at the feet of such divines as John Owen and Thomas Goodwin. In November, 1651, he moved from Oxford to sit at the feet of such divines as John Owen and ministry." Thus, in April, 1649, we find him going up to Oxford to sit at the feet of such divines as John Owen and Thomas Goodwin. In November, 1651, he moved from Lincoln to Corpus Christi College—the latter, under the presidency of the saintly Dr. Edward Staunton, being a more thoroughgoing Puritan seminary. Here he took his B.A. on July 6th, 1653, became a tutor and subsequently chaplain to the College. Doubtless it was partly due to Alleine's influence that Henry Jessey could write in 1660: "I think there was scarce such a place in the world as Corpus Christi, where such a multitude held forth the power of godliness, and purity of God's worship. Even an Eden it was, but now a barren wilderness."

Alleine's years at Oxford were characterized by piety and diligent study. His warm disposition found him many friends, but if their visits interrupted his studying time, "he had no leisure to let them in, saying, 'It is better that they should wonder at my rude ness than that I should lose my time; for only a few will take notice of the rudeness, but many may feel my loss of time.'" As a chaplain he labored to evangelize country villages around Oxford and also preached to the prisoners in the gaol every fortnight. Such was his training for his future ministry. Not yet twenty-one, he had already learned to be "infinitely and insatiably greedy for the conversion of souls and to this end he poured out his very heart in prayer and in preaching."

It is no wonder that a worthy Puritan divine, George Newton (1602–1681), minister of St. Mary Magdalen, Taunton, called Alleine to be his assistant in 1655. Taunton, a wool manufacturing town with a population of perhaps some 20,000, was a Puritan stronghold in the West Country. The spirit of the town had been clearly displayed ten years earlier when, with heroic steadfastness, it had withstood more than one desperate Royalist siege—even when half the streets had been burned down by a storm of mortars and many of the inhabitants had died of starvation! It was here, amidst the hills, meadows and orchards of Somerset, that Alleine was to spend his short but unforgettable ministry.

Immediately following the commencement of his work at Taunton, Alleine was married on October 4th, 1655, to his cousin Theodosia Alleine, a woman of singular spirituality, who left a moving account of her husband's ministry. The only ‘fault’ for which she chided her husband, was that he did not spend more time with her, to which he would reply, "Ah, my dear, I know your soul is safe; but how many that are perishing have I to look after? Oh that I could do more for them!" Alleine's whole life was an illustration of his saying, "Give me a Christian that counts his time more precious than gold." When the week began he would say, "Another week is now before us, let us spend this week for God." And each morning he would say, "Now let us live this one day well!" His wife wrote, "All the time of his health he would rise constantly at or before four o'clock, and on the Sabbath sooner. If he awakened he would be much troubled if he heard any smiths, or shoemakers, or such tradesmen, at work at their trades before he was in his duties with God; saying to me after, 'Oh how this noise shames me! Does not my master deserve more than theirs?' From four till eight he spent in prayer, holy contemplation, and singing of psalms, which he much delighted in, and did daily practice alone, as well as in his family."

Together this devoted pair labored for souls. Theodosia Alleine kept a school for children in her home, while her husband spent five afternoons every week following up the urgent calls to the unconverted which sounded forth Sunday by Sunday from beneath the stately tower of Mary Magdalen. He kept a catalogue of the names of the inhabitants of each street and saw that all were visited and catechized. This resulted in a numerous ingathering of souls. "The Lord was pleased to bless us exceedingly in our endeavors," Theodosia Alleine wrote, "so that many were converted in a few years, that were before strangers to God." (Joseph Alleine, by Charles Stanford, 1861, p. 101.) George Newton wrote, "His supplications and his exhortations many times were so affectionate, so full of holy zeal, life, and vigor, that they quite overcame his hearers; he melted them and sometimes dissolved the hardest hearts." It is clear that even in an age when powerful preaching and successful evangelism was comparatively common, Alleine's ministry was outstanding in the eyes of his brethren. "Few ages have produced more eminent preachers than Mr. Joseph Alleine,” declared that apostolic North Country Puritan, Oliver Heywood. And Baxter speaks of his “great ministerial skillfulness in the public explication and application of the Scriptures—so melting, so convincing, so powerful.”

A day of grace was nearing its sunset when Alleine entered upon his ministry. Within three years Cromwell was dead. Two years more and the bells at Taunton rang merrily to welcome the homecoming of Charles II and the restoration of monarchy (1660). But the happiness in Puritan hearts was short-lived. For the era when, as Philip Henry said, “A face of godliness was upon the nation,” was over and in 1662, by the infamous Act of Uniformity, 2,000 of the best ministers England ever had were cast out of their pulpits. Among the eighty-five or so ministers who suffered in this way in Somerset we find, as we might well expect, the names of George Newton and Joseph Alleine. But, though debarred from his pulpit, Alleine refused to be silenced. Indeed his wife tells us how, “laying aside all other studies because he accounted his time would be but short,” he increased his preaching activity: “I know that he hath preached fourteen times in eight days, and ten often, and six and seven ordinarily in these months.”

At length after surviving many threats Alleine received a summons on May 26th, 1663. The following night he appointed to meet his people “about one or two o’clock in the morning, to which they showed their readiness: there was of young and old many hundreds, he preached and prayed with them about three hours.” The next day he was thrown into prison at Ilchester. After a year he was released, but only to be confronted by the rigors of the Five Mile Act and the Conventicle Act. Though now declining in health, he nevertheless resumed preaching in secret until July 10th, 1666. On that evening whilst he was preaching on Psalm 147:20 to a gathering in a private house, the doors were battered open and he was again taken to prison. Once more he was released, and with undiminished spiritual energy he considered what he might yet do to further the Gospel of Christ. He would say to his wife as he rose in the morning, “Now we have one more day; here is one more for God, now let us live well this day, work hard for our souls, lay up much treasure in heaven this day, for we have but a few to live.” His wife tells us how, with true Puritan spirit, his thoughts turned to the possibility of missionary work in Wales or even in China. Never did the evangel of Jesus Christ burn more fervently in any English heart! But Alleine’s work was done, for his physical constitution never recovered from the hardships of his confinements and his body was sinking fast. On November 17th, 1668, at the age of thirty-four, God took him away from the evils yet to come, and aged George Newton stood by as his body was laid to rest in the chancel of the church which had once resounded with the ‘alarm’ of his calls to the unconverted.

This book embodies the substance of Alleine’s message and in so doing provides a true model of Puritan evangelism. Phraseology must differ from age to age and gifts from man to man, but here, we have no hesitation in saying, are the principles which must be present in any true presentation of the Gospel. More than one great evangelist has had his views molded by the following pages. George Whitefield, while still a student at Oxford, tells us in his Journals how Alleine’s Alarm ‘much benefited’ him. Charles Haddon Spurgeon records how, when he was a child, his mother would often read a piece of Alleine’s Alarm to them as they sat around the fire on a Sunday evening, and when brought under conviction of sin it was to this old book he turned. He wrote, “I remember when I used to awake in the morning, the first thing I took up was Alleine’s Alarm, or Baxter’s Call to the Unconverted. Oh those books, those books! I read and devoured them…. With his heart thus burning with the fire of Puritan divinity, Spurgeon was prepared to follow in the steps of Alleine and Whitefield.

Countless editions of this book have been issued since it first saw the light in 1671. Dr. Calamy wrote concerning it in 1702: “Multitudes will have cause for ever to be thankful for it. No book in the English tongue (the Bible only excepted) can equal it for the number that hath been dispersed there been twenty thousand sold under the title of the ‘Call’, or ‘Alarm’, and fifty thousand of the same under the title of the ‘Sure Guide to Heaven’, thirty thousand of which were sold at one impression.” As a remarkable illustration of the spiritual influence of this work we may mention one example. Towards the end of the eighteenth century the minister of a Highland congregation, a man more eminent for scholarship than evangelical fervor, was approached by a Society to translate the ‘Alarm’ into Gaelic. The book was thus passed into his hands and finding it suitable material for the pulpit he commenced to repeat the substance of its successive chapters to his congregation. The result, it is said, “was a widespread awakening, which long prevailed in the district of Nether Lorn.”

With the prayer that the substance of this book may again be sounded forth throughout our land and across the seas, we commend this book to the blessing of Him whose word is “quick and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword.” “All flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withers, and the flower of it falls away: But the word of the Lord endures forever. And this is the word which by the gospel is preached to you” (Heb. 4:12; I Pet. 1:24–25).

INTRODUCTION
An Earnest Invitation
To Sinners To Turn To God

EARLY BELOVED, I gladly acknowledge myself a debtor to you, and am concerned, as I would be found a good steward of the household of God, to give to every one his portion. But the physician is most concerned for those patients whose case is most doubtful and hazardous and the father’s pity is especially turned towards his dying child. So unconverted souls call for earnest compassion and prompt diligence to “pluck them as brands from the burning” (Jude 23). Therefore it is to them I shall first apply myself in these pages.

But from where shall I fetch my argument? With what shall I win them? Oh that I could tell! I would write to them in tears, I would weep out every argument, I would empty my veins for ink, I would petition them on my knees. Oh how thankful should I be if they would be prevailed with to repent and turn.

How long have I labored for you! How often would I have gathered you! This is what I have prayed for and studied for these many years, that I might bring you to God. Oh that I might now do it! Will you yet be entreated?

But, O Lord, how insufficient I am for this work. Alas, with what shall I pierce the scales of Leviathan, or make the heart feel that is hard as the nether millstone? Shall I go and speak to the grave, and expect the dead will obey me and come forth? Shall I make an oration to the rocks, or declaim to the mountains, and think to move them with arguments? Shall I make the blind to see? From the beginning of the world was it not heard that a man opened the eyes of the blind (John 9:32). But, O Lord, You can pierce the heart of the sinner. I can only draw the bow at a venture, but may You direct the arrow between the joints of the harness. Slay the sin, and save the soul of the sinner that casts his eyes on these pages.

There is no entering into heaven but by the strait passage of the second birth; without holiness you shall never see God (Heb. 12:14). Therefore give yourselves unto the Lord now. Set yourselves to seek Him now. Set up the Lord Jesus in your hearts, and set Him up in your houses. Kiss the Son (Ps. 2:12) and embrace the tenders of mercy; touch His scepter and live; for why will you die? I do not beg for myself, but would have you happy. This is the prize I run for. My soul’s desire and prayer for you is, that you may be saved (Rom. 10:1).

I beseech you to permit a friendly plainness and freedom with you in your deepest concern. I am not dressing the dish with eloquence in order to please you. These lines are upon a weighty errand indeed—to convince, and convert, and save you. I am not baiting my hook with rhetoric, nor fishing for your applause, but for your souls. My work is not to please you, but to save you; nor is my business with your fancies, but with your hearts. If I have not your hearts, I have nothing. If I were to please your ears, I would sing another song. If I were to preach myself, I would steer another course. I could then tell you a smoother tale; I would make pillows for you and speak peace, for how can Ahab love this Micaiah, that always prophesies evil concerning him? (I Kings 22:8). But how much better are the wounds of a friend, than the fair speeches of the harlot, who flatters with her lips, till the dart strike through the liver? (Prov. 7:21–23; 6:26). If I were to quiet a crying infant, I might sing him into a happier mood, or rock him asleep; but when the child is fallen into the fire, the parent takes another course; he will not try to still him with a song or trifle. I know, if we succeed not with you, you are lost. If we cannot get your consent to arise and come away, you will perish for ever. No conversion, no salvation! I must get your good-will, or leave you miserable.

But here the difficulty of my work again occurs to me. O Lord, choose my stones out of the brook (I Sam. 17:40, 45). I come in the name of the Lord of hosts, the God of the armies of Israel. I come forth, like the stripling David against Goliath, to wrestle, not with flesh and blood, but with “principalities and powers, and rulers of the darkness of this world” (Eph. 6:12). This day let the Lord smite the Philistines, spoil the strong man of his armor, and give me the captives out of his hand. Lord, choose my words, choose my weapons for me. And when I put my hand into the bag, and take out a stone and sling it, may God carry it to the mark, and make it sink, not into the forehead, but into the heart of the unconverted sinner, and smite him to the ground as He did to Saul of Tarsus (Acts 9:4).

Some of you do not know what I mean by conversion, and in vain shall I attempt to persuade you to that which you do not understand. Therefore for your sakes I will show what conversion is.

Others cherish secret hopes of mercy, though they continue as they are. For them I must show the necessity of conversion.

Others are likely to harden themselves with a vain conceit that they are converted already. To them I must show the marks of the unconverted.
Others, because they feel no harm, fear none, and so sleep as upon the top of a mast. To them I shall show the misery of the unconverted. Others sit still, because they do not see the way of escape. To them I shall show the means of conversion. And finally, for the quickening of all, I shall close with the motives to conversion.
CHAPTER ONE
Mistakes About Conversion

THE DEVIL has made many counterfeits of conversion, and cheats one with this, and another with that. He has such craft and artifice in his mystery of deceits that, if it were possible, he would deceive the very elect. Now, that I may cure the ruinous mistake of some who think they are converted when they are not, as well as remove the troubles and fears of others who think they are not converted when they are, I shall show you the nature of conversion, both what it is and what it is not. We will begin with the negative.

Conversion is not the taking upon us the profession of Christianity. Christianity is more than a name. If we will hear Paul, it does not lie in word, but in power (I Cor. 4:20). If to cease to be Jews and pagans, and to put on the Christian profession, had been true conversion—as this is all that some would have to be understood by it—who better Christians than they of Sardis and Laodicea? These were all Christians by profession, and had a name to live only; but because they had a name, they are condemned by Christ, and threatened to be rejected (Rev. 3:14–16). Are there not many that name the name of the Lord Jesus, that do not depart from iniquity (II Tim. 2:19), and profess they know God, but in works deny Him? (Titus 1:16). And will God receive these for true converts? What! converts from sin, when they still live in sin? It is a visible contradiction. Surely, if the lamp of profession would show you the nature of conversion, both what it is not, and what it is. We will begin with the negative.

Conversion is not putting on the badge of Christ. Ananias and Sapphira, and Simon Magus were baptized as well as the rest. How many make a mistake here, deceiving and being deceived, dreaming that effectual grace is necessarily tied to the external administration of baptism, so that every baptized person is regenerated, not only sacramentally, but really and properly. Hence men fancy that because they were regenerated when baptized, they need no farther work. But if this were so, then all that have been baptized must necessarily be saved, because the promise of pardon and salvation is made to conversion and regeneration (Acts 3:19; Mat. 19:28). And indeed, were conversion and baptism the same, then men would do well to carry but a certificate of their baptism when they died, and upon sight of this there were no doubt of their admission into Heaven.

In short, if there is nothing more to conversion, or regeneration, than to be baptized, this will fly directly in the face of that Scripture, Mat. 7:13–14, as well as multitudes of others. If this is true, we shall no more say, “Strait is the gate, and narrow is the way” for if all that are baptized are saved, the door is exceeding wide, and we shall henceforth say, “Wide is the gate, and broad is the way that leads to life.” If this is true, thousands may go in abreast; and we will no more teach that the righteous are scarcely saved, or that there is need of such a stir in taking the kingdom of heaven by violence, and striving to enter in (I Pet. 4:18; Mat. 11:12; Luke 13:24). Surely, if the way be so easy as many suppose, that little more is necessary than to be baptized and to cry out, “Lord, have mercy”, we need not put ourselves to such seeking, and knocking, and wrestling, as the Word requires in order to salvation. Again, if this is true, we shall no more say, “Few there be that find it”; we will rather say, “Few there be that miss it.” We shall no more say, that of the many that are called, only “few are chosen” (Mat. 22:14), and that even of the professing Israel but a remnant shall be saved (Rom. 9:27). If this doctrine is true, we shall no more say with the disciples, “Who then shall be saved?” but rather, “Who then shall not be saved?” Then, if a man be baptized, though he is a fornicator, or a raider or covetous, or a drunkard, yet he shall inherit the kingdom of God! (I Cor. 5:11 and 6:9, 10).

But some will reply, “Such as these, though they received regenerating grace in baptism, are since fallen away, and must be renewed again, or else they cannot be saved.”

I answer, I. There is an infallible connection between regeneration and salvation, as we have already shown. 2. Then man must be again born again, which carries a great deal of absurdity in its face. We might as well expect men to be twice born in nature as twice born in grace! 3. But, and above all, this grants the thing I contend for, that whatever men do or pretend to receive in baptism, if they are found afterwards to be grossly ignorant, or profane, or formal, without the power of godliness, they “must be born again” (John 3:7) or else be shut out of the kingdom of God. So then they must have more to plead for themselves than their baptismal regeneration.

Well, in this you see all are agreed, that, be it more or less that is received in baptism, if men are evidently unsanctified, they must be renewed by a thorough and powerful change, or else they cannot escape the damnation of hell. "Be not deceived; God is not mocked." Whether it be your baptism, or whatever else you pretend, I tell you from the living God, that if any of you be a prayerless person, or a scoffer, or a lover of evil company (Prov. 13:20), if you are not a holy, strict, and self-denying Christian, you cannot be saved (Heb. 12:14; Mat. 15:14).

Conversion does not lie in moral righteousness. This does not exceed the righteousness of the Scribes and Pharisees, and therefore cannot bring us to the kingdom of God (Mat. 5:20). Paul, while unconverted, as regards the righteousness which is in the law, was blameless (Phil. 3:6). The Pharisee could say, "I am no extortioner, adulterer, unjust", etc. (Luke 18:11). You must have something more than all this to show, or else, however you may justify yourself, God will condemn you. I do not condemn morality, but I warn you not to rest in it. Piety includes morality, as Christianity does humanity, and as grace does reason but we must not divide the tables.

Conversion does not consist, in an external conformity to the rules of piety. It is manifest that men may have a form of godliness, without the power (II Tim. 3:5). Men may pray long (Mat. 23:14), and fast often (Luke 18:12), and hear gladly (Mark 6:20), and be very forward in the service of God, though costly and expensive (Isa. 1:11), and yet be strangers to conversion. They must have more to plead for themselves than that they go to church, give alms, and make use of prayer, to prove themselves sound converts. There is no outward service but a hypocrite may do it, even to the giving of all his goods to feed the poor, and his body to be burned (I Cor. 13:3).

Conversion is not the mere chaining up of corruption by education, human laws or the force of affliction. It is too common and easy to mistake education for grace. But if this were enough, who a better man than Jehoash? While Jehoiada, his uncle, lived, he was very forward in God's service, and calls upon him to repair the house of the Lord (II Kings 12:2, 7). But here was nothing more than good education all this while. For when his good tutor was taken away he appears to have been but a wolf chained up, and he falls into idolatry.

In short, conversion does not consist in illumination or conviction or in a superficial change or partial reformation. An apostate may be an enlightened man (Heb. 6:4), and a Felix tremble under conviction (Acts 24:25), and a Herod do many things (Mark 6:20). It is one thing to have sin alarmed only by convictions, and another to have it crucified by converting grace. Many, because they have been troubled in conscience for their sins, think well of their case, miserably mistaking conviction for conversion. With these, Cain might have passed for a convert, who ran up and down the world like a man distracted, under the rage of a guilty conscience, till he stifled it with building and business. Others think that because they have given up their riotous ways, and are broken off from evil company or some particular lust, and are reduced to sobriety and civility, they are now real converts. They forget that there is a vast difference between being sanctified and civilized. They forget that many seek to enter into the kingdom of heaven, and are not far from it, and arrive to the almost of Christianity, and yet fall short at last. While conscience holds the whip over them, many will pray, hear, read, and forbear their delightful sins. But no sooner is the lion asleep than they are at their sins again. Who have been more religious than the Jews when God's hand was upon them? Yet as soon as the affliction was over, then they forgot God. You may have forsaken a troublesome sin, and have escaped the gross pollutions of the world, and yet in all this not have changed your carnal nature.

You may take a crude mass of lead and mold it into the more comely proportion of a plant, and then into the shape of an animal, and then into the form and features of a man; but all the time it is still lead. So a man may pass through various transmutations, from ignorance to knowledge, from profanity to civility, then to a form of religion, and all this time he is still carnal and unregenerate, his nature remains unchanged.

Hear then, poor sinners, hear if you would live. Why should you wilfully deceive yourselves, or build your hopes upon the sand? I know that he will find hard work that goes to pluck away your hopes. It cannot but be unpleasant to you, and truly it is not pleasing to me. I set about it as a surgeon when about to cut off a mortified limb from his beloved friend, which of necessity he must do, though with an aching heart. But understand me, beloved, I am only taking down the ruinous house, which otherwise will speedily fall of itself and bury you in the ruins, that I may build it fair, strong, and firm for ever. The hope of the wicked shall perish (Proverbs 11:7). And had you not better, sinner, let the Word convince you now in time, and let go your false and self-deluding hopes, than have death open your eyes too late, and find yourself in the fires of Hell before you are aware? I should be a false and faithless shepherd if I should not tell you. You who have built your hopes upon no better grounds than these before mentioned are yet in your sins. Let conscience speak. What is it that you have to plead for yourselves? Is it that you wear Christ's livery; that you bear His name; that you are a member of the visible church; that you have knowledge in the points of religion, are civilized, perform religious duties, are just in your dealings, have been troubled in conscience for your sins? I tell you from the Lord, these pleas will never be accepted at God's bar. All this, though good in itself, will not prove you converted, and so will not be sufficient for your salvation. O look to it, and resolve to turn speedily and entirely. Study your own hearts; do not rest till God has made thorough work with you; for you must be recreated as another person, or else you are lost.

But if these persons come short of conversion, what shall I say of the profane person? It may be he will scarcely cast his eyes on, or lend his ear to this discourse but if there be any such reading, or within hearing, he must know from the Lord that made him, that he is far from the kingdom of God. May a man keep company with the wise virgins, and yet be shut out; and shall not a companion of fools much more be destroyed? May a man be true in his dealings, and yet not be justified before God? What then will become of you, O wretched man, whose conscience tells you that you are false in your trade and false to your word? If men may be enlightened and brought to the external performance of holy duties, and yet go down to perdition for resting in them and sitting down on this side of conversion, what will become of you, miserable families that live without God in the world? What will become of you, O wretched sinners, with whom God is scarcely in all your thoughts; that are so ignorant that you cannot pray, or so careless that you will not? O h repent and be converted, break off your sins by righteousness. Away to Christ for pardoning and renewing grace. Give up yourselves to Him, to walk with Him in holiness, or you shall never see God. O that you would heed the warnings of God! In His name I once more admonish you. Turn at my reproof. Forsake the foolish, and live. Be sober, righteous, and godly. “Cleanse your hands, sinners; purify your hearts, double-minded. Cease to do evil, learn to do well” (Prov. 1:23; 9:6; Tít. 2:12; Js. 4:8; Isa. 1:16–17). But if you will go on, you must die.
CHAPTER TWO

The Nature Of Conversion

DARE not leave you with your eyes half open, like the one that “saw men as trees walking.” The Word is profitable for doctrine as well as reproof. And therefore, having thus far conducted you by the shelves and rocks of so many dangerous mistakes, I would guide you at length into the haven of truth.

Conversion then, in short, lies in the thorough change both of the heart and life. I shall briefly describe it in its nature and causes.

1. The Author of conversion is the Spirit of God, and therefore it is called “the sanctification of the Spirit” (II Thes. 2:13) and “the renewing of the Holy Ghost” (Tit. 3:5). This does not exclude the other persons in the Trinity, for the apostle teaches us to bless the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who “has begotten us again unto a lively hope’ (I Pet. 1:3). And Christ is said to “give repentance unto Israel” (Acts 5:31); and is called the “everlasting Father” (Is. 9:6) and the “seed,” and, “the children which God has given Him” (Heb. 2:13). Yet this work is principally ascribed to the Holy Ghost, and so we are said to be “born of the Spirit” (Jn. 3:5–6).

So then, conversion is a work above man’s power. We are “born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God” (Jn. 1:13). Never think you can convert yourself. If ever you would be savingly converted, you must despair of doing it in your own strength. It is a resurrection from the dead (Eph. 2:1), a new creation (Gal. 6:15; Eph. 2:10), a work of absolute omnipotence (Eph. 1:19). Are not these out of the reach of human power? If you have no more than you had by your first birth, a good nature, a meek and chaste temper etc., you are a stranger to true conversion. This is a supernatural work.

2. The efficient cause of conversion is both internal and external.

(1). The internal cause is free grace alone. “Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but of his mercy he saved us,” and “by the renewing of the Holy Spirit” (Tit. 3:5). “Of his own will He fathered us” (James 1:18). We are chosen and called unto sanctification, not for it (Eph. 1:4).

God finds nothing in man to turn His heart, but enough to turn His stomach. He finds enough to provoke His loathing, but nothing to excite His love. Look back upon yourself, O Christian! Reflect upon your swinish nature, the spiritual filthiness of your flesh, your once beloved mire (II Pet. 2). Behold your moral slime and corruption. Do not your own clothes abhor you? (Job 9:31). How then should holiness and purity love you? Be astonished, O heavens, at this be moved, O earth. Who but must needs cry, Grace! Grace! (Zech. 4:7). Never think you should be doing nothing but praising and admiring God wherever you are. How can you forget such grace, or pass it over with a slight and formal mention? What but free grace could move God to love you, unless enmity could do it, unless deformity could do it? How affectionately Peter lifts up his hands: “Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus, who of his abundant mercy hath begotten us again.” How feelingly does Paul magnify the free mercy of God in it: “God who is rich in mercy, for his great love with which he loved us, has quickened us together with Christ. By grace are you saved” (Eph. 2:4–5).

(2). The external cause is the merit and intercession of the blessed Jesus. He has obtained gifts for the rebellious (Ps. 68:18), and through Him it is that God works in us that which is well-pleasing in His sight (Heb. 13:21). Through Him are all spiritual blessings bestowed upon us in heavenly places (Eph. 1:3). He intercedes for the elect that believe not (Jn. 17:20). Every convert is the fruit of His travail. Never was an infant born into the world with that difficulty which Christ endured for us. All the pains that He suffered on the cross were our birth-pains. He is made sanctification to us (I Cor. 1:30). He sanctified Himself, that is, set apart Himself as a sacrifice, that we might be sanctified (John 17:19). We are sanctified through the offering of His body once for all (Heb. 10:10).

It is nothing, then, but the merit and intercession of Christ, that prevails with God to bestow on us converting grace. If you are a new creature, you know to whom you owe it: to Christ’s pangs and prayers. The foal does not more naturally run after the dam, nor the suckling to the breast, than a believer to Jesus Christ. And where else should you go? If any in the world can show for your heart what Christ can, let them do it. Does Satan claim you? Does the world court you? Does sin sue for your heart? Why, were these crucified for you? Christian, love and serve your Lord while you have a being.

3. The instrument of conversion is personal and real.

First, the personal instrument is the ministry. “In Christ Jesus I have begotten you through the gospel” (I Cor. 4:15). Christ’s ministers are they that are sent to open men’s eyes, and to turn them to God (Acts 26:18). Unthankful world! Little do you know what you are doing when you are persecuting the messengers of the Lord. These are they whose business it is, under Christ, to save you. “Whom have you reproached and blasphemed?” (Isa. 37:23). These are the servants of the most high God that show unto you the way of salvation (Acts 16:17). And do you so repay them, foolish and unwise ones? (Deut. 32:6). Sons of ingratitude, against whom do you sport yourselves? These are the instruments that God uses to convert and save sinners, and do you revile your physicians, and throw your pilots overboard? “Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do.”

Secondly, the real instrument is the Word. We are begotten by the word of truth. It is this that enlightens the eye, that converts the soul (Ps. 19:7, 8), that makes us wise to salvation (II Tim. 3:15). This is the incorruptible seed by which we are born again (I Pet. 1:23). If we are washed, it is by the Word (Eph. 5:26). If we are sanctified, it is through the truth (Jn. 17:17). This generates faith, and regenerates us (Rom. 10:17; James 1:18).

Saints of God, how you should love the Word, for by this you have been converted! You that have felt its renewing power, make much of it while you live; be ever thankful for it. Tie it about your neck, write it upon your heart, lay it in your bosom. When you go, let it lead you; when you sleep, let it keep you; when you wake, let it talk with you (Prov. 6:21–22). Say with the Psalmist, “I will never forget Your precepts, for by them You have quickened me” (Ps. 119:93). You that are unconverted, read the Word with diligence; flock to where it is powerfully preached. Pray for the coming of the Spirit in the Word. Come from your knees to the sermon, and come from the sermon to your knees. The sermon does not prosper because it is not watered by prayers and tears, nor covered by meditation.

4. The final cause or end of conversion is man’s salvation, and God’s glory. We are chosen “through sanctification to salvation” (II Thes. 2:13), called that we “might be glorified” (Rom. 8:30), but especially that God might be glorified (Isa. 60:21), that we should show forth His praises (I Pet. 2:9), and be fruitful in good works (Col. 1:10).

Christian, do not forget the end of your calling. Let your light shine, let your lamp burn, let your fruits be good and many and in season (Ps. 1:3). Let all your designs fall in with God’s, that He may be magnified in you (Phil. 1:20).

5. The subject of conversion is the elect sinner, and that in all his parts and powers, members and mind. Whom God has predestinated, those only He calls (Rom. 8:30). None are drawn to Christ by their calling, nor come to Him by believing, but only His sheep, those whom the Father has given Him (Jn. 6:37, 44). Effectual calling runs parallel with eternal election (II Pet. 1:10).

You begin at the wrong end if you first dispute about your election. Prove your conversion, and then never doubt your election. If you cannot yet prove it, set upon a present and thorough turning. Whatever God’s purposes be, which are secret, I am sure His promises are plain. How desperately do rebels argue, saying, “If I am elected I shall be saved, do what I will. If not, I shall be condemned, do what I can.” Perverse sinner, will you begin where you should end? Is not the word before you? What does it say? “Repent and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out” (Acts 3:19). “If you ... mortify the deeds of the body and you shall live” (Rom. 8:13). “Believe and be saved” (Acts 16:31). What can be plainer? Do not stand still disputing about your election, but set to repenting and believing. Cry to God for converting grace. Revealed things belong to you; in these busy yourself. It is just, as one well said, that they who will not feed on the plain food of the Word should be choked with the bones. Whatever God’s purposes may be, I am sure His promises are true. Whatever the decrees of Heaven may be, I am sure that if I repent and believe I shall be saved; and that if I do not repent, I shall be condemned. Is not this plain ground for you; and will you yet run upon the rocks?

More particularly, this change of conversion extends to the whole man. A carnal person may have some shreds of good morality, but he is never good throughout the whole cloth. Conversion is not a repairing of the old building, but it takes all down, and erects a new structure. It is not the sewing on a patch of holiness. No, but with the true convert holiness is woven into all his powers, principles and practice. The sincere Christian is quite a new fabric, from the foundation to the top-stone. He is a new man, a new creature; all things are become new (II Cor. 5:17). Conversion is a deep work, a heart work. It makes a new man in a new world. It extends to the whole man, to the mind, to the members, to the motions of the whole life.

Conversion Extends To The Mind

Conversion turns the balance of the judgment, so that God and His glory outweigh all carnal and worldly interests. It opens the eye of the mind, and makes the scales of its native ignorance fall off, and turns men from darkness to light. The man that before saw no danger in his condition, now concludes himself lost and for ever undone (Acts 2:37) unless he is renewed by the power of grace. He that formerly thought there was little hurt in sin, now comes to see it to be the chief of evils. He sees the unreasonableness, the unrighteousness, the deformity and the filthiness of sin; so that he is frightened with it, loathes it, dreads it, flees from it, and even abhors himself for it (Rom. 7:15; Job 42:6; Ezek. 36:31). He that could see little sin in himself, and could find no matter for confession, now sees the rottenness of his heart, the desperate and deep pollution of his whole nature. He cries, "Unclean! Unclean! Lord, purge me with hyssop, wash me thoroughly, create in me a clean heart." He sees himself altogether filthy, corrupt both root and branch (Ps. 14:3; Mat. 7:17–18). He writes unclean upon all his parts, and powers, and performances (Isa. 64:6; Rom. 7:18). He discovers the filthy corners that he was never aware of, and sees the blasphemy, and theft, and murder, and adultery, that is in his heart, of which before he was ignorant. Until now he saw no form nor comeliness in Christ, no beauty that he should desire Him. But now he takes holiness as the stomach does the loathed medicine, which a man will take rather than die, but as the hungry man does his beloved food. No time passes so sweetly with him, when he is himself, as that which he spends in the exercises of holiness. These are both his aliment and element, the desire of his eyes and the joy of his heart.
The Nature of Conversion

Put it to your conscience whether you are such a one. O happy one, if this be your case! But see that you are thorough and impartial in the search.

Conversion alters the intentions of the will. Now the converted one has new ends and designs. He now intends God above all, and desires and designs nothing in all the world, so much as that Christ may be magnified in him. He counts himself more happy in this than in all that the earth could yield, that he may be serviceable to Christ, and bring Him glory. This is the mark he aims at, that the name of Jesus may be great in the world.

Now, according to this new light, the man is of another mind, another judgment, than he was before. Now God is all with him, he has none in heaven nor in earth like Him; he truly prefers Him before all the world. His is favor is his life, the light of H is countenance is more than corn and wine and oil— the good that he formerly sought, that he set his heart on (Ps. 4:6–7). A hypocrite may come to yield a general assent that God is the chief good; indeed, the wiser heathens, some few of them, have deliberately resolved that Christ is his best choice, and not merely forced to Christ by the storm, nor does he take Christ for bare necessity, but he comes freely. His choice is not made in a fright, as with the terrified conscience, or the dying sinner that will seemingly do anything for Christ, but only takes Christ rather than Hell. He deliberately resolves that Christ is his best choice, and would rather have Him than all the good of this world, might he enjoy it while he would (Phil 1:23). Again, he takes holiness for his path; he does not out of mere necessity submit to it, but he likes it and loves it. "I have chosen the way of Your precepts" (Ps. 119:173). He takes God's testimonies not as his bondage, but his heritage; yea, heritage forever. He counts them not his burden, but his bliss; not his cords, but his cordials (I Jn. 5:3; Ps. 119:14, 16, 47). He does not only bear, but takes up Christ's yoke. He takes not holiness as the stomach does the loathed medicine, which a man will take rather than die, but as the hungry man does his beloved food. No time passes so sweetly with him, when he is himself, as that which he spends in the exercises of holiness. These are both his aliment and element, the desire of his eyes and the joy of his heart.

Reader, do you read this without asking yourself whether it be so with you? Pause a while, and examine yourself.

The choice is also changed. He pitches upon God as his blessedness, and upon Christ and holiness as means to bring him to God. He chooses Jesus for his Lord. He is not merely forced to Christ by the storm, nor does he take Christ for bare necessity, but he comes freely. His choice is not made in a fright, as with the terrified conscience, or the dying sinner that will seemingly do anything for Christ, but only takes Christ rather than Hell. He deliberately resolves that Christ is his best choice, and would rather have Him than all the good of this world,
How warily does he walk, lest he should tread upon a snare! He looks in front, and behind: he has his eye upon his heart, and is often casting it over his shoulder, lest he should be overtaken with sin. It kills his heart to think of losing God's favor; this he dreads as his only undoing. No thought pains him so much as to think of parting with Christ.

His love runs in a new course. “My Love was crucified,” says Ignatius, that is, my Christ. “This is my beloved,” says the spouse (Song of S. 5:16). How often does Augustine pour his love upon Christ! He can find no beloved,” says Augustine for his love upon Christ! He can find no words sweet enough: “Let me see You, O Light of mine eyes. Come, O Joy of my spirit; Let me behold You, O Gladness of my heart. Let me love You, O Life of my soul. Let me find You, O Desire of my heart; let me hold comfort, O my God, my life, and the whole glory of my soul. Appear to me, O my great delight, my sweet Gladness of my heart. Let me love You, O Life of my eyes. Come, O Joy of my spirit; Let me behold You, O Heavenly Bridegroom. Let me possess You” [from Augustine’s Confessions].

The converted one’s sorrows have now a new vent (II Cor. 7:9–10). The view of his sins, the sight of Christ crucified, that could scarcely stir him before, now how much do they affect his heart!

His hatred boils, his anger burns against sin. He has no patience with himself; he calls himself fool, and beast, and thinks any name too good for himself, when his indignation is stirred up against sin (Ps. 73:22; Prov. 30:2). He could once wallow in it with much pleasure; now he loathes the thought of returning to it as much as of licking up the filthiest vomit.

Commune then with your own heart, and attend to the general current of your affections, whether they are towards God in Christ above all other concerns. Indeed, sudden and strong motions of the affections are often found in hypocrites, especially where the natural temperament is warm. And contrariwise, the sanctified themselves are often without conscious stirring of the affections, where the temperament is more slow, dry, and dull. The great inquiry is, whether the judgment and will are steadily determined for God above all other good, real or apparent. If so, and if the affections do sincerely follow their choice and conduct, though it be not so strongly and feelingly as is to be desired, there is no doubt but the change is saving.

Conversion Transforms The Members

These that before were the instruments of sin, are now become the holy utensils of Christ’s living temple. He that before dishonored his body, now possesses his vessel in sanctification and honor, in temperance, chastity, and sobriety, and dedicates it to the Lord.

The eye, that was once a wandering eye, a wanton eye, a haughty, a covetous eye, is now employed, as Mary’s, in weeping over its sins, in beholding God in His works, in reading His Word, or in looking for objects of mercy and opportunities for His service.

The ear, that was once open to Satan’s call, and that relished nothing so much as filthy, or at least frothy talk, and the laughter of fools, is now bored to the door of Christ’s house, and open to His disciples. It now says, “Speak, LORD, for your servant hears” (I Sam. 3:9). It waits for HIs words as the rain, and relishes them more than the appointed food (Job 23:12), more than the honey and the honeycomb (Ps. 19:10).

The head, that was full of worldly designs, is now filled with other matters, and set on the study of God’s will, and the man employs his head, not so much about his gain as about his duty. The thoughts and cares that fill his head are, principally, how he may please God and flee sin.

His heart, that was a sty of filthy lusts, is now become an altar of incense, where the fire of divine love is ever kept burning, and from which the daily sacrifice of prayer and praise, and the sweet incense of holy desires, ejaculations and prayers, are continually ascending.

The mouth has become a well of life; his tongue as choice silver, and his lips feed many. Now the salt of grace has seasoned his speech, has eaten out the corruption (Col. 4:6), and cleansed the man from his filthy behavior, flattery, boasting, railing, lying, swearing, backbiting, that once came like flashes proceeding from the hell that was in the heart (James 3:6). The throat, that once was an open sepulchre (Rom 3:13), now sends forth the sweet breath of prayer and holy discourse, and the converted one speaks in another tongue, and is never so well as when talking of God and Christ, and the matters of another world. His mouth brings forth wisdom; his tongue has become the silver trumpet of his Maker’s praise, his glory and the best member that he has.

Now here you will find the hypocrite sadly deficient. He speaks, it may be, like an angel, but he has a covetous eye, or the gain of unrighteousness is in his hand. His hand is white, but his heart is full of rottenness (Mat. 23:27), full of cares that have not been mortified, a very oven of lust, a shop of pride, the seat of malice. It may be, with Nebuchadnezzar’s image, he has a golden head—a great deal of knowledge; but he has feet of clay—his affections are worldly, he minds earthly things, and his way and walk are sensual and carnal. The work is not thorough with him.

Conversion Completely Changes The Life And Practice

The new man takes a new course (Eph. 2:2–3). His conversation is in heaven (Phil. 3:20). No sooner does Christ call by effectual grace but the new convert instantly becomes a follower of Him. When God has given the new heart, and written H is law in his mind, from that time on he walks in H is statutes and keeps H is judgments.

Though sin may dwell in him—truly a wearisome and unwelcome guest—yet it has no more dominion over him. He now has his fruit unto holiness. Though he makes many a blot, yet the law and life of Jesus is what he looks at as his pattern, and he has an unfeigned respect to all God’s commandments. He makes conscience even of little sins and little duties. His is very infirmities which he cannot help, though he would, are his soul’s burden, and are like dust in a man’s eye, which though but little, is not a little troublesome. (Reader, can you read this, and never stop to examine yourself?) The sincere convert is not one man at church and another at home. He is not a saint on his knees and a cheat in his shop. He will not tithe mint and cummin, and neglect mercy and judgment, and the weightier matters of the law. He does not pretend piety and neglect morality. But he turns from all his sins and keeps all God’s statutes, though not perfectly, except in desire and endeavor, yet sincerely, not allowing himself in the breach of any. Now he delights in the Word, and sets himself to prayer, and opens his hand and draws out his soul to the hungry. He breaks off his sins by righteousness, and his iniquities by showing mercy to the poor (Dan. 4:27). He has a good conscience willing in all things to live honestly (Heb. 13:18), and to keep himself without offence towards God and men.

Here again you find the unsoundness of many that take themselves for good Christians. They are partial in the law (Mal. 2:9), and take up the cheap and easy duties of religion, but they do not go through with the work. They are as a cake half-baked and half-raw. It may be you find them exact in their words, punctual in their dealings, and as for examining themselves and governing their hearts, to this they are strangers. You may see them duly at church, but if you follow them to their families, there you shall see little but thoughts of the world. If they have family duties, follow them to their closets, and there you shall find their souls are little looked after. It may be that they seem religious, but they do not bridle their tongues, and so all their religion is vain (James 1:26). It may be they come to closet and family prayer; but if you follow them to their shops, there you will find them in the habit of lying, or some fashionable way of deceit. Thus the hypocrite is not thorough in his obedience.

6. In conversion we turn from sin, Satan, the world, and from our own righteousness.

(1). We turn from sin. When a man is converted, he is forever at enmity with sin; yes, he is at enmity with all sin, but most of all with his own sins, and especially with his bosom sin. Sin is now the object of his indignation. His sin swells his sorrows. It is sin that pierces him and wounds him; he feels it like a thorn in his side, like a prick in his eyes. He groans and struggles under it, and not formally, but feelingly cries out, “Oh wretched man that I am!” (Rom. 7:24). He is not impatient of any burden so much as of his sin. If God should give him his choice, he would choose any affliction so that he might be rid of sin. He feels it like the cutting gravel in his shoes, pricking and paining him as he goes.

Before conversion he had light thoughts of sin. He cherished it in his bosom, as Uriah his lamb; it grew up together with him; as it were, it ate of his own meat and drank of his own cup, and lay in his bosom, and was to him a favorite. But when God opens his eyes by conversion, he throws it away with abhorrence, as a man would a loathsome toad, which in the dark he had hugged fast in his bosom, and thought it had been some pretty and harmless bird. When a man is savingly changed, he is deeply convinced not only of the danger, but also of the defilement of sin. Then how earnest is he with God to be purified! He loathes himself for his sins. He runs to Christ, and casts himself into the fountain set open for sin and for uncleanness. If he fall, what a stir is there to get all clean again! He has no rest till he flees to the Word, and washes and rubs and rinses in the infinite fountain, laboring to cleanse himself from all filthiness both of flesh and spirit.

The sound convert is heartily engaged against sin. He struggles with it; he wars against it. He is too often foiled, but he will never yield the cause, nor lay down the weapons, while he has breath in his body. He will make no peace; he will give no quarter. He can forgive his other enemies, he can pity them and pray for them; but here in the battle against his sins he is implacable, here he is set upon their extermination. He hunts as it were for the precious life of his sins, and his eye will not pity, his hand will not spare, though it be a right hand or a right eye. Be it a gainful sin, most delightful to his nature or the support of his esteem with worldly friends, yet he will rather throw his gain down the gutter, see his credit fail, or the flower of his pleasure wither in his hand, than he will allow himself in any known way of sin. He will grant no indulgence, he will give no toleration. He draws sword against sin wherever he meets it, and frowns upon it with this unwelcome salute, “Have I found you, my enemy?”

Reader, has conscience been at work while you have been looking over these lines? Have you pondered these things in your heart? Have you searched the book within, to see if these things be so? If not, read it again, and make your conscience speak, whether or not it is so with you. Have you crucified your flesh with its affections and lusts and not only confessed, but forsaken your sins. Are you done with all sin in your fervent desires, and the ordinary practice of every deliberate and wilful sin in your life? If not, you are still not converted. Does not conscience fly in your face as you read, and tell you that you live in a way of lying for your advantage? Do you not use deceit in your calling? Is there not some way of secret wantonness that you live in? Why then, do not deceive yourself. You are “in the gall of bitterness and a bundle of unrighteousness” (Acts 8:23).

Does your unbridled tongue, your indulgence of appetite, your wicked company, your neglect of prayer, of reading and hearing the Word, now witness against you, and say, “We are your works, and we will follow you?” Or, if I have not hit you right, does not the conscience within tell you, there is such and such a way that you know to be evil, that yet for some carnal respect you tolerate it in yourself? If this be the case, you are to this day unregenerate, and must be changed; else you will be forever condemned.

(2). We turn from Satan. Conversion binds this strong one, spoils his armor, casts out his goods, turns men from the power of Satan unto God. Before, as soon as the devil would hold up his finger to the sinner to call him to his wicked company, sinful games, and filthy delights, immediately he followed, “as an ox goes to the slaughter, or as a fool to the correction of the stocks, as the bird that hastens to the snare and knows not that it is for his life” (Prov. 7:22–23). No sooner would Satan bid him lie, but immediately he had it on his tongue. No sooner would Satan offer a wanton object, but he was stung with lust. If the devil says, “Away with these family duties,” then be sure they shall be rarely performed in his house. If the devil says, “Away with this strictness, this preciseness,” the unconverted one will keep far enough from it. If he tells him, “There is no need of these secret-duties,” he will go from day to day and scarcely perform them. But after he is converted he serves another Master, and takes quite another course. Then he goes and comes at Christ’s bidding. Satan may sometimes catch his foot in a trap, but he will no longer be a willing captive. He watches against the snares and baits of Satan, and studies to be acquainted with his devices. He is very suspicious of his plots, and is very jealous in what comes across him, lest Satan should have some design upon him. He wrestles against principalities and powers; he considers the messenger of Satan as a monster that has his head and his heart where his feet should be, and his feet kicking against Heaven, and everything out of place. The world that was formed to serve you has come up to rule you—the deceitful harlot has bewitched you with her enchantments, has made you bow down and serve her.

But converting grace sets all in order again, and puts God on the throne, and the world as his footstool. Then Christ is in the heart, and the world under the feet. “I am crucified to the world, and the world to me” (Gal. 6:14). Before this change, all the cry was, “Who will show us any (worldly) good?” but now he prays, “LORD, lift up the light of Your countenance upon me,” and let whoever will take the grain and wine (Ps. 4:6–7). Before conversion, his heart’s delight and content were in the world. Then the song was, “Soul, take your ease, eat, drink, and be merry; you have much goods laid up for many years” (Lk. 12:19). But now all this is withered, and there is no comeliness, that we should desire it. He tunes up with the sweet psalmist of Israel, “The LORd is the portion of my inheritance ... the lines are fallen to me in a fair place, and I have a goodly heritage” (Ps. 16:5–6). Nothing else can make him content. He has written vanity and vexation upon all his worldly enjoyments, and loss and dung upon all human excellences. He has life and immortality now in pursuit. He pants for grace and glory, and has a crown incorruptible in view. His heart is set in him to seek the Lord. He “first seeks the kingdom of God and His righteousness” (Mt. 6:33), and religion is no longer a casual matter with him, but his main care. Before, the world had the sway with him. He would do more for gain than godliness—more to please his friend or his flesh, than the God that made him; and God must stand by till the world was first served. But now all must stand by; he hates father and mother, and life, and all, in comparison of Christ.

Well then, pause a little, and look within. Does not this concern you? You pretend to be for Christ, but does not the world sway you? Do you not take more real delight and content in the world than in Him? Do you not find yourself more at ease when the world is in your mind and you are surrounded with carnal delights, than when retired to prayer and meditation in your room, or attending upon God’s Word and worship? There is no surer evidence of an unconverted state than to have the things of the world uppermost in our aim, love and estimation.

With the sound convert, Christ has the supremacy. How dear is He is name to him! How precious is His favor! The name of Jesus is engraved on his heart. Honor is but air, and laughter is but madness, and wealth has fallen like the idol Dagon before the ark, with hands and head broken off on the threshold. Once Christ is savingly revealed, all else falls before Him. Here is the pearl of great price to the true convert; here is his treasure; here is his hope. This is his glory, “My beloved is mine, and I am his.” O h, it is sweeter to him to be able to say, “Christ is mine,” than if he could say, “The kingdom is mine; the Indies are mine.”

(4). The true convert turns from his own righteousness. Before conversion, everyone seeks to cover himself with his own fig-leaves, and to make himself whole with his own duties. He is apt to trust in himself, and set up his own righteousness, and to reckon his counters for gold, and not to submit to the righteousness of God. But conversion changes his mind. Now he counts his own righteousness as filthy rags (Isa. 64:6). He casts it off, as a man would the verminous tatters of a nasty beggar. Now he is brought to poverty of spirit, complains of and condemns himself, and all his inventory is, “poor, and miserable, and wretched, and blind, and naked.” He sees a world of iniquity in his holy things, and calls his once-idealized righteousness but fish and lost; he would not for a thousand worlds be found in it. Now he begins to set a high price upon Christ's righteousness. He sees the need of Christ in every duty, to justify his person and sanctify his performances. He cannot live without Him; he cannot pray without Him. Christ must go with him, or else he cannot come into the presence of God; he leans upon Christ, and so bows himself in the house of his God. He sets himself down for a lost undone man without Him, for his life is hid in Christ, as the root of a tree spreads in the earth for stability and nourishment.

Before, the news of Christ was a stale and tasteless thing; but now, how sweet is Christ! Augustine could not relish his once-admired Cicero, because he could not find in his writings the name of Christ. How emphatically he cries, “O most sweet, most loving, most kind, most dear, most precious, most desired, most lovely, most fair One!” (Meditat. c. 37), all in a breath, when he speaks of and to Christ. In a word, the voice of the convert is, with the martyr, “N one but Christ.”

7. The true convert turns to God the Father, Son and Holy Spirit. The true convert takes as his all-sufficient and eternal blessedness the Persons of the Holy Trinity. A man is never truly sanctified till his heart be truly set upon God above all things, as his portion and chief good. These are the natural breathings of a believer's heart: “You are my portion.” “My soul shall make your boast in the Lord.” “My expectation is from Him; He only is my rock and salvation, my glory, the rock of my strength; my refuge is in God” (Ps. 119:57; Ps. 34:2; Ps. 62).

Would you be certain whether you are converted or not? Now let your soul and all that is within you attend to these questions:

Have you taken God for your happiness? Where does the desire of your heart lie? What is the source of your greatest satisfaction? Come, then, and with Abraham lift up your eyes eastward, and westward, and northward, and southward, and look around you; what is it that you would have in Heaven or on earth to make you happy? If God should give you your choice, as He did to Solomon, or should say to you, as Ahasuerus to Esther, “What is your petition, and what is your request, and it shall be granted to you?” what would you ask? Go into the gardens of pleasure, and gather all the fragrant flowers there, would these satisfy you? Go to the treasuries of mammon; suppose you may carry away as much as you desire. Go to the towers, to the trophies of honor. What do you think of being a man of renown, and having a name like the name of the great men of the earth? Would any of these, would all of these satisfy you, and make you to count yourself happy? If so, then certainly you are carnal and unconverted. If not, go farther; wade into the divine excellences, the store of His mercies, the hiding of His power, the depths unfathomable of His all-sufficiency. Does this suit you best and please you most? Do you say, “It is good to be here. Here will I pitch, here will I live and die”? Will you let all the world go rather than this? Then it is well between God and you; happy are you, happy indeed that you were ever born. If God can make you happy, you must be happy, for you have taken the Lord to be your God. Do you say to Christ as He says to us, “Your Father shall be my Father, and your God my God”? Here is the turning point. An unsound convert never takes up his rest in God. But it is converting grace that does the work, and so cures the fatal misery of the fall, by turning the heart from its idol to the living God. Now the soul says, “Lord, where shall I go? You have the words of eternal life” (Jn. 6:68). Here he centers, here he settles. It is the entrance of Heaven to him; he sees his interest in God. When he discovers this, he says, “Return to your rest, my soul, for the Lord has dealt bountifully with you” (Ps. 116:7). And he is even ready to breathe out Simeon’s song, “Lord, now let your servant depart in peace.” and says with Jacob, when his old heart revived at the welcome tidings, “It is enough” (Gen. 45:28). When he sees he has a God in covenant to go to, this is all his salvation, and all his desire (II Sam. 23:5).

Is this the case with you? Have you experienced this? If so, then “blessed are you of the Lord.” God has been at work with you; He has laid hold of your heart by the power of converting grace, or else you could never have done this.

More Particularly, In Conversion:

(1). We turn to Christ, the only Mediator between God and man (I Tim. 2:5). His work is to bring us to God (I Pet. 3:18). He is the way to the Father (John 14:6), the only plank on which we may escape, the only door by which we may enter (John 10:9). Conversion brings the soul to Christ to accept Him as the only means of life, as the only way, the only name given under heaven.
by which we may be saved. He does not look for salvation in any other but Him; he throws himself on Christ alone. The convinced sinner says, “H ere, and here alone, I will venture; and if I perish, I perish; if I die, I will die here. But, Lord do not let me perish under the eye of Your mercy. Entreat me not to leave You, or to return from following after You. Here I will throw myself; though You slay me, I will not go from the door.”

So the poor soul ventures on Christ and resolves to cling to Him. Before conversion, the man made light of Christ, minded his farm, friends, merchandise, more than Christ. But now Christ is to him as his necessary food, his daily bread, the life of his heart, the staff of his life. He is great desire is that Christ may be magnified in him. He is heart once said, as they to the spouse, “What is your beloved more than another?” (Song of S. 5:9). He found more sweetness in his merry company, wicked games, earthly delights, than in Christ. He took religion for a fancy. The talk of great enjoyments for Christians was to him but an idle dream. But now to him to live is Christ. He sets light by all that he before accounted precious, for now he values only the excellency of the knowledge of Christ.

All of Christ is accepted by the sincere convert. He loves not only the wages but the work of Christ, not only the benefits but the burden of Christ. He is willing not only to tread out the corn, but to draw under the yoke. He takes up the commands of Christ, yes, the cross of Christ.

The unsound convert takes Christ by halves. He is all for the salvation of Christ, but he is not for sanctification. He is for the privileges, but does not appropriate the person of Christ. He divides the offices and benefits of Christ. This is an error in the foundation. Whoever loves life, let him beware here. It is an undoing mistake, of which you have been often warned, and yet none is more common. Jesus is a sweet Name, but men do not love the Lord Jesus in sincerity. They will not accept the salvation of Christ as He intends it; they divide it here. Every man’s vote is for salvation from suffering, but they do not desire to be saved from sinning. They would have their lives saved, but still would have their lusts. Indeed, many divide here again; they would be content to have some of their sins destroyed, but they cannot leave the lap of Delilah, or divorce the beloved H erodias. They cannot be cruel to the right eye or right hand. O he is infinitely careful here; your soul depends upon it. The sound convert takes a whole Christ, and takes Him for all intents and purposes; without exceptions, without limitations, without reserve. He is willing to have Christ upon any terms; he is willing to have the dominion of Christ as well as deliverance by Christ. He says with Paul, “Lord, what will You have me to do?” Anything, Lord. He sends the blank for Christ to set down His own conditions.

(2). We turn to the laws, ordinances, and ways of Christ. The heart that once was set against these, and could not endure the strictness of these bonds, the severity of these ways, now falls in love with them, and chooses them as its rule and guide for ever.

God Works Four Things In Every Convert

God works four things in every sound convert, with reference to the laws and ways of Christ, by which you may come to know your state, if you will be faithful to your own souls. Therefore, keep your eyes upon your hearts as you go along.

Work 1: The judgment is brought to approve of God’s laws, ordinances, and ways, and to subscribe to them as most righteous and most reasonable. The mind is brought to like the ways of God, and the corrupt prejudices that were once against them as unreasonable and intolerable, are now removed. The understanding assents to them all as holy, just, and good (Rom. 7:12). How is David taken up with the excellences of God’s laws! How does he exaltate on their praises, both from their inherent qualities and admirable effects! (Ps. 19:8-10, etc.).

There is a two-fold judgment of the understanding, the absolute and the comparative. The absolute judgment is when a man thinks such a course best in general, but not for him, or not under his present circumstances. Now, a godly man’s judgment is for the ways of God, and that not only the absolute, but comparative judgment. He thinks them not only the best in general, but best for him. He looks upon the rules of religion not only as tolerable, but desirable yea, more desirable than gold, fine gold; yea, much fine gold.

H is judgment is fully determined that it is best to be holy, that it is best to be strict, that it is in itself the most eligible course, and that it is for him the wisest and most rational and desirable choice. Hear the godly man’s judgment; “I know, O God, that Your judgments are right; I love Your commandments above gold, yea, above fine gold; I esteem all Your precepts concerning all things to be right; and I hate every false way” (Ps. 119:127-128). Mark, he approves of all that God requires, and disapproves of all that He forbids. “Righteous, O God, and upright are Your judgments.” Your testimonies that You have commanded are righteous and very faithful. Your word is true from the beginning, and every one of Your righteous judgments endures forever (Ps. 119). See how readily and fully he subscribes; he declares his assent and consent to it, and all and every thing contained therein.

Work 2: The desire of the heart is to know the whole mind of Christ. He would not have one sin convert desires holiness for holiness' sake, and not merely for heaven's sake. He would not be satisfied with so much as might save him from hell, but desires the highest degree. Yet desires are not enough. What are your way and your course? Are the drift and scope of your life altered? Is holiness your pursuit, and religion your business? If not, you fall short of sound conversion.

Is This The Conversion That Is Necessary To Salvation?

And is this, which we have described, the conversion that is of absolute necessity to salvation? Then be informed that strait is the gate and narrow is the way that leads to life—that there are few that find it—that there is need of divine power to savingly convert a sinner to Jesus Christ.

Again, be exhorted, man, to examine yourself. What does conscience say? Does it begin to accuse? Does it not pierce you as you go? Is this your judgment, and this your choice, and this your way, that we have described? If so, then it is well. But does your heart condemn you, and tell you of a certain sin you are living in against your conscience? Does it not tell you there is such and such a secret way of wickedness that you wish to pursue such and such a duty that you make no conscience of?

Does not conscience carry you to your closet, and tell you how seldom prayer and reading are performed there? Does it not carry you to your family, and show you the neglect of God, and the souls of your children that are neglected there? Does not conscience lead you to your charge of God, and the souls of your children that are neglected there? Does not conscience tell you of a certain sin you are living in against your conscience? Does it not carry you into your secret chamber, and read there your condemnation?

Conscience, do your duty! In the name of the living God, I command you, discharge your office. Lay hold upon this sinner, fall upon him, arrest him, apprehend him, undeceive him. What! Will you flatter and soothe him while he lives in his sins? Awake, conscience! What do you mean, sleeper? What! Do you have no reproof? What! Shall this soul die in his careless neglect of God and of eternity, and you altogether hold your peace? What! Shall he go on still in his trespasses, and yet have peace? Conscience, rouse yourself and do your work. Now let the preacher in your bosom speak. Cry aloud, and spare not; lift up your voice like a trumpet. Let not the blood of his soul be required at your hands.
CHAPTER THREE
The Necessity Of Conversion

It may be you are ready to say, “What does this stir mean?” You are apt to wonder why I follow you with such earnestness, still ringing the same lesson in your ears, that you should repent and be converted. But I must say to you, as Ruth to Naomi, “Entreat me not to leave you, or to return from following after you.” Were it a matter of indifference, might you be saved as you are, I would gladly let you alone. But would you not have me concerned for you, when I see you ready to perish? As the Lord lives, before whom I am, I have not the least hope of seeing your face in heaven, except you be converted. I utterly despair of your salvation, except you will be prevailed with to thoroughly turn and give up yourself to God in holiness and newness of life. Has God said, “Except a man be born again he cannot see the kingdom of God,” and yet do you wonder why your ministers labor so earnestly for you? Do not think it strange that I am earnest with you to follow after holiness, and long to see the image of God upon you. Never did any, nor shall any, enter into heaven by any other way but this. The conversion described is not a high attainment of some advanced Christians, but every soul that is saved undergoes this change.

It was a saying of the noble Roman when he was hasting with corn to the city in the famine and the mariners were loath to set sail in foul weather, “It is necessary for us to sail— it is not necessary for us to live.” What is it that you count necessary? Is your bread necessary? Is your breath necessary? Then your conversion is much more necessary. Indeed, this is the one thing necessary. Your possessions are not necessary; you may sell all for the pearl of great price, and yet be a gainer by the purchase. Your life is not necessary; you may part with it for Christ, to infinite advantage. Your reputation is not necessary; you may be reproached for the name of Christ, and yet be happy; yes, you may be much more happy in reproach than in repute. But your conversion is necessary; your salvation depends upon it and is it not needful in so important a matter to take care? On this one point depends your making or marring to all eternity.

But I shall more particularly show the necessity of conversion in five things.

The Necessity Of Conversion

1. Without conversion your being is in vain. Is it not a pity you should be good for nothing, an unprofitable burden of the earth, a mere wart in the body of the universe? So you are, while unconverted, for you cannot answer the end of your being. Is it not for the divine pleasure that you are and were created? Did not God make you for Himself? Are you a man, and have you reason? Then consider how you came into being and why you exist. Behold God’s workmanship in your body, and ask yourself for what purpose did God rear this fabric? Consider the noble faculties of your heaven-born soul. To what end did God bestow these excellencies? Was it to no other end than that you should please yourself, and gratify your senses? Did God send men into the world, only like the swallows, to gather a few sticks and mud, and build their nests, and rear up their young, and then fly away? The very heathen could see farther than this. Are you so “fearfully and wonderfully made,” and do you not yet reason with yourself that it surely was for some noble and exalted end?

Poor man! Set your reason a little in the chair. Is it not a pity such a goodly fabric should be raised in vain? Verily you are in vain, except you are for God. It were better you had no being than not be for Him. Would you serve your end? You must repent and be converted; without this you are to no purpose; indeed, to bad purpose.

You are to no purpose. Unconverted man is like a choice instrument that has every string broken or out of tune. The Spirit of the living God must repair and tune it by the grace of regeneration, and sweetly move it by the power of actuating grace, or else your prayers will be but howlings, and all your service will make no music in the ears of the Most Holy. All your powers and faculties are so corrupt in your natural state that, except you be purged from dead works, you cannot serve the living God. An unsanctified man cannot work the work of God.

(1). He has no skill in it. He is altogether as unskillful in the work as in the word of righteousness. There are great mysteries in the practice as well as in the principles of godliness. Now the unregenerate do not know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven. You may as well expect him to read that never learned the alphabet or look for goodly music on the lute from one that never set his hand to an instrument, as that a natural man should do the Lord any pleasing service. He has first be taught of God (John 6:45), taught to pray (Luke 11:1) taught to profit (Isa. 48:17), taught to go (Hos. 11:3), or else he will be utterly at a loss.

(2). He has no strength for it. How weak is his heart!
weariness is it! (Mal. 1:13). He is without strength (Rom. 5:6), yea, dead in sin (Eph. 2:5).

(3). He has no mind to it. He desires not the knowledge of God's ways (Job 21:14). He does not know them, and he does not care to know them (Ps. 82:5). He knows not, neither will he understand.

(4). He has neither due instruments nor materials for it. A man may as well hew the marble without tools, or paint without colors or brushes, or build without materials, as perform any acceptable service without the graces of the Spirit, which are both the materials and instruments in the work. Almsgiving is not a service of God but of vain-glory, if it does not spring from love to God. What is the prayer of the lips without grace in the heart, but the carcass without life? What are all our confessions, unless they are exercises of godly sorrow and unfeigned repentance? What are our petitions, unless animated with holy desires and faith in the attributes and promises of God? What are our praises and thanksgiving, unless they spring from the love of God, and a holy gratitude and sense of God's mercies in the heart? So that a man may as well expect that trees should speak, or look for motion from the dead, as look for any service, holy and acceptable to God, from the unconverted. When the tree is evil, how can the fruit be good?

Also, without conversion you live to bad purpose. The unconverted soul is a very cage of unclean birds (Rev. 18:2), a grave full of corruption and rottenness (Mt. 23:27), a loathsome carcass full of crawling worms, and sending forth a most noxious stench in the nostrils of God (Ps. 14:3). O dreadful case! Do you not yet see a change to be needful? Would it not have grieved one to see the golden consecrated vessels of God's temple turned into quaffing bowls of drunkenness, and polluted with the idol's service? (Dan. 5:2–3). Was it such an abomination to the Jews when Antiochus set up the picture of a swine in the temple itself turned into a stable or a sty and to have had the holy of holies served like the house of Baal! This is just the case of the unregenerate. All your members are turned into instruments of unrighteousness, servants of Satan, and your inmost heart into a receptacle of uncleanness. You may see what kinds of guests are within by what come out; for, “out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, blasphemies” (Mt 15:19). This black troop shows what a hell there is within.

What an insufferable abuse it is, to see a heaven-born soul abased to such viliness; to see the glory of God's creation, the chief of the works of God, the lord of this lower world, eating husks with the prodigal! Was it such a lamentation to see those that did feed delicately sit desolate in the streets; and the precious sons of Zion, comparable to fine gold, esteemed as earthen pitchers; and those that were clothed in scarlet embrace dunghills? (Lam. 4:2, 5). And is it not much more fearful to see the only being that has immortality in this lower world and carries the stamp of God, become as a vessel wherein is no pleasure, and be put to the most sordid use? O h indignity intolerable! Better you were dashed in a thousand pieces, than continue to be abased to so vile a service.

Without Conversion, Man And The Whole Visible Creation Is In Vain

2. Not only man, but the whole visible creation is in vain without conversion. God has made all the visible creatures in heaven and earth for the service of man, and man only is the spokesman for all the rest. Man is, in the world, like the tongue to the body, which speaks for all the members. The other creatures cannot praise their Maker, except by dumb signs and hints to man that he should speak for them. Man is, as it were, the high priest of God's creation, to offer the sacrifice of praise for all his fellow-creatures. The Lord God expects a tribute of praise from all His works. Now, all the rest do bring in their tribute to man, and pay it by his hand. So then, if a man is false, and faithless, and selfish, God is robbed of all, and has no active glory from His works.

What a dreadful thought, that God should build such a world as this, and lay out such infinite power, and wisdom, and goodness on it, and all in vain! How dreadful that man should be guilty, at last, of robbing and spoiling Him of the glory of all! Oh think of this. While you are unconverted, all the offices of the creatures are in vain to you. Your food nourishes you in vain. The sun holds forth its light to you in vain. Your clothes warm you in vain. Your beast carries you in vain. In a word, the unwearied labor and continued travail of the whole creation, as to you, are in vain. The service of all the creatures that drudge for you, and yield forth their strength unto you, with which you should serve their Maker, is all but lost labor. Hence, “the whole creation groans” (Rom. 8:22) under the abuse of unsanctified men who pervert all things to the service of their lusts, quite contrary to the very end of their being.

3. Without conversion your religion is vain

All your religious performances will be but lost; for they can neither please God nor save your soul, which are the very ends of religion (Rom. 8:8; I Cor. 13:2–3). Though your services are ever so precious to you, yet God has no pleasure in them (Isa. 1:14; Mal. 1:10). Is not man's case dreadful if his sacrifices are as murders, and his prayers a breath of abomination? (Isa. 66:3; Prov. 28:9). Many under conviction think they will set upon mending, and that a few prayers and alms will set all right again. But as! While your hearts remain unsanctified your duties will not pass. How punctilious was Jeu! Yet all was rejected because his heart was not upright (II Kg. 10 compared with Hos. 1:4). How blameless was Paul! And yet, being unconverted, all was but loss (Phil. 3:6–7). Men think they do much in attending to God’s service, and are ready to set Him down so much their debtor; whereas their persons being unsanctified, their duties cannot be accepted.

Poor soul! Do not think when your sins pursue you, that a little praying and reforming your ways will pacify God. You must begin with your heart. If that is not renewed, you can no more please God than one who, having unspeakably offended you, should bring you the most loathsome thing to pacify you; or having fallen into the mire, should think with his filthy embraces to reconcile you.

It is a great misery to labor in the fire. The poets could not invent a worse hell for Sisyphus than to be ever toiling to get the stone up the hill, and then that it should presently roll down again and renew his labor. God threatens it as the greatest temporal judgment, that men should build and not inhabit, plant and not gather, and that their labors should be eaten up by strangers (Deut. 28:30, 38–41). Is it so great a misery to lose our common labors, to sow in vain, and to build in vain? How much more to lose our pains in religion—to pray, and hear, and fast in vain! This is an undoing and eternal loss. Be not deceived; if you go on in your sinful state, though you should spread forth your hands, God will hide His eyes; though you make many prayers, He will not hear (Isa. 1:15). If a man without skill set about our work, and spoil it in the doing, though he take much pains, we give him but small thanks. God will be worshipped after the due order, he shall have stripes rather than praise. God’s work must be done according to God’s mind, or He will not be pleased; and this cannot be, except it be done with a holy heart.

4. Without true conversion your hopes are in vain.
   “The hope of the hypocrite shall perish” (Job. 8:12–13).
   “The Lord has rejected your confidences” (Jer. 2:37).

   (1). The hope of comfort here is vain. It is not only necessary for the safety, but comfort of your condition, that you be converted. Without this, you shall not know peace (Isa. 59:8). Without the fear of God you cannot have the comfort of the Holy Ghost (Acts 9:31). God speaks peace only to His people and to His saints (Ps. 85:8). If you have a false peace continuing in your sins, it is not of God’s speaking, and therefore you may guess the author. Sin is a real sickness (Isa. 1:5); yea, the worst of sickness; it is a leprosy in the head (Lev. 13:44); it is brokenness in the bones (Ps. 51:8); it pierces, it wounds, it racks, it torments (I Tim. 6:10). A man may as well expect ease when his diseases are in their full strength, or his bones out of joint, as true comfort while in his sins.

   O wretched man, that can have no ease in this case but what comes from the deadliness of the disease! You shall have the poor sick man saying in his wilderness, he is well; when you see death in his face, he would be up and about his business, when the very next step is likely to be to his grave. The unsanctified often see nothing amiss; they think themselves whole, and cry not for the physician. But this only shows the danger of their case.

   Sin naturally breeds diseases and disturbances in the soul. What a continual tempest is there in a discontented mind! What a corroding evil is inordinate care! What is passion but a very fever in the mind? What is lust but a fire in the bones? What is pride but a deadly dropsy? What is covetousness but an insatiable and insufferable thirst? Is not malice and envy but venom in the very heart? Spiritual sloth is but a scurvy in the mind, and carnal security a mortal lethargy. How can that soul have true comfort which is under so many diseases? But converting grace cures, and so eases the mind, and prepares the soul for a settled, standing, immortal peace.

   “Great peace have they that love Your law, and nothing shall offend them” (Ps. 119:165). They are the ways of wisdom that afford pleasure and peace (Prov. 3:17). David had infinitely more pleasure in the Word than in all the delights of his court (Ps. 119:103, 127). The conscience cannot be truly pacified until soundly purified (Heb. 10:22). Cursed is that peace which is maintained in a way of sin (Deut. 29:19–20). Two sorts of peace are more to be dreaded than all the troubles in the world: peace with sin, and peace in sin.

   (2). The hope of salvation hereafter is in vain. This hope is most injurious to God, most pernicious to yourself. There is death, despair, and blasphemy in this hope.

   There is death in it. Your confidence shall be rooted out of your tabernacles, God will up with it root and branch; it will bring you to the king of terrors (Job 18:14). Though you may lean upon this house, it will not stand, but will prove like a ruinous building which, when a man trusts to it, falls down about him (Job 8:15).

   There is despair in it. “Where is the hope of the hypocrite when God takes away his soul?” (Job 27:8). Then there is an end forever of his hope. Indeed, the hope of the righteous has an end, but it is not a destructive, but a perfective end. His hope ends in fruition, others in frustration. The godly may say at death, “It is finished”; but the wicked, “It is perished”, and may earnestly bemoan himself, as Job did, though mistakenly, in his case, “Where now is my hope? He hath destroyed me I am gone, and my hope is removed like a tree” (Job 19:10). “The righteous hath hope in his death” (Prov. 14:32). When nature is dying, his hopes are living; when his body is languishing, his hopes are flourishing. His hope is a living hope, but others' a dying, yea, a damning, soul-undoing hope. "When a wicked man dies, his expectation shall perish; and the hope of unjust men perishes" (Prov. 11:7). It shall be cut off and prove like a spider's web (Job 8:14), which he spins out of his own bowels; but then comes death and destroys all, and so there is an eternal end of his confidence in which he trusted. "The eyes of the wicked shall fail, and their hope shall be as the giving up of the ghost" (Job 11:20). Wicked men are fixed in their carnal hope, and will not be beaten out of it they hold it fast, they will not let it go, but death will knock off their fingers. Though we cannot undeceive them, death and judgment will. When death strikes its dart through your liver, it will ruin your soul and your hopes together. The unsanctified have hope only in this life, and therefore are of all men most miserable. When death comes, it lets them out into the amazing gulf of endless despair.

There is blasphemy in it. To hope we shall be saved, though continuing unconverted, is to hope that we shall prove God a liar. He has told you that, merciful and compassionate as He is, He will never save you notwithstanding, if you go on in a course of ignorance or unrighteousness. In a word, He has told you that whatever you are or do, nothing shall avail you to salvation unless you become new creatures. Now, to say God is merciful and to hope that He will save us without conversion, is in effect to say that we hope that God will not do as He says. We must not set God's attributes at variance. God has resolved to glorify His mercy, but not to the prejudice of His truth, as the presumptuous sinner will find to his everlasting sorrow.

Objection: But we hope in Jesus Christ, we put our whole trust in God, and therefore do not doubt that we shall be saved.

Answer: This is not hope in Christ, but hope against Christ. To hope to see the kingdom of God without being born again, to hope to find eternal life in the broad way, is to hope Christ will prove a false prophet. David's plea is, "I hope in Your word" (Ps. 119:81). But this hope is against God's Word. Show me a word of Christ for your hope that He will save you in your ignorance or profane neglect of His service, and I will never try to shake your confidence.

God rejects this hope with abhorrence. Those condemned by the prophet went on in their sins yet, says the prophet, "Will they lean upon the Lord" (Mic. 3:11). God will not endure to be made a prop to men in their sins. The Lord rejected those presumptuous sinners that went on still in their trespasses and yet would stay themselves on Israel's God, as a man would shake off the briers that cleave to his garment.

If your hope is worth anything, it will purify you from your sins (I John 3:3), but cursed is that hope which cherishes men in their sins.

Objection: Would you have us despair?

Answer: You must despair of ever coming to heaven as you are, that is, while unconverted. You must despair of ever seeing the face of God without holiness. But you must by no means despair of finding mercy upon your thorough repentance and conversion. Neither may you despair of attaining to repentance and conversion in the use of God's means.

5. Without conversion all that Christ has done and suffered will be, as to you, in vain. That is, it will in no way avail you to salvation. Many urge this as a sufficient ground for their hope, that Christ died for sinners but I must tell you, Christ never died to save impenitent and unconverted sinners, and continuing so. A great divine was accustomed in his private dealings with souls to ask two questions. What has Christ done for you? What has Christ worked in you? Without the application of the Spirit in regeneration, we have no saving interest in the benefits of redemption. I tell you from the Lord, that Christ Himself cannot save you if you go on in this state.

(1). To save men in their sins would be against His trust. The Mediator is the servant of the Father, shows H is commission from Him, acts in His name, and pleads H is command for His justification (John 10:18, 44). God has committed all things to H im, entrusted H im with the salvation of His elect (Mt. 11:27; John 17:2). Accordingly, Christ gives H is Father an account of both parts of H is trust before He leaves the world (John 17). Now Christ would quite thwart H is Father's glory, tarnish H is greatest trust, if H e should save men in their sins. For this would overturn all H is counsels, and offer violence to all H is attributes.

It would overturn all God's counsels, of which this is the order: that men should be brought to salvation through sanctification (II Thes. 2:13). H e has chosen them that they should be holy (Eph. 1:4). They are elected to pardon and life through sanctification (I Peter 1:2). If you can repeal the law of God's immutable counsel, or corrupt H im whom the Father has sealed to go directly against His commission, then, and not otherwise, you may get to heaven in this condition. To hope that Christ will save you while unconverted, is to hope that Christ will prove false to His trust. H e never did, nor ever will save one soul but whom the Father has given H im in election, and drawn to H im in effectual calling (John 6:37, 44). Be assured, Christ will save none in a way contrary to H is Father's will.

To save men in their sins would offer violence to all the attributes of God.

It would violate His justice. The righteousness of God's judgment lies in rendering to all according to their works. Now, should man sow to the flesh, and yet of the Spirit reap everlasting life, where were the glory of divine justice, since it would be given to the wicked according to the work of the righteous?

It would violate His holiness. If God should not only save sinners, but save them in their sins, He is most pure and strict holiness would be exceedingly defaced. The unsanctified, in the eyes of God's holiness, are worse than a swine or viper. It would be offering the most extreme violence to the infinite purity of the divine nature to have such dwell with Him. They cannot stand in His judgment, they cannot abide His presence. If holy David would not endure such in his house, no, nor in his sight (Ps. 101:3, 7), can we think God will? Should He take men as they are, from the mire of their filthiness to the glory of heaven, the world would think that God was at no such great distance from sin, nor had any such dislike to it as we are told He has. They would be ready to conclude that God was altogether such an one as themselves, as some of old wickedly did, from the forbearance of God (Ps. 50:21).

It would violate His veracity. God has declared from heaven that if any say He shall have peace, though he should go on in the imagination of his heart, His wrath shall smoke against that man (Deut. 29:19–20). He has declared that they that only confess and forsake their sins shall find mercy (Prov. 28:13). He has declared that they that shall enter into His hill must be of clean hands and a pure heart (Ps. 24:3, 4). Where were God's truth if, notwithstanding all this, He should bring men to salvation without conversion? Desperate sinner, that dares to hope that Christ will make His Father a liar and nullify His word to save you!

It would violate His wisdom. This were to throw away the choicest of mercies on them that would not value them, nor were any way suited to them.

They would not value them. The unsanctified sinner puts but little price upon God's great salvation. He thinks no more of Christ than they that are whole do of the physician. He prizes not His balm, values not His cure, but tramples on His blood. Now, would it stand with wisdom to force pardon and life upon those that would return no thanks for them? Will the all-wise God, when He has forbidden us to do it, throw Him holy things to dogs and His pearls to swine, that would, as it were, but turn again and rend Him? (Mt. 7:6). This would make mercy to be despised indeed. Wisdom requires that life be given in a way suitable to God's honor, and that God provide for the securing of His own glory as well as man's felicity. It would be dishonorable to God to bestow His choicest riches on them that have more pleasure in their sins than in the heavenly delights that He offers. God would lose the praise and glory of His grace, if He should cast it away upon them that were not only unworthy but unwilling.

Also, the mercies of God are no way suited to the unconverted. God's wisdom is seen in suiting things to each other, the means to the end, the object to the faculty, the quality of the gift to the capacity of the receiver. Now, if Christ should bring the unregenerate sinner to heaven, he could take no more felicity there than a beast would, if you should bring him into a beautiful room to the society of learned men; whereas the poor thing had much rather be grazing with his fellows in the field. Alas, what could an unsanctified man do in heaven? He could not not be content there because nothing suits him. The place does not suit him; he would be quite out of his element, a fish out of water. The company does not suit him. For what communion has darkness with light? corruption with perfection? vileness and sin with glory and immortality? The employment does not suit him; the anthems of heaven do not fit his mouth, do not suit his ear. Can you charm a donkey with music; or will you bring him to your organ and expect that he should make melody, or keep time with the tuneful choir? Had he skill, he would have no will, and so could find no pleasure in it. Spread your table with delicacies before a languishing patient, and it will be but an offence. Alas! If one thinks a sermon long, saying of a Sabbath-day, "What a weariness is it!" Then how miserable would it be for such a one to be engaged in an everlasting Sabbath!

It would violate His immutability, or else His omniscience or omnipotence. It is enacted in heaven, and enrolled in the decree of the court above, that none but the pure in heart shall see God (Mt. 5:8). Now, if Christ bring any to heaven unconverted, either He must get them in without H is Father's knowledge, and then where is His omniscience? Or if against His will, then where were His omnipotence? Or if He must change His will, then where were His immutability?

Sinner, will you not give up your vain hope of being saved in this condition? Bildad says, "Shall the earth be forsaken for you; or the rocks be moved out of their place?" (Job. 18:4). May I not much more reason with you? Shall the laws of heaven be reversed for you? Shall the everlasting foundations be overturned for you? Shall Christ put out the eye of His Father's omniscience, or shorten the arm of His eternal power for you? Shall divine justice be violated for you; or the brightness of His holiness be blemished for you? Oh the impossibility, absurdity, blasphemy, of such a confidence! To think Christ will ever save you in this condition is to make the Savior become a sinner, and do more wrong to the infinite Majesty than all the wicked on earth or devils in hell ever did, or ever could do. Yet will you not give up such a blasphemous hope?

(2). To save men in their sins would be against the word of Christ. We need not say, "Who shall ascend into heaven, to bring down Christ from above? Or, who shall descend into the deep, to bring up Christ from beneath? The word is nigh us” (Rom. 10:6-8). Are you agreed that Christ shall end the controversy? Hear then His own words: “Except you be converted, you shall in no wise enter into the kingdom of heaven.” “You must be born again.” “If I do not wash you, you have no part in me.” “Except you repent you shall perish” (Mt. 18:3; Jn. 3:7; 13:8; Lk. 13:3).

One word, one would think, were enough from Christ; but how often and earnestly does He reiterate it: “Truly, truly, except a man be born again, he shall not see the kingdom of God” (Jn. 3:3). Yea, He not only asserts but proves the necessity of the new birth from the fleshliness and sinfulness of man from his first birth, by reason of which man is no more fit for heaven than the beast is for the chamber of the king. And will you yet rest in your own presumptuous confidence, directly against Christ’s words? He must go quite against the law of H is kingdom and rule of H is judgment, to save you in this state.

(3). To save men in their sins would be against the oath of Christ. He has lifted up H is hand to heaven; He has sworn that those who remain in unbelief and know not H is ways (that is, are ignorant of them, or disobedient to them) shall not enter into H is rest (H eb. 3:18). And will you not yet believe, sinner, that H e is earnest? The covenant of grace is confirmed by an oath and sealed by blood, but all must be made void, and another way to heaven found out if you were to be saved, living and dying unsanctified. God has come to H is last terms with man, and has condescended as far as in honor H e could. Men cannot be saved while unconverted, except they could get another covenant made, and the whole frame of the Gospel, which was established forever with such dreadful solemnities, quite altered. And must not they be demented who hope that they shall?

(4). To save men in their sins would be against H is honor. God will so show H is love to the sinner as at the same time to show H is hatred to sin. Therefore, he that names the name of Jesus must depart from iniquity and deny all ungodliness. And he that has hope of life by Christ must purify himself, as H e is pure, otherwise Christ would be thought a favorer of sin (II Tim. 2:19; Tit. 2:12; I Jn. 3:3). The Lord Jesus would have all the world know, that though H e pardons sin, H e will not protect it. If holy David say, “Depart from me, all you workers of iniquity” (Ps. 6:8), and shut the doors against them (Ps. 101:7), shall we not much more expect it from Christ’s holiness? Would it be for H is honor, to have the dogs to the table, or to lodge the swine with H is children, or to have Abraham’s bosom to be a nest of vipers?

(5). To save men in their sins would be against H is offices. God has exalted H im to be a Prince and a Savior (Acts 5:31). H e would act against both, should H e save men in their sins. It is the office of a king to be a terror to evil-doers, and a praise to them that do well. “H e is a minister of God, a revenger to execute wrath on him that does evil” (Rom. 13:4). Now, should Christ favor the ungodly, so continuing, and take those to reign with H im that would not that H e should reign over them, this would be quite against H is office. H e therefore reigns that H e may put His enemies under H is feet. Now, should H e lay them in H is bosom, H e would frustrate the end of H is regal power; it belongs to Christ, as a King, to subdue the hearts and slay the lusts of H is chosen (Ps. 45:5; 110:3). What king would take rebels in open hostility into his court? What were this but to betray life, kingdom, government, and all together? If Christ is a King, H e must have honor, homage, subjection. N ow, to save men while in their natural enmity, were to obscure H is dignity, lose H is authority, bring contempt on H is government, and sell H is dear-bought rights for naught.

Again, as Christ would not be a Prince, so neither a Savior, if H e should do this; for H is salvation is spiritual. H e is called Jesus because H e saves H is people from their sins (Mt. 1:21). So that, should H e save them in their sins, H e would be neither Lord nor Jesus. To save men from the punishment, and not from the power of sin, were to do H is work by halves, and be an imperfect Savior. H is office as the Deliverer is to turn ungodliness from Jacob (Rom. 11:26). H e is sent to bless men, in turning them from their iniquities (Acts 3:26), to make an end of sin (Dan. 9:24). So that H e would destroy H is own designs, and nullify H is offices, to save men in their unconverted state.

Ariseth then! What do you mean, sleeper? Secure sinner, wake up, that you not be consumed in your unconverted state. As the lepers reasoned, “If we sit here, we shall die” (II K g. 7:3-4). Truly, it is not more certain that you are now out of hell than that you shall speedily be in it, except you repent and be converted. There is but this one door for you to escape by. Ariseth then, sluggard, and shake off your excuses; how long will you slumber and fold your hands to sleep? Will you lie down in the midst of the sea, or sleep on the top of a mast? (Prov. 23:34). There is no remedy, but you must either turn or burn. There is an unchangeable necessity of the change of your condition, unless you have resolved to abide the worst of it, and try it out with the Almighty. If you love your life, then arise and come away. I think I see the Lord Jesus laying the merciful hands of a holy violence upon you; I think H e acts like the angels to Lot: “Then the angels hastened Lot, saying, Arise, lest you be consumed. And, while he lingered, the men laid hold upon his hand, the L ORD being merciful unto him; and they brought him outside the city, and said, Escape for your life, stay not in all the plain, escape to the mountains, lest you be consumed” (Gen. 19:15-17).

O h bow wilful will your destruction be if you should yet harden yourself in your sinful state! But none of you can say that you have not had fair warning. Yet I cannot leave you so. It is not enough for me to have delivered my own soul. What! Shall I go away without completing my errand? Will none of you arise and follow me? Have I been all this while speaking to the wind Have I been charming the deaf adder, or allaying the restless ocean with argument? Do I speak to the trees and rocks, or to men; to the tombs and monuments of the dead, or to the living? If you are men and not senseless stocks, stop and consider where you are going? If you have the reason and understanding of men, do not dare to run into the flames, and fall into hell with your eyes open but stop and think, and set about the work of repentance. What, men? and yet run into the pit, when the very beasts will not be forced in? What, endowed with reason? and yet trifle with death and hell, and the vengeance of the Almighty? Are men only distinguished from brutes in that these, having no foresight, have no care to provide for the things to come, and will you, who are warned, not hasten your escape from eternal torments? Show yourselves men, and let reason prevail with you.

Is it a reasonable thing for you to contend against the Lord your Maker, or to harden yourselves against His word, as though the Strength of Israel would lie? (Isa. 45:9; Job. 9:4; I Sam. 15:29). Is it reasonable that an understanding creature should lose, yea, live quite against the very end of his being? Is it reasonable that the only being in this world that God has made capable of knowing His will and bringing Him glory, should yet live in ignorance of his Maker, and be unserviceable to His use, yea, should be engaged against Him, and spit his venom in the face of his Creator? Hear, O heavens, and give ear, O earth, and let the creatures without sense judge if this be reason, that man whom God has nourished and brought up, should rebel against Him? Judge in your own selves. Is it a reasonable undertaking for briers and thorns to set themselves in battle against the devouring fire? Or should the potsherd of the earth strive with its Maker? You will say that this is not reason, or surely the eye of your reason is quite put out. And, if this be not reason, then there is no reason that you should continue as you are, but there is every reason in the world that you should immediately turn and repent.

What shall I say? I could spend myself in this argument. Oh that you would only hearken to me; that you would now set upon a new course! Will you not be made clean? When shall it once be? Reader, will you not sit down now and consider the arguments just stated, and debate it whether it is not best to turn? Come, and let us reason together. Is it good for you to be here? Is it good for you to try whether God will be as good as His word, and to harden yourself in a conceit that all is well with you while you remain unsanctified?

Alas, for such sinners! Must they perish at last by hundreds? What course shall I use with them that I have not already tried? “What shall I do for the daughter of my people?” (Jer. 9:7).

This is my prayer: O Lord God, help! Alas, shall I leave them this way? If they will not hear me, yet may You hear me. Oh that they might live in Your sight! Lord save them, else they will perish. My heart would melt to see their houses on fire when they were fast asleep in their beds; and shall not my soul be moved within me to see them falling into endless perdition? Lord, have compassion and save them out of the burning. Put forth Your divine power; then the work will be done.
CHAPTER FOUR
The Marks Of The Unconverted

WHILE we keep aloof in general statements there is little fruit to be expected; it is the hand-fight that does execution. David is not awakened by the prophet’s hovering at a distance in parabolical insinuations. Nathan is forced to close with him, and tell him plainly, “You are the man.” (II Sam. 12:1-7). Few will, in words, deny the necessity of the new birth; but they have a self-deluding confidence that the work is not to be done now. And because they know themselves to be free from that gross hypocrisy which takes up religion merely for a color to deceive others, and for covering wicked designs, they are confident of their sincerity, and do not suspect that great danger lies in their more close hypocrisy, by which a man deceives his own soul. But man’s deceitful heart is such a matchless cheat, and self-delusion so reigning and so fatal a disease, that I do not know which is the greater, the difficulty or the necessity of the undeceiving work that I am now upon. Alas for the unconverted, they must be undeceived, or they will be undone! But how shall this be effected?

I hereby utter my prayer: Help, O all-searching Light, and let Your discerning eye disclose the rotten foundation of the self-deceiver. Lead me, O Lord God, as You did the prophet, into the chambers of imagery, and dig through the wall of sinners’ hearts, and reveal the hidden abominations that are lurking out of sight in the dark. O h send Your angel before me to open the various wards of their hearts, as You did before Peter, and make even the iron gates fly open of their own accord. And as Jonathan no sooner tasted the honey but his eyes were enlightened, so grant, O Lord, that when the poor deceived souls with whom I have to do shall cast their eyes upon these lines, their minds may be illuminated, and their consciences convinced and awakened, that they may “see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and be converted, and You may heal them.”

This must be premised before we proceed, that it is most certain that one may have a confident persuasion that the heart is good, yet it is unsound. Hear the Truth Himself who shows, in Laodicea’s case, that men may be wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked, and yet not know it; yes, they may be confident they are rich, and increased in grace (Rev. 3:17). “There is a generation that are pure in their own eyes, and yet are not washed from their filthiness” (Prov. 30:12). Who better persuaded of his state than Paul, while he yet remained unconverted? (Rom. 7:9). So that they are miserably deceived who take a strong confidence for a sufficient evidence. They that have no better proof than barely a strong persuasion that they are converted, are certainly as yet strangers to conversion.

But to come closer. As it was said to the adherents of Antichrist, so here some of the unconverted carry their marks in their forehead more openly, and some in their hands more covertly. The apostle reckons up some upon whom he writes the sentence of death, as in these dreadful catalogues which I beseech you to attend to with all diligence: “For this you know, that no whoremonger, nor unclean person, nor covetous man, who is an idolater, hath any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and of God. Let no man deceive you with vain words; for because of these things comes the wrath of God upon the children of disobedience” (Eph. 5:5-6). “But the fearful, and unbelieving, and abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake that burns with fire and brimstone, which is the second death” (Rev. 21:8). “Do you not know that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with mankind, nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God” (I Cor. 6:9-10). Woe to them that have their name written in this catalogue. Such may know, as certainly as if God had told them from heaven, that they are unsanctified, and under an impossibility of being saved in this condition.

There are then these several classes that, past all dispute, are unconverted; they carry their marks in their foreheads.

1. The unclean. These are ever reckoned among the goats, and have their names, whoever else are left out, in all the fore-mentioned catalogues.
2. The covetous. These are ever branded for idolaters, and the doors of the kingdom are shut against them by name.
3. Drunkards. Not only such as drink away their reason, but above all, such as are too strong for strong drink. The Lord fills His mouth with woes against these, and declares them to have no inheritance in the kingdom of God (Isa. 5:11, 12; 22; Gal. 5:21).
4. Liars. The God that cannot lie has told them that there is no place for them in His kingdom, no entrance into His hill; but their portion is with the father of lies, whose children they are, in the lake of burnings (Rev. 21:8, 27; Jn. 8:44; Prov. 6:17).
5. Swearers. The end of these, without deep and speedy repentance, is swift destruction, and most certain and unavoidable condemnation (James 5:12; Zech. 5:1–3).
6. Railers and backbiters. These love to take up a reproach against their neighbor, to fling all the dirt they can in his face, or else wound him secretly behind his back (Ps. 15:1; 3; I Cor. 5:11).
7. Thieves, extortioners, oppressors. These grind the poor, or defraud their brothers when they have opportunity. These must know that God is the avenger of all such (I Thes. 4:6). Hear, you false and pilfering and wasteful servants; you deceitful tradesmen, hear your sentence! God will certainly shut His door against you, and will turn your treasures of unrighteousness into the treasures of wrath. He will make your ill-gotten silver and gold torment you, like burning metal in your flesh (James 5:2–3).
8. All that ordinarily live in the profane neglect of God's worship, not hearing H is word, not calling on H is name, not praying before God, not minding the souls of their family or their own souls; those living without God in the world (Jn. 8:47; Job 15:4; Ps. 14:4; Ps. 79:6; Eph. 2:12; 4:18).
9. Frequenters and lovers of vain company. God has declared that He will be the destroyer of all such, and that they shall never enter into the hill of His rest (Prov. 9:6; 13:20).
10. Scoffers at religion. These scorn precise living; they mock at the messengers and diligent servants of the Lord; they scoff at holy profession and make merry with the weaknesses and failings of professing Christians: "Hear, you desirers" hear your dreadful doom (Prov. 19:29; II Chr. 36:16).

Sinner, consider diligently whether you are not to be found in one of these ranks. For if this is the case, then you are in the gall of bitterness and bond of iniquity. For all these carry their marks in their foreheads; these are undoubtedly the sons of death. And if so, may the Lord pity our poor congregations. Oh how small is the number that will remain when these ten sorts are weeded out.

Oh what efforts must you make to keep up your confidence of your good state when God declares against you, when He pronounces you in a state of condemnation! As God reasoned with the Jews, so I reason with you: "How can you say, I am not polluted? See your way in the valley; know what you have done" (Jer. 2:23). Is not your conscience aware of your trials of deceit, of your secret sins, of your way of lying? Are not your friends, your family, your neighbors, witnesses to your profane neglect of God's worship, to your covetous practices, to your envious and malicious behavior? May they not point at you as you go, "There goes a gaming prodigal; there goes a drunken Nabal, a companion of evil-doers; there goes a raider, or a scoffer, or a loose-liver!"

Beloved, God has written it as with a sunbeam in the Book by which you must be judged, that these are not the marks of His children, and that none such, except renewed by converting grace, shall ever escape the damnation of hell.

Oh that you would now be persuaded to repent and turn from all your transgressions, or else iniquity will be your ruin (Ezek. 18:30). Alas, for poor hardened sinners. Must I leave you at last where you are? Must I leave the drinker still at his bar? Must I leave the malicious still in his venom? However, you must know that you have been warned, and that I am clear of your blood and whether men will hear, or whether they will forbear, I will leave these Scriptures with them, which will prove either as thunderbolts to awaken them, or as searing-irons to harden them. "God shall wound the head of his enemies, and the hairy scalp of such an one as goes on still in his trespasses." "He that, being often reproved, hardens his neck, shall suddenly be destroyed, and that without remedy." "Because I have called, and you refused; I have stretched out my hand, and no man regarded, I will laugh at your calamity when your destruction comes as a whirlwind" (Ps. 68:21; Prov. 29:1; 1:24–27).

And now I imagine many will begin to bless themselves, and think all is well, because they cannot be reproached with these grosser evils. But I must tell you that there is another sort of unsanctified persons, who carry their mark not in their foreheads but more secretly and covertly. These frequently deceive themselves and others, and pass for good Christians, when they are all the while unsound at heart. Many pass undiscovered till death and judgment bring all to light. These self-deceivers seem to come even to heaven's gate with confidence of their admission, and yet are turned away at last (Mt. 7:22). I beseech you deeply to lay to heart and firmly retain this awakening consideration, that multitudes perish by the hand of some secret sin, that is not only hidden from others, but from want of observing their own hearts, is hidden even from themselves. A man may be free from open pollutions, and yet die at last by the hand of some unobserved iniquity. There are these twelve hidden sins, through which souls go down by numbers into the chambers of eternal death. These you must search carefully for, and take them as black marks wherever they are found, revealing a graceless and unconverted state; and, as you love your lives, read carefully with a holy jealousy of yourselves, lest you should be the persons concerned.

1. Gross wilful ignorance (Hos. 4:6). Oh, how many poor souls does this sin kill in the dark, while they think verily they have good hearts, and are all set for heaven. This is the murderer that dispatches thousands in a silent manner, when they suspect nothing, and do not see the hand that destroys them. You shall find, whatever excuses you make for ignorance, that it is a soul ruining evil (Isa. 27:11; II Thes. 1:8; II Cor. 4:3). Ah, would it not have grieved a man’s heart to see that dreadful spectacle when the poor Protestants were shut up in a barn, and a butcher came, with his hands warmed in human blood, and led them one by one, blindfold, to a block where he slew them one after another, by scores, in cold blood? But how much more should your hearts bleed to think of the hundreds that ignorance destroys in secret and leads blindfold to the block. Beware that this is not your case. Make no plea for ignorance; if you spare that sin, know that it will not spare you; and would a man keep a murderer in his bosom?

2. Secret reserves in closing with Christ. To forsake all for Christ, to hate father and mother, yea, a man’s own life for Him, “This is a hard saying” (Lk.
14:26). Some will do much, but they will not have the religion that will save them. They never come to be entirely devoted to Christ, nor to be fully resigned to Him. They must have the sweet sin; they mean to do themselves no harm; they have secret exceptions for life, liberty, or estate. Many take Christ thus, and never consider His self-denying terms, nor count the cost; and this error in the foundation mars all, and ruins them forever (Lk. 14:28–33).

3. Formality in religion. Many rest in the outside of religion and in the external performance of holy duties.
And very often this most effectually deceives men, and more certainly undoes them than open profaneness; as it was in the Pharisee’s case. They hear, they fast, they pray, you give alms, and therefore will not believe but their case is good. Whereas, resting in the work done, and coming short of the heart-work and the inward power and vitality of religion, they fall at last into the burning, from the flattering hope and confident persuasion of their being all set on the way to heaven. Oh dreadful case, when a man’s religion shall serve only to harden him, and effectually to delude and deceive his own soul!

4. The prevalence of wrong motives in holy duties. This was the bane of the Pharisees. Oh how many a poor soul is undone by this, and drops into hell before he discerns his mistake! He performs his good duties and so thinks all is well, but does not perceive that he is acted upon by carnal motives all the while. It is too true that even with the really sanctified many carnal ends will often creep in; but they are the matter of their hatred and humiliation, and never come to be habitually prevalent with them, and bear the greatest sway. But when the main thing that ordinarily moves a man to religious duties is some carnal end as to satisfy his conscience, to get the reputation of being religious, to be seen of men, to show his own gifts and talents, to avoid the reproach of being a profane and irreligious person, or the like this reveals an unsound heart. Oh Christians, if you would avoid selfdeceit, see that you mind not only your actions but also your motives.

5. Trusting in their own righteousness. This is a soul-ruining mischief. When men trust in their own righteousness they do indeed reject Christ’s. Beloved, you had need be watchful on every hand, for not only your sins, but your duties may undo you. It may be you never thought of this but so it is, that a man may as certainly perish by his seeming righteousness and supposed graces as by gross sins. When a man trusts to these as his righteousness before God, for satisfying His justice, appeasing His wrath, procuring His favor, and obtaining HIs pardon, that one will surely perish unless he repents of these. This is to put Christ out of office, and make a Savior of our own duties and graces. Beware of this, professing Christians; you are much in duties, but this one fly will spoil all the ointment. When you have done most and best, be sure to go out of yourselves to Christ; reckon your own righteousness as filthy rags (Phil. 3:9; Isa. 64:6).

6. A secret enmity against the strictness of religion. Many moral persons, punctilious in their formal devotions, have yet a bitter enmity against strictness and zeal, and hate the life and power of religion. They do not like this forwardness, nor that men should make such a stir in religion. They condemn the strictness of religion as singularity, indiscretion, and intemperate zeal, and with them a zealous preacher or fervent Christian is but a wild enthusiast. These men do not love holiness as holiness (for then they would love the height of holiness), and therefore are undoubtedly rotten at heart, whatever good opinion they have of themselves.

7. The resting in a certain degree of religion.
When they have so much as will save them, as they suppose, they look no farther, and so show themselves short of true grace, which always sets men aspiring to perfection (Phil 3:13; Prov. 4:18).

8. The predominant love of the world. This is the sure evidence of an unsanctified heart. "If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him” (I Jn. 2:15). But how often does this sin lurk under the fair cover of forward profession. Yea, such a power of deceit is there in this sin that many times, when everybody else can see the man’s worldliness and covetousness, he cannot see it himself. Instead he has so many excuses and pretenses for his eagerness after the world, that he blinds his own eyes and perishes in his self-deceit. How many professing Christians are there with whom the world has more of their hearts and affections than Christ, “who mind earthly things,” and thereby are evidently after the flesh, and likely to end in destruction (Rom. 8:5; Phil. 3:19). Yet ask these men, and they will tell you confidently they prize Christ above all; for they do not see their own earthly state of mind for lack of a strict observance of the workings of their own hearts. Did they but carefully search, they would quickly find that their greatest satisfaction is in the world, and that their greatest care and main endeavor are to get and secure the world, which are the certain signs of an unconverted sinner. May the professing part of the world take earnest heed lest they perish by the hand of this sin unobserved. Men may be, and often are, kept off from Christ as effectually by the inordinate love of lawful comforts, as by the most unlawful courses.

9. Reigning malice and envy against those that disrespect them, and are injurious to them. Oh how do many that seem to be religious remember injuries and carry grudges, rendering evil for evil, loving to take revenge, wishing evil to the ones that wrong them. This is directly against the rule of the Gospel, the pattern of Christ, and the nature of God. Doubtless, where this evil is kept boiling in the heart, and is not hated, resisted, and mortified, but habitually prevails, that person is in the very gall of bitterness, and in a state of death (Mt. 18:32–35; I Jn. 3:14–15).

10. Unmortified pride. When men love the praise of men more than the praise of God, and set their hearts upon men’s esteem, applause, and approbation, it is most certain that they are yet in their sins, and strangers to true conversion (Jn. 12:43; Gal. 1:10). When men do not see nor complain nor groan under the pride of their own hearts, it is a sign they are stark dead in sin. Oh how secretly does this live and reign in many hearts, and they know it not, but are very strangers to themselves (Jn. 9:40).

11. The prevailing love of pleasure. This is a black mark. When men give the flesh the liberty that it craves, and pamper and please it, and do not deny and restrain it; when their great delight is in gratifying their bellies and pleasing their senses; whatever appearances they may have of religion, all is unsound. A flesh-pleasing life cannot be pleasing their senses; whatever appearances they may have when their great delight is in gratifying their bellies and pamper and please it, and do not deny and restrain it; mark. When men give the flesh the liberty that it craves, that person is in the very gall of bitterness, and in a state of death (Mt. 18:32–35; I Jn. 3:14–15).

And now, conscience, do your work. Speak out, and speak home to him that hears or reads these lines. If you find any of these marks upon him, you must pronounce him utterly unclean. Do not take a lie into your mouth. Do not speak peace to him to whom God speaks no peace. Do not let sense bribe you, or self-love or carnal prejudice blind you. I summon you from the court of heaven to come and give evidence. As you will answer it at your peril, give a true report of the state and case of him that reads this book. Conscience, will you altogether hold your peace at such a time as this? I adjure you by the living God that you tell the truth. Is the man converted, or is he not? Does he allow himself in any way of wickedness, or does he not? Does he truly love, and please, and prize, and delight in God above all things, or not? Come, give a definite answer.

How long shall this soul live in uncertainty? Conscience, bring in your verdict. Is this man a new man, or is he not? How do you find it? Has he passed a thorough and mighty change upon him, or not? When was the time, where was the place, or what were the means by which this thorough change of the new birth was wrought in his soul? Speak, conscience; or if you cannot tell the time and place, can you show Scripture evidence that the work is done? Has the man ever been taken off from his false foundation, from the false hopes and false peace in which once he trusted? Has he been deeply convinced of sin, and of his lost and undone condition, and brought out of himself, and off from his sins, to give himself up entirely to Jesus Christ? Or do you not find him to this day under the power of ignorance, or in the mire of worldliness? Have you not found upon him the gains of unrighteousness? Do you not find him a stranger to prayer, a neglector of the Word, a lover of this present world? Do you not sometimes catch him in a lie? Do you not find his heart fermented with malice, or... burning with lust, or going after his covetousness? Speak plainly to all the particulars mentioned before. Can you acquit this man, this woman, from being in any of the twenty-two classes here described? If he is found in any of them, set him aside; his portion is not with the saints. He must be converted and made a new creature, or he cannot enter the kingdom of God.

Beloved, do not be your own betrayers. Do not deceive your own hearts, nor set your hands to your own ruin by a wilful blinding of yourselves. Set up a tribunal in your own breasts. Bring the Word and conscience together. “To the law and to the testimony.” Hear what the Word concludes of your state. Oh follow the search till you find how the case stands. Make a mistake here, and you perish. And, such is the treachery of the heart, the subtlety of the tempter, and the deceitfulness of sin, all conspiring to flatter and deceive the poor soul and so common and easy it is to make a mistake, that it is a thousand to one that you will be deceived, unless you are very careful and thorough and impartial in the inquiry into your spiritual condition. Oh therefore be diligent in your work; go to the bottom, search with candles; weigh yourself in the balance, come to the standard of the sanctuary; bring your coin to the touchstone. Satan is a master of deceit; there is nothing which he cannot imitate. You cannot wish for any grace, but he can fit you with a counterfeit. Be jealous; trust not even your own heart. Go to God to search you and try you, to examine you and prove your reins. If other helps do not suffice to bring all to an issue, but you are still at a loss, consult some godly and faithful minister or Christian friend. Do not rest till you have put the business of your eternal welfare out of doubt.

This is my prayer: O Searcher of hearts, set this soul searching, and help him in his search.
CHAPTER FIVE

The Miseries Of The Unconverted

So unspeakably dreadful is the case of every unconverted soul, that I have sometimes thought if I could only convince men that they are still unregenerate, the work were more than half done.

But I find by sad experience that such a spirit of sloth and slumber possesses the unsanctified that, though they are convinced that they are yet unconverted, often they carelessly sit still. Through the love of sensual pleasure, or the hurry of worldly business, or the noise and clamor of earthly cares and lusts and affections, the voice of conscience is drowned, and men go no farther than some cold wishes and general purposes of repenting and amending.

It is therefore of high necessity that I not only convince men that they are unconverted, but that I also endeavor to bring them to a sense of the fearful misery of this state.

But here I find myself aground at first setting off. What tongue can tell the heirs of hell sufficiently of their misery, unless it were Dives in that flame (Luke 16:24)? Where is the ready writer whose pen can depict their misery who are without God in the world? This cannot be done, unless we know the infinite ocean of bliss which is in perfection in God, and from which a state of sin excludes men. In his Psalm, Moses says, "Who knows the power of Your anger?" (Ps. 90:11). And how shall I tell men that which I do not know? Yet so much we know, as one would think would shake the heart of that man that had the least degree of spiritual life and sense.

But this is yet the more perplexing difficulty, that I am to speak to them that are without spiritual sense. Alas! Dead sinners are like the dumb idols; they have mouths, but they speak not; eyes have they, but they see not; noses have they, but they smell not; hands have they, but they handle not; feet have they, but they walk not; neither speak they through their throat. They are destitute of spiritual sense and motion.

But let me try the sense that last leaves us, and draw the kingdom of heaven to as much advantage as the tempter did the kingdoms of the world, and the glory thereof, to our Savior; or could I uncover the face of the deep and devouring gulf of Tophet in all its terrors, and open the gates of the infernal furnace; alas, he has no eyes to see it. Could I paint the beauties of holiness or the glory of the Gospel, or could I expose to view the more than diabolical deformity and ugliness of sin; can he no more judge of the loveliness and beauty of the one, and the filthiness and hatefulness of the other, than a blind man of colors. He is alienated from the life of God, through the ignorance that is in him because of the blindness of his heart (Eph. 4:18). He neither knows nor can know the things of God, because they are spiritually discerned (1 Cor. 2:14). His eyes cannot be savingly opened but by converting grace (Acts 26:18). He is a child of darkness, and walks in darkness. Yea, the light in him is darkness.

Shall I ring his knell, or read his sentence, or sound in his ear the terrible trumpet of God's judgments? One would think this should make both his ears tingle, and strike him into Belshazzar's fit, even to change his countenance, loose his joints, and make his knees smite one against another. Alas, he does not see; he has no ears to hear. Or shall I call up the daughters of music, and sing the song of Moses and the Lamb? Yet he will not be stirred. Shall I allure him with the joyful sound, and lovely song, and glad tidings of the Gospel; with the most sweet and inviting calls, comforts, and cordials of the divine promises so exceedingly great and precious? It will not affect him savingly unless I could find him ears as well as tell him the news.

What then shall I do? Shall I show him the lake that burns with fire and brimstone? Or shall I open the box of spikenard, very precious, that fills the whole house of the universe with its perfume, and hope that the savor of Christ's ointments and the smell of His garments will attract him? Alas! Dead sinners are like the dumb idols; they have mouths, but they speak not; eyes have they, but they see not; they have ears, but they hear not; noses have they, but they smell not; hands have they, but they handle not; feet have they, but they walk not; neither speak they through their throat. They are destitute of spiritual sense and motion.

But let me try the sense that last leaves us, and draw the song of Moses and the Lamb? Yet he will not be stirred. Shall I allure him with the joyful sound, and lovely song, and glad tidings of the Gospel; with the most sweet and inviting calls, comforts, and cordials of the divine promises so exceedingly great and precious? It will not affect him savingly unless I could find him ears as well as tell him the news.

Which way then shall I come at the miserable object that I have to deal with? Who shall make the heart of stone relent, or the lifeless carcass to feel and move? That God who is able of stones to raise up children unto Abraham, that raises the dead, and melts the mountains, and strikes water out of the flint, that loves to work beyond the hopes and belief of man, that peoples His church with dry bones He is able to do this. Therefore I bow my knee to the most high God, and as our Savior prayed at the sepulchre of Lazarus, and the Shunnamite ran to the man of God for her dead child, so your mourning minister carries you in the arms of prayer to...
that God in whom your help is found, praying:

"O all-powerful Jehovah, You who work, and none can hinder You; You who have the keys of death and hell, pity the dead souls that lie here entombed, and roll away the grave-stone, and say as to the dead body of Lazarus, ‘Come forth.’ Lighten this darkness, O inaccessible Light, and let the Day-spring from on high visit the dark regions of the dead, to whom I speak. For You can open the eye that death itself hath closed. You who formed the ear can restore the hearing; say to these ears, ‘Ephphatha,’ and they shall be opened. Give eyes to see Your excellencies, a taste that may relish Your sweetness, a scent that may discern the small part of your misery that you are without God. How does Micah run crying after the Danites, “You have taken away my gods, and what have I more?” (Jud. 18:24). Oh what a mourning then must you lift up, you who are without God, who can lay no claim to Him without daring usurpation! How piercing a moan is that of Saul in his last extremity, “The Philistines are upon me, and God has departed from me” (I Sam. 28:15). Sinners, what will you do in the day of your visitation? Where will you flee to for help? Where will you leave your glory? What will you do when the Philistines are upon you, when the world shall take its eternal leave of you, when you must bid your friends, houses, and lands farewell forevermore? What then, I say, will you do, who have not God to go to? Will you call on Him? Will you cry to Him for help? Alas! He will not own you. He will not take any notice of you, but will send you away with “I never knew you. Depart from me, ye that work iniquity” (Matt. 7:23).

They who know what it is to have a God to go to, a God to live upon—they know a little what a fearful misery it is to be without God. This made a holy man cry out, “Let me have God or nothing. Let me know H im and H is will, and what will please H im, and how I may come to enjoy H im, or would I never had an understanding to know anything!”

But you are not only without God, but God is against you. Oh if God would stand neutral, though He did not own nor help the poor sinner, his case were not so deeply miserable. Though God should give up the poor creature to the will of his enemies, to do their worst with him; though He should deliver him over to the tormentors, that devils should tear and torture him to their utmost power and skill, yet this were not half so fearful. But God will set Himself against the sinner; and, believe it, “It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God” (Heb. 10:31). There is no friend like Him, no enemy like Him. As much as heaven is above the earth, omnipotence above impotence, so much more terrible is it to fall into the hands of the living God, than into the paws of bears and lions, yea, furies or devils. God Himself will be your tormentor; your destruction shall come from the presence of the Lord (II Thes. 1:9).

If God be against you, who shall be for you? “If one man sin against another, the judge shall judge him: but if a man sin against the LORD, who shall entreat for him?” (I Sam. 2:25). “You, even You, are to be feared; and who shall stand in Your sight when You are angry?” (Ps. 76:7). Who or what shall deliver you out of His hands? Can money? “Riches profit not in the day of wrath” (Prov. 11:4). Can kings or warriors? No! "'T hey shall cry to the mountains and rocks to fall on them, and hide them from the face of Him that sits on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb; for the great day of His wrath has come, and who shall be able to stand?” (Rev. 6:15–17).

Sinner, I think this should go like a dagger to your heart, to know that God is your enemy. Oh where will you go? Where will you shelter yourself? There is no hope for you, unless you lay down your weapons and sue out your pardon, and get Christ to stand as your friend and make your peace. If it were not for this, you might go into some howling wilderness, and there pine in sorrow, and run mad for anguish of heart and horrible despair.

But in Christ there is a possibility of mercy for you, yea, an offer of mercy to you, that you may have God more for you than He is now against you. But if you will not forsake your sins, nor turn thoroughly and purposefully to God by a sound conversion, the wrath of God abides on you, and He procloms Himself to be against you, as in the prophet: “Therefore, so says the Lord God, Behold I, even I, am against you!” (Ezek. 5:8).

(1). H is face is against you. “The face of the LORD is against them that do evil, to cut off the remembrance of them” (Ps. 34:16). Woe to the ones whom God shall set H is face against. When H e did but look on the host of the Egyptians, how terrible was the consequence! I will set my face against that man, and will make him a sign and a proverb, and will cut him off from the midst of my people; and you shall know that I am the LORD” (Ezek. 14:8).

(2). H is heart is against you. H e hates all the workers of iniquity. M an, does not your heart tremble to think of

Unfolding That Misery Which No Tongue Can Unfold

But I must proceed, as I am able, to unfold that misery which, I confess, no tongue can unfold, no heart can sufficiently comprehend. Know therefore that while you are unconverted:

1. The infinite God is engaged against you. It is no small part of your misery that you are without God. How does Micah run crying after the Danites, “You have taken away my gods, and what have I more?” (Jud. 18:24). Oh what a mourning then must you lift up, you who are without God, who can lay no claim to Him without daring usurpation! How piercing a moan is that of Saul in his last extremity, “The Philistines are upon me, and God has departed from me” (I Sam. 28:15). Sinners, what will you do in the day of your visitation? Where will you flee to for help? Where will you leave your glory? What will you do when the Philistines are upon you, when the world shall take its eternal leave of you, when you must bid your friends, houses, and lands farewell forevermore? What then, I say, will you do, who have not God to go to? Will you call on Him? Will you cry to Him for help? Alas! He will not own you. He will not take any notice of you, but will send you away with “I never knew you. Depart from me, ye that work iniquity” (M att. 7:23).

They who know what it is to have a God to go to, a God to live upon—they know a little what a fearful misery it is to be without God. This made a holy man cry out, “Let me have God or nothing. Let me know H im and H is will, and what will please H im, and how I may come to enjoy H im, or would I never had an understanding to know anything!”

But you are not only without God, but God is against you. Oh if God would stand neutral, though He did not own nor help the poor sinner, his case were not so deeply miserable. Though God should give up the poor creature to the will of his enemies, to do their worst with him; though He should deliver him over to the tormentors, that devils should tear and torture him to their utmost power and skill, yet this were not half so fearful. But God will set Himself against the sinner; and, believe it, “It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God” (Heb. 10:31). There is no friend like Him, no enemy like Him. As much as heaven is above the earth, omnipotence above impotence, so much more terrible is it to fall into the hands of the living God, than into the paws of bears and lions, yea, furies or devils. God Himself will be your tormentor; your destruction shall come from the presence of the Lord (II Thes. 1:9).

If God be against you, who shall be for you? “If one man sin against another, the judge shall judge him: but if a man sin against the LORD, who shall entreat for him?” (I Sam. 2:25). “You, even You, are to be feared; and who shall stand in Your sight when You are angry?” (Ps. 76:7). Who or what shall deliver you out of His hands? Can money? “Riches profit not in the day of wrath” (Prov. 11:4). Can kings or warriors? No! "'T hey shall cry to the mountains and rocks to fall on them, and hide them from the face of Him that sits on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb; for the great day of His wrath has come, and who shall be able to stand?” (Rev. 6:15–17).

Sinner, I think this should go like a dagger to your heart, to know that God is your enemy. Oh where will you go? Where will you shelter yourself? There is no hope for you, unless you lay down your weapons and sue out your pardon, and get Christ to stand as your friend and make your peace. If it were not for this, you might go into some howling wilderness, and there pine in sorrow, and run mad for anguish of heart and horrible despair.

But in Christ there is a possibility of mercy for you, yea, an offer of mercy to you, that you may have God more for you than He is now against you. But if you will not forsake your sins, nor turn thoroughly and purposefully to God by a sound conversion, the wrath of God abides on you, and He proclaims Himself to be against you, as in the prophet: “Therefore, so says the Lord God, Behold I, even I, am against you!” (Ezek. 5:8).

(1). H is face is against you. “The face of the LORD is against them that do evil, to cut off the remembrance of them” (Ps. 34:16). Woe to the ones whom God shall set H is face against. When H e did but look on the host of the Egyptians, how terrible was the consequence! I will set my face against that man, and will make him a sign and a proverb, and will cut him off from the midst of my people; and you shall know that I am the LORD” (Ezek. 14:8).

(2). H is heart is against you. H e hates all the workers of iniquity. M an, does not your heart tremble to think of your being an object of God’s hatred? “Though Moses and Samuel stood before me, yet my mind could not be towards this people cast them out of my sight” (Jer. 15:1). “My soul loathed them, and their souls also abhorred me” (Zech. 11:9). (3). All H is attributes are against you. H is justice is like a flaming sword unsheathed against you. “If I what my glittering sword, and my hand take hold on judgment, I will render vengeance to My adversaries and will reward them that hate me. I will make mine arrows drunk with blood” (Deut. 32:41-42). So exact is justice that it will by no means clear the guilty. God will not discharge you, He will not hold you guiltless, but will require the whole debt in person from you, unless you can make a Scripture claim to Christ and H is satisfaction. When the enlightened sinner looks on justice, and sees the balance in which he must be weighed and the sword by which he must be executed, he feels an earthquake in his breast; but Satan keeps this out of sight and persuades the soul, while he can, that the Lord is all made up of mercy, and so lulls it asleep in sin. Divine justice is exact; it must have satisfaction to the utmost! It denounces “indignation and wrath, tribulation and anguish to every soul that does evil” (Rom. 2:8-9). It “curses every one that continues not in all things written in the book of the law, to do them” (Gal. 3:10). The justice of God to the unpardoned sinner who has a sense of his guilt, is more terrible than the sight of the creditor to the bankrupt debtor, of the judge and bench to the robber, or of the irons and gibbet to the guilty murderer. When justice sits upon life and death, what dreadful work does it make with the wretched sinner! “Bind him hand and foot; cast him into outer darkness; there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth. Depart from me, cursed ones, into everlasting fire” (Matt. 22:13; 25:41). This is the terrible sentence that justice pronounces. Sinner, by this severe justice must you be tried; and as God lives, this killing sentence you must hear, unless you repent and be converted.

The holiness of God is against you. He is not only angry with you—He may be so with H is children—but He has a fixed, habitual displeasure against you. God’s nature is infinitely contrary to sin, and so He cannot delight in a sinner out of Christ.

Oh what a misery is this, to be out of the favor, yea, under the hatred of God! What a misery it is that God, who can as easily lay aside H is nature and cease to be God, as not be contrary to you and detest you, except you be changed and renewed. Oh sinner, how dare you think of the bright and radiant sun of purity, or the beauties, the glory of holiness in God? For, “The stars are not pure in his sight.” “He humbles himself to behold things that are done in heaven” (Job 25:5; Ps. 113:6). Oh those all-searching eyes of H! What do they see in you? And have you no interest in Christ neither, that He should plead for you? I think He should hear you crying out, astonished, with the Bethshemites, “Who is able to stand before this holy Lord God?” (I Sam. 6:20).

The power of God is mounted like a mighty cannon against you. The glory of God’s power is to be displayed in the amazing confusion and destruction of them that obey not the gospel. He will make His power known in them (Rom. 9:22). How mightily He can torment them. For this end He raises them up “that He might make His power known” (Rom. 9:17). O man, are you able to contend with your Maker?

Sinner, the power of God’s anger is against you, and power and anger together make fearful work. It were better you had all the world in arms against you than to have the power of God against you. There is no escaping H is hands, no breaking H is prison. “The thunder of his power, who can understand?” (Job 26:14). Unhappy man that shall understand it by feeling it! “If He will contend with Him, he cannot answer Him one of a thousand. He is wise in heart and mighty in strength: who has hardened himself against Him, and prospered? He who removes the mountains, and they know it not; who overturns them in His anger; who shakes the earth out of her place, and the pillars of it tremble; who commands the sun, and it rises not; and seals up the stars... Who will say to Him, What are You doing? If God will not withdraw his anger, the proud helpers stoop under Him” (Job 9). And are you a fit match for such an antagonist? “Oh consider this, you that forget God, lest He tear you in pieces, and there be none to deliver” (Ps. 50:22). Submit to mercy. Let not dust and stubble stand out against the Almighty. Set not briers and thorns against Him in battle, lest He go through them, and consume them together. But lay hold on H is strength that you may make peace with Him (Isa. 27:4-5). “Woe to him that strives with His Maker!” (Isa. 45:9).

The wisdom of God is set to ruin you. H has ordained H is arrows, and prepared instruments of death, and made all things ready (Ps. 7:11-13). H is counsels are against you to contrive your destruction (Jer. 18:11). He laughs in Himself to see how you will be taken and ensnared in the evil day (Ps. 37:13). “The Lord shall laugh at him, for He sees that his day is coming.” He sees how you will come down mightily in a moment, how you will wring your hands, and tear your hair, and eat your flesh, and gnash your teeth for anguish and astonishment of heart, when you see you are fallen irretrievably into the pit of destruction.

The truth of God is sworn against you. If He is faithful and true, you must perish if you go on. Unless He is false to H is Word, you must die, except you repent. “If we believe not, yet He abides faithful, He cannot deny himself” (2 Tim. 2:13). He is faithful to H is threatenings as well as to H is promises, and will show H is faithfulness in our destruction, if we believe not. God has told you as plain as it can be spoken, that if He wash you not, you have no part in Him; that if you live after the flesh, you shall die; that except you be converted, you shall in no wise enter into the kingdom of heaven (John 13:8; Rom. 8:13; Matt. 18:3). Beloved, as the immutable faithfulness of God in His promise and oath affords believers strong consolation, so it is to unbelievers for strong consternation and confusion.

Oh sinner, tell me, what do you think of all the threatenings of God's Word that stand upon record against you? Do you believe they are true or not? If not, you are a wretched infidel. But, if you do believe them, heart of adamant that you have, that you can walk up and down in quiet, when the truth and faithfulness of God are engaged to destroy you! The whole book of God testifies against you while you remain unconverted. It condemns you in every leaf, and is to you like Ezekiel's roll, written within and without with lamentation, and mourning, and woe. And all this shall surely come upon you except you repent. "Haven and earth shall pass away, but one jot or tittle of this word shall never pass away" (Matt. 5:18).

Now, put all this together, and tell me if the case of the unconverted is not deplorably miserable. As we read of some persons that had bound themselves by an oath and a curse to kill Paul; so you must know, sinner, that all the attributes of the infinite God are bound by an oath to punish you. Oh man, what will you do? Where will you flee? If God's omniscience can find you, you shall not escape. If the true and faithful God will regard His oath, perish you must, except you believe and repent. If the Almighty has power to torment you, you must be perfectly miserable in soul and body to all eternity, unless it be prevented by speedy conversion.

The Whole Creation Of God Is Against You

2. The whole creation of God is against you. "The whole creation," says Paul, "groans and travails in pain" (Rom. 8:22). But what is it that the creation groans under? The fearful abuse it is subject to in serving the lusts of unsanctified men. And what is it that the creation groans for? For freedom and liberty from this abuse; for the "creature is not willingly made subject to this bondage" (Rom. 8:20–21). If the irrational and inanimate creatures had speech and reason, they would cry out under it, as a bondage insufferable, to be abused by the ungodly, contrary to their natures and the ends that the great Creator made them for. It is a saying of an eminent divine, "The liquor that the drunkard drinks, if it had reason, like a man, to know how shamefully it is abused, would groan in the barrel against him, it would groan in the cup against him, groan in his throat; in his stomach against him; it would fly in his face, if it could speak. And if God should open the mouths of His creatures, as He did the mouth of Balaam's ass, the proud man's garment on his back would groan against him. There is not a creature, if it had reason to know how it is abused till a man be converted, but would groan against him. The land would groan to bear him, the air would groan to give him breath, their houses would groan to dislodge them, their beds would groan to ease them, their food to nourish them, their clothes to cover them, and the creature would groan to give them any help and comfort, so long as they live in sin against God."

I think this should be a terror to an unconverted soul, to think he is a burden to the creation. "Cut it down; why does it cumber the ground?" (Luke 13:7). If inanimate creatures could but speak, your food would say, "Lord, must I nourish such a wretch as this, and yield forth my strength for him, to dishonor You? No, I will choke him rather, if You will give commission." The very air would say, "Lord, must I give this man breath, to set his tongue against heaven, and scorn Your people, and vent his pride and wrath, and filthy talk, and belch out oaths and blasphemy against You? No, if You will but say the word, he shall be breathless for me." His poor beast would say, "Lord, must I carry him upon his wicked designs? No, I will break his bones, I will end his days rather, if I may have but leave from You." The earth groans under the wicked man, and hell groans for him, till death satisfies both. While the Lord of hosts is against you, be sure the host of the Lord is against you, and all the creatures as it were up in arms till, upon a man's conversion, the controversy being settled between God and him, He makes a covenant of peace with the creature for him (Job 5:22–24; Hosea 2:18–20).

Satan Has Full Power Over You

3. Satan has his full power over you. You are fast in the paw of that roaring lion who is greedy to devour (I Pet. 5:8); "in the snare of the devil, led captive by him at his will" (II Tim. 2:26). This is the spirit that works in the children of disobedience (Eph. 2:2). H is drudges they are, and his lusts they do. He is the ruler of the darkness of this world (Eph. 6:12), that is, of ignorant sinners who live in darkness. You pity the poor Indians that worship the devil for their god, but little think it is your own case. It is the common misery of all the un sanctified that the devil is their god. Not that they intend to do him homage. They will be ready to defy him, and him that should say so of them; but all this while they serve him, and live under his government. "His servants you are to whom you obey" (Rom. 6:16). Oh how many then will be found to be the real servants of the devil, who take themselves for no other than the children of God! He can no sooner offer a sinful delight or opportunity for your unlawful advantage than you embrace it. If he suggests a lie, or prompts you to revenge, you readily obey. If he forbids you to read or pray, you listen to him, and therefore his servants you are. Indeed, he stands behind the curtain, he acts in the dark, and sinners do not see who sets them working, but all the while he leads them. Doubtless the liar does not intend to serve Satan, but his own advantage; yet it is he that stands unobserved and puts the thing into his heart.

Undoubtedly Judas when he sold his Master for money, and the Chaldeans and Sabeans when they plundered Job, did not intend to do the devil a pleasure, but to satisfy their own covetous thirst; yet it was he that actuated them in their wickedness (Job 1:12, 15, 17). Men may be very slaves and common drudges for the devil and not know it: nay, they may please themselves in thoughts of liberty!

Are you yet in ignorance and not turned from darkness unto light? I fear you are under the power of Satan. Do you live in the wilful practice of any known sin? Know now that you are of the devil. Do you live in strife, or envy, or malice? Truly he is your father. O dreadful case! However Satan may provide his slaves with various pleasures, yet it is but to draw them into endless perdition. The serpent comes with the fruit in his mouth but, as with Eve, you do not see the deadly sting. He that is now your tempter will one day be your tormentor. O that I could but make you see how bad a master you serve, how merciless a tyrant you gratify! For it is his pleasure to set you on evil in order to make your perdition and damnation sure, and to heat the furnace hotter and hotter in which you must burn for endless ages.

The Guilt Of All Your Sins Lies On You Like A Mountain

4. The guilt of all your sins lies like a mountain upon you. Poor soul, you do not feel it, but this is that which seals your misery. While unconverted, none of your sins are blotted out, they are all upon record against you. Regeneration and remission are never separated the unsanctified are unjustified and unpardoned. It is a fearful thing to be in debt, but above all, in God's debt; for there is no arrest so formidable as His, no prison so dreary as His. Look upon an enlightened sinner who feels the weight of his own guilt; oh how frightful are His looks, how fearful are his complaints! His comforts are turned into wormwood, and his moisture into drought, and his sleep is departed from his eyes. He is a terror to himself and all that are about him, and is ready to envy the very stones that lie in the street, because they are without sense and do not feel his misery. And he wishes he had been a dog rather than a man because then death had put an end to his misery; whereas now it will be but the beginning of that which will know no ending.

However you may make light of it now, you will one day find the guilt of unpardoned sin to be a heavy burden. "He who falls on this Stone will be broken, but on whomever it falls, it will grind him to powder" (Matt. 21:44). The guilt of our sins caused the agony and death of the blessed Savior. And if it did this in the green tree, what will it do in the dry?

Oh think of your case in time! Can you think of that threat without trembling. "You shall die in your sins" (John 8:24). Oh, better were it for you to die in a jail, in a ditch, in a dungeon, than die in your sins. If death, as it will take away all your comforts, would take away all your sins too, it were some mitigation. But your sins will follow you when your friends leave you, and all worldly enjoyments shake hands with you. Your sins will not die with you as a prisoner's other debts will; but they will go to judgment with you there to be your accusers; and they will go to hell with you there to be your tormentors. Oh the work that these will make you! Oh look over your debts in time, how every one of God's commandments is ready to arrest you, and take you by the throat for the innumerable bonds it has upon you! What will you do, then, when they shall all together come in against you? Hold open the eyes of your conscience to consider this: that you may despair of yourself and be driven to Christ, and fly for refuge to lay hold on the hope that is set before you.

Your Raging Lusts Are Enslaving You

5. Your raging lusts miserably enslave you. While unconverted you are a very servant to sin; it reigns over you, and holds you under its dominion, till you are brought within the bonds of God's covenant. There is not such another tyrant as sin. Oh the vile and fearful work that it engages its servants in!

Would it not pierce your heart to see a company of poor creatures drudging and toiling to carry together faggots and fuel for their own burning? This is the employment of sin's drudges. Even while they bless themselves in their unrighteous gains, while they sing in their pleasure, they are but treasuring up vengeance for their eternal burning; they are but adding to the pile of fuel, and flinging in oil to make the flame rage the fiercer. Who would serve such a master, whose work is drudgery, whose wages are death?

What a woeful spectacle was the poor wretch possessed by the legion of demons! Would it not have grieved your heart to see him among the tombs cutting and wounding himself? This is your case; such is your work; every stroke is a thrust at your heart! Conscience indeed is now asleep; but when death and judgment shall bring you to your senses, then you will feel the anguish in every wound. The convinced sinner is an instance of the miserable bondage of sin. Conscience flies upon him, and tells him the end of these things; and yet he is such a slave to his lusts that on he goes, though he sees it will be his perdition. When the temptation comes, lust breaks the cords of all his vows and promises, and carries him headlong to his own destruction.

The Furnace Of Eternal Vengeance Is Heated For You

6. The furnace of eternal vengeance is heated ready for you. Hell and destruction open their mouths upon you; they gape for you; they groan for you (Isa. 5:14), waiting as it were with a greedy eye as you stand on the brink. If the wrath of men be “as the roaring of a lion” (Prov. 19:12), “more heavy than the sand” (Prov. 27:3), what is the wrath of the infinite God. If the burning furnace heated in Nebuchadnezzar’s fiery rage, when he commanded it to be made seven times hotter, was so fierce as to burn up even those that drew near to throw the three children in, how hot is that burning of the Almighty’s fury! Surely this is seventy times seven more fierce. What do you think, O man, of being a faggot in hell to all eternity? “Can your heart endure, or can your hands be strong in the days that I shall deal with you?” (Ezek. 22:14). Can you abide the everlasting burnings? Can you dwell with consuming fire, when you shall be as glowing iron in hell, and your whole body and soul shall be as perfectly possessed by God’s burning vengeance as the sparkling iron with fire, when heated in the fiercest furnace? Some of the choicest servants of God, when under the hiding of His face, and dreading the effects of His displeasure, have bewailed their condition with bitter lamentations. How then will you endure when God shall pour out all His vials of wrath, and set Himself against you. When He shall make your conscience the tunnel by which He will be pouring His burning wrath, and set Himself against you? When He shall fill all your pores as full of torment as they are now full of sin. Yea, then mortality shall be your misery, and to die the death of a brute, and be swallowed in the gulf of annihilation, would be counted a felicity as the whole eternity of wishes and an ocean of tears shall never purchase?

Now you can put off the evil day, and laugh and be merry, and forget the terror of the Lord. But how will you hold out, or hold up, when God casts you into a “bed of torments” (Rev. 2:22) and makes you to “lie down in sorrow” (Isa. 50:11); when roaring and blasphemies shall be your only music, and the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the cup of His indignation, shall be your only drink (Rev. 14:10). In a word, when the smoke of your torment shall ascend for ever and ever, and you shall have no rest day and night, no repose in your conscience, no ease in your bones; but you shall be an execration and astonishment, and a curse and a reproach, for evermore (Jer. 42:18)?

Oh sinner, stop here, and consider. If you are a man, and not a senseless block, consider. Think where you are standing—on the very brink of destruction. As the Lord lives and as your soul lives, there is but a step between you and this. You do not know when you lie down, but you may be in hell before morning. You do not know when you rise up, but you may drop in before night. Do you make light of this? Will you go on in such a dreadful condition, as if nothing ailed you? If you put it off and say that this does not belong to you, look again over the previous chapter, and tell me the truth. Are none of those black marks found upon you? Do not blind your eyes. Do not decease yourself. See your misery while you may prevent it. Think what it is to be a vile outcast, a lost reprobate, a vessel of wrath, into which the Lord will be pouring out His tormenting fury while He has a being. Divine wrath is a fierce, devouring, everlasting, unquenchable fire, and this must be your portion, unless you consider your ways, and speedily turn to the Lord by a sound conversion.

Sinner, it is in vain to flatter you. This would be but to draw you into the unquenchable fire. Know from the living God that here you must lie with these burnings; you must dwell till immortality die and immutability change, till eternity run out and omnipotence is no longer able to punish, except you be in good earnest renewed by sanctifying grace.

The Law Discharges All Its Curses At You

7. The law discharges all its threats and curses at you. Oh how dreadfully does it thunder! It flashes devouring fire in your face. Its words are as drawn swords, and as the sharp arrows of the mighty. It demands satisfaction to the utmost, and cries, Justice! Justice! It speaks blood, and war, and wounds, and death, against you. Poor soul, away to your stronghold; away from your sins; haste to the sanctuary, the city of refuge— even the Lord Jesus Christ. H ide in Him, or else you are lost, without any hope of recovery.

The Gospel Binds Eternal Condemnation On You

8. The gospel itself binds the sentence of eternal condemnation on you. If you continue in your impenitent and unconverted state, know that the Gospel denounces a much sorer condemnation than ever would have been for the transgression only of the first covenant. Is it not a dreadful case to have the Gospel itself fill its mouth with threats, to have the Lord to roar from Mount Zion against you? (Joel 3:16). Hear the terror of the Lord. “He that believes not shall be condemned.” “Except you repent, you shall all perish.” “This is the condemnation, that light has come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light. “He that believes not, the wrath of God abides on him.” “If the word spoken by angels was steadfast, and every transgression and disobedience received a just recompense of reward, how shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation?” “He that despised Moses’ law died without mercy; of how much sorer punishment shall he be thought worthy who has trodden under foot the Son of God?” (Mark 16:16; Luke 13:3; John 3:19, 36; Heb. 2:2, 3; 10:28–29).

And is this true indeed? Is this your misery? Yea, it is as true as God is. Better open your eyes and see it now while you may remedy it, than blind and harden yourself till, to your eternal sorrow, you shall feel what you would not believe. And if it is true, what do you mean by lingering and loitering in such a state as this? Alas for you, poor man! How effectually has sin undone you, depraved you and despoiled you even of your reason to look after your own everlasting good! Miserable wretch! What stupidity and senselessness have surprised you! Oh let me knock and awake this sleeper! Who dwells within the walls of this flesh? Is there a soul here, a rational, understanding soul; or are you only a senseless lump?

Are you a rational soul, and yet become so brutish as to forget that you are immortal, and to think yourself to be as the beasts that perish? Having reason to understand the eternity of the future state, do you yet make light of being eternally miserable, which is to be so much below the brute, as it is worse to act against reason than to act without it? Oh unhappy soul, you who were the glory of man, the companion of angels, and the image of God, you who were God’s representative in the world, and had the supremacy amongst the creatures, and the dominion over your Maker’s works! Have you now become a slave to sense? Are you heaping together a little refined earth, so unsuited to your spiritual, immortal nature? Oh why do you not consider where you will spend eternity? Death is at hand, the Judge is even at the door, Yet a little while, and “time shall be no longer.” And will you run the hazard of continuing in such a state, in which, if you are overtaken, you are irrecoverably miserable?

Come then, arise, and attend to your nearest concerns. Tell me where you are going? What! Will you live in such a course, in which every act is a step to perdition, when you do not know but the next night you may make your bed in hell? Oh, if you have a spark of reason, consider, and turn and pay attention to your true friend, who would show you your present misery, that you might in time make your escape, and be eternally happy.

Hear what the Lord says. “Do you not fear Me, says the Lord? Will you not tremble at My presence?” (Jer. 5:22). Oh sinners, do you make light of the wrath to come? I am sure there is a time coming when you will not make light of it. Why, the very devils believe and tremble. What! Are you more hardened than they? Will you run upon the edge of the precipice? Will you play at the hole of the asp? Will you put your hand into the cockatrice’s den? Will you daily with devouring wrath as if you were indifferent whether you escape or endure it? There is no one so beside himself as the wilful sinner, that goes on in his unconverted state without sense, as if nothing ailed him. The man that runs into the cannon’s mouth and sports with his blood, or lets out his life in a frolic, is sensible, sober, and serious, compared with him that goes on still in his trespasses. “For he stretches out his hand against God, and acts mighty against the Almighty: he runs at Him with a stiff neck, with the thick layers of his shields, because he has covered his face with fat” (Job 15:25–27). Is it wisdom to sport with the second death, or to venture into the lake that burns with fire and brimstone? What shall I say? I can find no expression, no comparison, by which to set forth the dreadful madness of the soul that will go on in sin.

Awake! Awake! Poor sinner, rise up and take your flight. There is but one door that you may flee by, and that is the narrow door of conversion and the new birth. Unless you turn unfeignedly from all your sins, and come to Jesus Christ, and take Him for the Lord your righteousness, and walk in Him in holiness and newness of life, as the Lord lives, it is not more certain that you are now out of hell, than that you shall without fail be in it in only a few days or nights from now. Oh set your heart to think of your case. Does not your everlasting misery or welfare deserve a little consideration? Look again over the miseries of the unconverted. If the Lord has not spoken by me, regard me not, but if it is the very word of God that all this misery lies upon you, what a state you are in! Is it for one that has his senses to live in such a condition, and not to make all possible haste to prevent his utter ruin? Poor soul, who has bewitched you that in the matters of this present life you shall be wise enough to forecast your business, foresee your danger, and prevent your ruin, but in matters of everlasting consequence you are slight and careless, as if they little concerned you? Is it nothing to you to have all the attributes of God engaged against you? Can you live without His favor? Can you escape His hands, or endure His vengeance? Do you hear the creation groaning under you, and hell groaning for you, and yet think your case good enough? Are you under the power of corruption, in the dark, noisome prison, fettered with lusts, working out your own damnation? And is this not worth a thought? Will you make light of all the terrors of the law, of all its curses and thunders, as if they were but the threatenings of a child? Do you laugh at hell and destruction, or can you drink the envenomed cup of the Almighty’s fury, as if it were but a common potion?

Gird up now your loins like a man, for I will demand of you that you answer me. Are you such a leviathan as that the scales of your pride should resist your...
Maker? Will you esteem His arrows as straw, and the instruments of death as rotten wood?

Are you chief of all the children of pride, even that you should count His darts as stubble, and laugh at the shaking of His spear?

Do you mock at fear, and are you not frightened, do you not turn back from God's sword when His quiver rattles against you, the glittering spear and the shield? Well, if the threats and calls of the Word will not awaken you, I am sure death and judgment will.

Oh what will you do when the Lord comes forth against you, and in His fury falls upon you, and you shall feel what you now read?

If when Daniel's enemies were cast into the den of lions, both they and their wives and their children, the lions had the mastery over them and broke all their bones in pieces ere they came to the bottom of the den, then what shall become of you when you fall into the hands of the living God?

Oh, do not then contend with God. Repent and be converted, so none of this shall come upon you. “Seek ye the LORD while He may be found; call upon Him while He is near. Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the LORD, and He will have mercy upon him, and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon” (Isa. 55:6–7).
Before you read these directions, I advise you, yea, I charge you before God and His holy angels, that you resolve to follow them, as far as conscience shall be convinced of their agreeableness to God’s Word and your state; and call in His assistance and blessing that they may succeed. And as I have sought the Lord and consulted His oracles as to what advice to give you, so must you entertain it with that awe, reverence, and purpose of obedience, which the word of the living God requires.

Now, then, attend. “Set your heart to all that I shall testify unto you this day, ... for it is not a vain thing; it is your life” (Deut. 32:46–47). This is the aim of all that has been spoken until now, to bring you to set your heart upon turning to God. I would not trouble you, nor torment you before the time with the thoughts of your eternal misery, but in order that you may make your escape. Were you shut up under your present misery without remedy, it were but mercy to let you alone, that you might take in that little poor comfort which you are capable of in this world. But you may yet be happy, if you do not wilfully refuse the means of your recovery. Behold, I hold open the door to you; rise up, take your flight. I set the way of life before you walk in it, and you shall live, and not die. It grieves me that you should be your own murderers, and throw yourselves headlong, when God and man cry out to you.

The destruction of ungodly men is wilful. God that made them cries out to them, as Paul to the jailer when about to murder himself, “Do yourself no harm.” The ministers of Christ forewarn them, and follow them, and would gladly have them back; but, alas! no expostulations or entreaties will prevail, but men will hurl themselves into perdition, while pity itself looks on.

What shall I say? Would it not grieve a person of any humanity, if, in the time of a raging plague, he should have a remedy that would infallibly cure all the country and recover the most hopeless patients, and yet his friends and neighbors should die by hundreds around, because they would not use it? Brothers, sisters, though you carry the certain symptoms of death on your faces, yet I have a prescription that will cure you all infallibly. Follow these directions, and if you do not then win heaven, I will be content to lose it.

Hear, then, sinner, and as ever you would be converted and saved, take the following counsel:

It Is Impossible To Get To Heaven In This State

1. Set it down with yourself as an undoubted truth, that it is impossible for you ever to get to heaven in this unconverted state that you are in.

   Can any other but Christ save you? He tells you He will never do it except you be regenerated and converted. Does He not keep the keys of heaven, and can you go in without His leave? You will never go in your natural condition, without a sound and thorough conversion.

Labor To Get A Sight And A Sense Of Your Sins

2. Labor to get a thorough sight and lively sense and feeling of your sins.

   Till men are weary and heavy laden, and pricked at the heart, and quite sick of sin, they will not come to Christ for cure, nor sincerely enquire, saying, “What shall we do?” They must see themselves as dead men, before they will come unto Christ that they may live. Labor, therefore, to set all your sins in order before you; do not be afraid to look upon them, but let your spirit make diligent search. Enquire into your heart, and into your life. Enter into a thorough examination of yourself and all your ways, that you may make a full discovery and call in the help of God’s Spirit, out of a sense of your own inability to do this by yourself, for it is His proper work to convince of sin. Spread all before your conscience, till your heart and eyes are set weeping. Do not leave off striving with God and your own soul, till it cry out under the sense of your sins. Say with the enlightened jailer, “What must I do to be saved?” To this purpose:

   Meditate on the number of your sins. David’s heart failed when he thought of this, and considered that he had more sins than the hairs of his head. This made him cry out for the multitude of God’s tender mercies. The loathsome carcass does not more hatefully swarm with crawling maggots, than an unsanctified soul with filthy lusts. They fill the head, the heart, the eyes and mouth of him. Look backward; where was ever the place, what was ever the time, in which you did not sin? Look inward what part or power can you find in soul or body which is not poisoned with sin; what duty do you ever perform, into which this poison is not shed? Oh how great is the sum of your debts, who have been all your life running upon trust, and never did or can pay off one penny! Look over the sin of your nature, and all its cursed brood, the sins of your life. Call to mind your omissions and commissions; the sins of your thoughts, words, and actions; the sins of your youth, and the sins of your riper years. Do not be like a desperate bankrupt that is afraid to look over his books. Read the records of conscience carefully. These books must be opened sooner or later.

Meditate upon the aggravations of your sins, as they are the grand enemies of the God of your life, and of the life of your soul. They are the public enemies of all mankind. How do David, Ezra, Daniel, and the good Levites, aggravate their sins, from the consideration of their opposition to God and His good and righteous laws, and of the mercies and warnings against which they were committed! Oh the work that sin has done in the world! This is the enemy that has brought in death that has robbed and enslaved man, that has turned the world upside down, and sown the dissensions between man and the creatures, between man and man, yea, between man and himself, setting the animal part against the rational, the will against the judgment, lust against conscience yea, worst of all, between God and man, making the sinner both hateful to God and the hater of God. Poor soul, how can you make so light of sin? This is the traitor that thirsted for the blood of the Son of God, that sold Him, that mocked Him, that scourged Him, that spat in His face, that tore His hands, that pierced His side, that pressed His soul, that mangled His body, that never left Him till He had bound Him, condemned Him, nailed Him, crucified Him, and put Him to an open shame. This is that deadly poison, so powerful of operation that one drop of it, shed on the root of mankind, has corrupted, spoiled, poisoned, and ruined the whole race. This is the bloody executioner that has killed the prophets, burned the martyrs, murdered all the apostles, all the patriarchs, all the kings and potentates; that has destroyed cities, swallowed empires, and devoured whole nations. Whatever weapon it was done by, it was sin that caused the execution. Do you yet think it only a small thing? If Adam and all his children could be dug out of their graves, and their bodies piled up to heaven, and an inquest were made as to what matchless murderer were guilty of all this blood, it would be all found in sin. Study the nature of sin, till your heart incline to fear and loathe it; yea, meditate on the aggravations of your particular sins, how you have sinned against all God's warnings, against your own prayers, against mercies, against corrections, against clearest light, against freest love, against your own resolutions, against promises, vows, and covenants of better obedience. Charge your heart with these things till it blush for shame, and be brought out of all good opinion of itself.

Meditate on what sin deserves. It cries to Heaven it calls for vengeance. Its due wages are death and condemnation; it brings the curse of God upon the soul and body. The least sinful word or thought lays you under the infinite wrath of God. Oh what a load of wrath, what a weight of curses, what treasures of vengeance, have all the millions of your sins deserved! Oh judge yourself that the Lord may not judge you.

Meditate on the deformity and defilement of sin. It is black as hell, the very image and likeness of the devil drawn upon the soul. It would terrify you to see yourself in the hateful deformity of your nature. There is no mire so unclean, no plague or leprosy so odorous as sin, in which you are plunged and rendered more displeasing to the pure and holy nature of the glorious God than the vilest object can be to you. Could you take up a disgusting thing into your bosom and cherish it, and take delight in it? But you are as contrary to the pure and perfect holiness of the divine nature, till you are purified by the blood of Jesus and the power of renewing grace.

Above All Other Sins, Consider These Two

(1) The sin of your heart. It is to little purpose to lop off the branches while the root of corruption remains untouched. In vain do men lave out the streams, when the fountain is running that fills up all again. Let the axe of your repentance, with David's go to the root of sin. Study how deep, how permanent is your natural pollution, how universal it is, till you cry out, with Paul, against your body of death. The heart is never soundly broken till thoroughly convinced of the heinousness of its original and deep-rooted depravity. Here fix your thoughts; this is that which makes you backward to all good, and prone to all evil that sheds blindness, pride, prejudice, and unbelief into your mind; enmity, inconstancy, and obstinacy into your will; inordinate heats and colds into your affections; insensibleness and unfaithfulness into your conscience; slipperiness into your memory. In a word, it has put every wheel of the soul out of order, and made it, from a habituation of holiness, to become a very hell of iniquity. This is what has defiled and perverted all your members, and turned them into weapons of unrighteousness, and servants of sin; that has filled the head with carnal and corrupt desires, the hand with sinful practices, the eyes with wandering and wantonness, the tongue with deadly poison. This is what has opened the ears to tales, flattery and filthy talk, and shut them against the instructions of life; that which has rendered your heart the cursed source of all deadly imaginations. It pours out its wickedness without ceasing even as naturally as a fountain pours forth its waters, or the raging sea casts forth mire and dirt. And will you yet be in love with yourself, and tell us any longer of your good heart? Oh never leave meditating on the desperate contagion, the original corruption of your heart,
3. Strive to affect your heart with a deep sense of your present misery.

Read over the previous chapter again and again, and get it out of the book into your heart. Remember when you lie down, that for all you know, you may awake in flames; and when you rise up, that by the next night you may make your bed in hell. Is it nothing to you to live in such a fearful state, to stand tottering on the brink of the bottomless pit; and to live at the mercy of every disease that, if it but fall upon you, will send you forthwith into the burnings? Suppose you saw a condemned wretch hanging over Nebuchadnezzar’s burning fiery furnace by a thong, and his friends were hearing, then the Holy Spirit fell upon and filled them all.

Study your misery till your heart cry out for Christ as earnestly as ever a drowning man did for a boat, or the wounded for a surgeon. Men must come to see the danger and feel the smart of their deadly sores and sickness, or Christ will be to them a physician of no value. The manslayer hastens to the city of refuge, when pursued by the avenger of blood; but men must be even forced and driven out of themselves, or they will not come to Christ. It was distress and extremity that made the prodigal think of returning. While Laodicea thinks herself rich, increased in goods, in need of nothing, there is little hope. She must be deeply convinced of her wretchedness, blindness, poverty, and nakedness, before she will come to Christ for His gold, raiment, and eye-salve. Therefore hold the eyes of conscience open, amplify your misery as much as possible, do not flee the sight of it for fear it should fill you with terror. The sense of your misery is but as it were the festering of the wound, which is necessary to the cure. Better now to fear the torments that await you, than to feel them hereafter.

Settle That You Must Look Out Of Yourself

4. Settle it in your heart that you must look out of yourself and away from your own doings for help.

Do not think your praying, reading, hearing, confessing, or amending, will effect the cure. These must be attended to, but you are undone if you rest in them. You are a lost man if you hope to escape drowning on any other plank but Jesus Christ. You must unlearn yourself, and renounce your own wisdom, your own righteousness, your own strength, and throw yourself wholly upon Christ, or you cannot escape. While men trust in themselves, and establish their own righteousness, and have confidence in the flesh, they will not come sparingly to Christ. You must know your gain to be but loss, your strength but weakness, your righteousness rags and rottenness, before there will be an effectual closure between Christ and you. Can the lifeless body shake off its grave-clothes, and loose the bands of death? Then may you recover yourself, who are dead in trespasses and sins, and under an impossibility of serving your Maker acceptably in this condition. Therefore, when you go to pray or meditate, or to do any of the duties to which you are here directed, go out of yourself, and call in the help of the Spirit, as despairing to do anything pleasing to God in your own strength. Yet do not neglect duty. While the eunuch was reading, then the Holy Ghost did send Philip to him. When the disciples were praying, when Cornelius and his friends were hearing, then the Holy Spirit fell upon and filled them all.

From This Time Forward Renounce Your Sins

5. Henceforth renounce all your sins.

If you yield yourself to the practice of any sin, you are undone. In vain do you hope for life by Christ, except you depart from iniquity. Forsake your sins, or you cannot find mercy. You cannot be married to Christ except you be divorced from sin. Give up the traitor, or you can have no peace with heaven. Keep not Delilah in your lap. You must part with your sins or with your soul: spare but one sin and God will not spare you. Your sins must die, or you must die for them. If you allow one sin, though but a little, a secret one, though you may plead necessity, and have a hundred shifts and excuses for it, the life of your soul must go for the life of that sin. And will it not be dearly bought?

Poor sinner, hear and consider. If you will part with your sins, God will give you His Christ. Is not this a fair exchange? I testify unto you this day, that if you perish, it is not because there was never a Savior provided nor life tendered, but because, with the Jews, you prefer the murderer before the Savior, sin before Christ, and love darkness rather than light. Search your heart therefore with candles, as the Jews did their houses for leaven before the Passover. Labor to find out your sins; enter into your closet, and consider: What evil have I lived in? What duty have I neglected towards God? What sin have I lived in against my brother? And now strike the darts through the heart of your sin, as Joab did through Absalom's. Do not stand looking at your sins, nor rolling the morsel under your tongue, but cast it out as poison, with fear and detestation. Alas, what will your sins do for you that you should hesitate to part with them? They will flatter you, but they will undo you and poison you while they please you, and arm the justice and wrath of the infinite God against you. They will open hell for you, and pile up fuel to burn you. Behold the gibbet that they have prepared for you. Oh treat them like Haman, and do upon them the execution they would else have done upon you. Away with them, crucify them and let Christ only be Lord over you.

Solemnly Choose God For Your Portion

6. Make a solemn choice of God for your portion and blessedness.

With all possible devotion and veneration avouch the Lord for your God. Set the world, with all its glory, and paint, and gallantry, with all its pleasures and promotions, on the one hand and set God, with all His infinite excellencies and perfections, on the other; and see that you do deliberately make your choice.

Take up your rest in God. Sit down under His shadow. Let His promises and perfections turn the scale against all the world.

Settle it in your heart, that the Lord is an all-sufficient portion, that you cannot be miserable while you have God to live upon. Take Him for your shield and exceeding great reward. God alone is more than all the world; content yourself with Him. Let others possess the preferments and glory of the world but you place your happiness in the favor of God, and in the light of His countenance.

Poor sinner, you have fallen off from God, and have engaged His power and wrath against you. Yet know, that of His abundant grace He offers to be your God again in Christ. What do you say? Will you have the Lord for your God? Take this counsel, and you shall have Him. Come to Him by Christ, renounce the idols of your pleasures, gain, reputation. Let these be pulled from their throne, and set God's interest uppermost in your heart. Take Him as God, to be chief in your affections and purposes; for He will not endure to have any set above Him. You must take Him in all His personal relations and in all His essential perfections.

(1). In all His personal relations. God the Father must be taken for your Father. Oh come to Him as did the prodigal: “Father, I have sinned against heaven, and in your sight, and am not worthy to be called your son. But since You are pleased to take me by Your wonderful mercy, though I am of myself most vile, even a beast and no man before You, to be Your child, I solemnly take You for my Father. I commend myself to Your care, and trust to Your providence, and cast my burden on You. I depend on Your provision, and submit to Your corrections, and trust under the shadow of Your wings, and hide in Your chambers, and fly to Your name. I renounce all confidence in myself; I repose my confidence in You. I declare my engagement with You; I will be for You, and not for another.”

God the Son must be taken for your Savior, your Redeemer, and your Righteousness. He must be accepted, as the only way to the Father, and the only means of life. Oh then put off the garments of your captivity; put on the wedding garment, and go and marry yourself to Christ, vowing: “Lord, I am Yours, and all I have, my body, soul, and estate. I give my heart to You; I will be Yours undividedly, Yours everlastingly. I will set Your name on all I have, and use it only as Your goods, during Your absence, resigning all to You. I will have no king but You to reign over me. Other lords have had dominion over me; but now I will make mention of Your name only, and do here take an oath of fidelity to You, promising to serve and fear You above all competitors. I reject my own righteousness, and despar of ever being pardoned and saved for my own duties or graces, and lean solely on Your all-sufficient sacrifice and intercession for pardon, life, and acceptance before God. I take You for my only Guide and Instructor, resolving to be directed by You, and to wait for Your counsel.”

Lastly, God the Spirit must be taken for your Sanctifier, for your Advocate, your Counselor, your Comforter, the Teacher of your ignorance, the Pledge and Earnest of your inheritance. Come Spirit of the Most High, here is a temple for You; rest here for ever; dwell here. I give possession to You, full possession; I send You the keys of my heart, that all may be Yours. I give up the use of all to You, that every faculty and every member may be Your instrument to work righteousness and do the will of my Father who is in heaven.

(2). In all His essential perfections. Consider how the Lord has revealed Himself to you in His Word. Will you take Him as such a God, sinner? Here is the most blessed news that ever came to the sons of men: The Lord will be your God, if you will but close with Him in His excellencies. Will you have the merciful, the gracious, the sin-pardoning God to be your God? "Oh yes," says the sinner, "otherwise I am undone." But He further tells you, "I am the holy and sin-hating God. If you will be owned as one of My people, you must be holy—holy in heart, holy in life. You must put away all your iniquities, be they ever so dear, ever so natural, ever so necessary to the maintaining of your worldly interest. Unless you will be at enmity with sin, I cannot be your God. Cast out the leaven. Put away the evil of your doings cease to do evil learn to do well. Bring forth My enemies, or there is no peace to be had with Me. What does your heart answer? "Lord, I desire to be holy as You are holy, and to be made partaker of Your holiness. I love You, not only for Your goodness and mercy, but also for Your holiness and purity. I take Your holiness for my happiness. Oh be to me a fountain of holiness. Set on me the stamp and impress of Your holiness. I will thankfully part with all my sins at Your command. My wilful sins I do from now on forsake and for mine infirmities that cleave unto me, I detest them, and will pray against them, and never let them have rest in my soul." Beloved, whoever of you will thus accept the Lord, He shall be your God.

Again, He tells you, "I am the all-sufficient God. Will you lay all at My feet, give up all to My disposal, and take Me for your only portion? Will you own and honor my all-sufficiency? Will you take Me as your happiness and treasure, your hope and bliss? I am a sun and a shield all in one; will you have Me for your all?" Now what do you say to this? Does your soul long for the onions and flesh-pots of Egypt? Are you loath to change your earthly happiness for a portion in God; and though you would be glad to have God and the world too, yet can you not think of having Him, and nothing but Him? Would you rather take up with the earth below, if God would but let you keep it as long as you would? This is a fearful sign. But now, if you are willing to sell all for the Pearl of great price; if your heart answer, "Lord, I desire no other portion but You. Take the grain and the wine and the oil who will, just so I may have the light of Your countenance. I fix upon You for my happiness. I gladly venture myself on You, and trust myself with You. I set my hope in You; I take up my rest with You. Let me hear You say, 'I am your God, your salvation,' and I have enough, all I wish for. I will make no terms with You but for Yourself. Let me have You for sure, let me be able to make my claim and see my title to Yourself; then as for other things, I leave them to You. Give me more or less, anything or nothing; I will be satisfied in my God." Take Him in this way, and He is your own.

Again, He tells you, "I am the sovereign Lord; if you will have Me for your God you must give Me the supremacy. You must not make Me second to sin or any worldly interest. If you will be My people I must have the rule over you; you must not live at your pleasure. Will you come under My yoke? Will you bow to My government? Will you submit to My discipline, to My Word, to My rod?" Sinner, what do you say to this? Will you say, "Lord, I had rather be at Your command than live at my own will. I had rather have Your will to be done than mine. I approve of and consent to Your laws, and account it my privilege to be under them. And though the flesh rebel, and often break its bounds, I have resolved to take no other Lord but You. I willingly take the oath of Your supremacy, and acknowledge You for my Sovereign, and resolve all my days to pay the tribute of worship, obedience, love, and service to You, and to live to You to the end of my life." This is a right acceptance of God.

To be short, He tells you, "I am the true and faithful God. If you will have Me for your God you must be content to trust Me. Will you venture yourselves upon My Word, and depend on My faithfulness, and take My bond for your security? Will you be content to follow Me in poverty, and reproach, and affliction here; and to tarry till the next world for your preferment? Will you be content to labor and suffer, and to tarry for your returns till the resurrection of the just? My promise will not always be instantly fulfilled; will you have the patience to wait?"

Now, beloved, what do you say to this? Will you have this God for your God? Will you be content to live by faith, and trust Him for an unseen happiness, an unseen heaven, an unseen glory? Do your hearts answer, "Lord, we will venture ourselves upon You. We commit ourselves to You, we cast ourselves upon You. We know whom we have trusted. We are willing to take Your word; we prefer Your promises before our own possessions, and the hopes of heaven before all the enjoyments of earth. We will do Your pleasure—whatever Your will is here, so that we may have but Your faithful promise for heaven hereafter." If you can in trust, and upon deliberation, thus accept of God, He will be yours. So there must be, in a right conversion to God, a closing with Him suitable to His excellencies. But when men close with Him as mercy, but yet love sin, hating holiness and purity; or will take Him for their Benefactor, but not for their Sovereign or for their Patron, and not for their Portion; this is no thorough and sound conversion.
Accept The Lord Jesus As Yours In All His Offices

7. Accept the Lord Jesus in all His offices as yours. Upon these terms Christ may be had. Sinner, you have undone yourself, and are plunged into the ditch of most deplorable misery, out of which you are never able to escape. But Jesus Christ is able and ready to help you, and He freely tenders Himself to you. Be your sins ever so many, ever so great, or of ever so long continuance, yet you shall be most certainly pardoned and saved, if you do not wretchedly neglect the offer that in the name of God is here made to you. The Lord Jesus calls you to look to Him and be saved. Come unto Him, and He will in no wise cast you out. Yea, He beseeches you to be reconciled. He invites you to accept Him, and live with Him. If you die, it is because you would not come to Him for life (Isa. 45:22; John 6:37; II Cor. 5:20; Prov. 1:20; Rev. 3:20; John 5:40).

Accept an offered Christ now, and you are made forever. Give your consent to Him now, and the match is made; all the world cannot hinder it. Do not stand off because of your unworthiness. I tell you, nothing can undo you but your own unwillingness. Speak, will you give your consent? Will you have Christ in all His relations to be yours, your King, your Priest, your Prophet? Will you have Him and bear His cross? Do not take Christ without consideration, but sit down first and count the cost. Will you lay all at His feet? Will you be content to run all hazards with Him? Will you take your lot with Him, fall where it will? Will you deny yourself, take up your cross, and follow Him? Are you deliberately, understandingly, freely determined to cleave to Him in all times and conditions? If so, you shall never perish, but you have passed from death unto life.

Here lies the main point of your salvation, that you be found in your covenant-closure with Jesus Christ. Therefore, if you love yourself, see that you be faithful to God and your soul here.

Resign All That Is Yours To Be His

8. Resign all your powers and faculties, and your whole interest to be His. “They gave their own selves unto the Lord” (II Cor. 8:5). “Present your bodies a living sacrifice” (Rom. 12:1). The Lord seeks not yours, but you. Resign therefore your body with its members to Him, and your soul with all its powers, that He may be glorified in your body and in your spirit, which are His.

In a right closing with Christ all your faculties are given up to Him. Your judgment says, “Lord, You are worthy of all acceptation, Chief of ten thousand; happy is the man that finds You. All the things that are to be desired are not to be compared with You” (Prov. 3:13-15). The understanding lays aside its corrupt reasons and cavils, and its prejudices against Christ and H is ways. It is now past questioning, and determines for Christ against all the world. It concludes it is good to be here, and sees such a treasure in this field, such a value in this pearl, as is worth all (Matt. 13:44–46). “Oh here is the richest prize that ever man was offered. Here is the most sovereign remedy that ever mercy prepared. He is worthy of my esteem, worthy of my choice, worthy of my love, worthy to be embraced, adored, admired, forevermore (Rev. 5:12). I approve of His articles; His terms are righteous and reasonable, full of equity and mercy.”

Again, the will resigns. It stands no longer wavering, but is peremptorily determined: “Lord, Your love has overcome me, You have won me, and You shall have me. Come in, Lord; to You I freely open; I consent to be saved in Your own way. You shall have anything—nay, have all, let me have but You.” The memory gives up to Christ: “Lord, here is a storehouse for You; out with this trash; lay in the treasures. Let me be a repository of Your truth, Your promises, Your providences.” The conscience comes in: “Lord, I will ever side with You; I will be Your faithful registrar. I will warn when the sinner is tempted, and smite when You are offended. I will witness for You, and judge for You, and guide into Your ways, and will never let sin have quiet in this soul.” The affections also come to Christ, saying: “My Love, My Desire, now I have what I sought for. Here is the Desire of nations, here is bread for me, and balm for me; all that I want.” Fear bows the knee with awe and veneration: “Welcome, Lord; to You I will pay my homage. Your Word and rod shall command my actions; You will I reverence and adore; before You will I fall down and worship.” Grief likewise puts in: “Lord, Your displeasure and Your dishonor, Your people’s calamities and my own iniquities, shall be what shall set me a-weeping. I will mourn when You are offended; I will weep when Your holy cause is wounded.” Anger likewise comes in for Christ: “Lord, nothing so enrages me as my folly against You, that I should be so drunken as to hearken to the flatteries of sin and the temptations of Satan against You.” Hatred, too, will side with Christ: “I pledge mortal enmity to Your enemies, that I will never be a friend to Your foes. I vow an eternal quarrel with every sin. I will give no quarter, I will make no peace.” So let all your powers yield to Jesus Christ.

Again, you must give up your whole interest to Him. If there is anything that you keep back from Christ, it will be your undoing (Luke 14:33). Unless you will forsake all, in preparation and resolution of your heart, you cannot be H is disciple. You must hate father and mother, yea, and your own life also, in comparison with Him, and as far as it stands in competition with Him. In a word, you must give Him yourself, and all that you have without reservation, or else you can have no part in Him.
Choose Christ's Laws As Your Rule

9. Choose the laws of God as the rule of your words, thoughts and actions. This is the true convert's choice. But here remember these three rules.

1. You must choose them all, there is no getting to heaven by a partial obedience. It is not enough to take up the cheap and easy part of religion, and let alone the duties that are costly and self-denying, and oppose the interests of the flesh; you must take all or none. A sincere convert, though he makes conscience of the greatest sins and weightiest duties, yet he makes true conscience of little sins and of all duties.

2. You must choose Christ's laws for all times, for prosperity and adversity. A true convert is resolved in his course; he will stand to his choice, and will not set his back to the wind, and be of the religion of the times. “I have clung to Your testimonies; I have inclined my heart to perform Your statutes always, even to the end. Your testimonies have I taken as a heritage forever. I will have respect to Your statutes continually” (Ps. 119:110–112, 117).

3. This must be done deliberately and understandingly. The disobedient son said, “I go, sir,” but he went not. How fairly did they promise, “All that the LORD our God shall speak unto you, we will do it!” And it is likely they meant what they said. But when it came to the trial it was found that there was not such a heart in them as to do what they had promised (Deut. 5:27, 29).

If you could be sincere in closing with the laws and the ways of Christ, study the meaning, and breadth, and extent of them. Remember that they are spiritual; they reach the very thoughts and inclinations of the heart; so that, if you will walk by this rule, your very thoughts and inward motions must be under government. Again, they are very strict and self-denying, quite contrary to your natural inclinations. You must take the strict gate, the narrow way, and be content to have the flesh curbed from the liberty it desires. In a word, they are very large, for “Your commandments are exceeding broad” (Ps. 119:96).

Do not rest in general commands, for there is much deceit in them, but bring down your heart to the particular commands of Christ. Those Jews, in the prophet, seemed as well resolved as any in the world, and called God to witness that they meant as they said. But they rested in generals. When God's command crosses their inclination, they will not obey (Jer. 42:1–6, 43:2). Take the Westminster Assembly's Larger Catechism, and see their excellent and most comprehensive exposition of the commandments, and put your heart to it. Are you resolved, in the strength of Christ, to set upon the conscientious practice of every duty that you find to be required of you, and to set against every sin that you find to be forbidden. This is the way to be sound in God's statutes, that you may never be ashamed (Ps. 119:80).

Observe the special duties that your heart is most against, and the special sins that it is most inclined to, and see whether it be truly resolved to perform the one and forego the other. What do you say to your bosom sin, your profitable sin? What do you say to costly, hazardous, and flesh-displeasing duties? If you halt here, and do not resolve, by the grace of God, to cross the flesh and be in earnest, you are unsound.

Covenant All This Between God And Your Soul

10. Let all this be completed in a solemn covenant between God and your soul.

Set apart some time, more than once, to be spent in secret before the Lord—in seeking earnestly His special assistance and gracious acceptance of you—in searching your heart, whether you are sincerely willing to forsake all your sins, and to resign yourself, body and soul, unto God and His service; to serve Him in holiness and righteousness all the days of your life.

Compose your spirit into the most serious frame possible, suitable to a transaction of so high importance. Lay hold on the covenant of God, and rely on His promise of giving grace and strength, by which you may be enabled to perform your promise. Do not trust to your own strength, to the strength of your own resolutions; but take hold on His strength.

Being thus prepared, on some convenient time set apart for the purpose, enter upon the work, and solemnly, as in the presence of the Lord, fall down on your knees and spreading forth your hands towards heaven open your heart to the Lord in these, or the like words:

“Oh most holy God, for the passion of Your Son, I beseech You accept Your poor prodigal now prostrating himself at Your door. I have fallen away from You by my iniquity, and am by nature a son of death; but thousandfold more the child of hell by wicked practice. But of Your infinite grace You have promised mercy to me in Christ, if I will but turn to You with all my heart. Therefore upon the call of Your gospel, I am now come in, and throwing down my weapons, submitting myself to Your mercy. And because as the condition of my peace with You, You require that I should put away my idols, and be at defiance with all Your enemies, which I acknowledge I have wickedly sided with against You; I here from the bottom of my heart renounce them all, firmly covenanting with Thee, not to allow myself in any known sin, but conscientiously to use all the means that I know You have prescribed for the death and utter destruction of all my corruptions. And whereas formerly I have inordinately and idolatrously set my affections upon the world, I do here resign my heart to You who made it, humbly declaring before Your glorious Majesty, that it is the firm resolution of my heart, and that I do unfeignedly desire grace from You, that when You shall call me to it, I may practice this my resolution through Your assistance, to forsake all that is dear unto me in this world, rather than to turn from You to the ways of sin. I vow that I will watch against all its temptations, whether of prosperity or adversity, lest they should withdraw my heart from You. I beseech You also to help me against the temptations of Satan, to whose wicked suggestions I resolve by Your grace never to yield myself a servant. And because my own righteousness is but as filthy rags, I renounce all my confidence therein, and acknowledge that I am of myself a hopeless, helpless, undone creature, without righteousness and the Spirit of God is striving with you. Now ministers of Your grace never to yield myself a servant. And because my own righteousness is but as filthy rags, I renounce all my confidence therein, and acknowledge that I am of myself a hopeless, helpless, undone creature, without righteousness or strength.

“And since You have been pleased to give me Your bottomless mercy offered most graciously to me, a wretched sinner, to be again my God through Christ, if I would accept You; I call upon heaven and earth to record this day, that I do here solemnly avouch You for the Lord my God, and with all possible veneration, bowing the neck of my soul under the feet of Your most sacred Majesty, I do here take You, the Lord Jehovah, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, for my portion and chief good, and do give myself, body and soul, to be Your servant. And I promise and vow to serve You in holiness and righteousness all the days of my life.

And since You have appointed the Lord Jesus Christ the only means of coming to You, I do here solemnly join myself in a marriage covenant to Him: O Blessed Jesus, I come to You hungry and thirsty, poor and wretched, miserable, blind and naked, a most loathsome polluted wretch, a guilty condemned malefactor, unworthy to wash the feet of the servants of my Lord, much more to be solemnly married to the King of Glory. But such is Your unparalleled love, I do here with all my power accept You, and do take You for my Head and Husband, for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, for all times and conditions, to love, honor and obey You before all others, and this to the death. I embrace You in all Your offices. I renounce my own worthiness, and do here avow You to be the Lord my Righteousness. I renounce my own wisdom, and do here take You for my only Guide. I renounce my own will, and take Your will for my law.

“And since You have told me that I must suffer if I will reign, I do here covenant with You to take my lot, as it falls, with You, and by Your grace assisting to run all hazards with You, truly supposing that neither life nor death shall part between You and me.

“And because You have been pleased to give me Your holy laws, as the rule of my life, and the way in which I should walk to Your kingdom, I do here willingly put my neck under Your yoke, and set my shoulder to Your burden. And subscribing to all Your laws as holy, just, and good, I solemnly take them as the rule of my words, thoughts, and actions; promising that though my flesh contradict and rebel, yet I will endeavor to order and govern my whole life to Your direction, and will not allow myself to neglect anything that I know to be my duty.

“O high and holy Jehovah, the Lord God Omnipotent, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, You have now become my covenant Friend, and I through Your infinite grace have become Your covenant servant. And the covenant which I have made on earth, let it be ratified in heaven.”

This covenant I advise you to make, not only in heart, but in word; not only in word, but in writing; and that you would with all possible reverence spread the writing before the Lord, as if you would present it to Him as your Act and Deed. And when you have done this, set your hand to it and sign it. Keep it as a memorial of the solemn transactions that have passed between God and you, that you may have recourse to it in doubts and temptations.

Beware That You Do Not Delay Your Conversion

11. Take heed of delaying your conversion, but make a speedy, an immediate surrender of your heart to God.

“I made haste, and delayed not” (Ps. 119:60). Remember and tremble at the sad instance of the foolish virgins who did not come till the door of mercy was shut, and of a convinced Felix who put off Paul to another season (but we do not find that he had another season). Oh come in while it is called to-day, lest you should be hardened through the deceitfulness of sin; lest the day of grace should be over, and the things which belong to your peace should be hidden from your eyes. Now mercy is wooing you; now Christ is waiting to be gracious to you, and the Spirit of God is striving with you.
are calling: now conscience is stirring; now the market is open, and oil may be had, you have opportunity to buy. Now Christ is to be had for the taking. Oh! Strike in with the offers of grace. Oh it is now or never! If you make light of this offer, God may swear in His wrath that you shall never taste of His supper (Luke 14:24).

Conscientiously Attend On The Word To Convert You

12. Attend conscientiously upon the Word, as the means appointed for your conversion.

   Attend, I say, not customarily, but conscientiously, with this desire, design, hope, and expectation, that you may be converted by it. Come to every sermon you hear with this thought: “Oh I hope God will now come in; I hope this day may be the time, this may be the man by whom God will give me home.” When you are coming to the privileges of God’s house, lift up your heart to God in this way: “Lord, let this be the Sabbath, let this be the season in which I may receive renewing grace. Oh let it be said that this day such a one was born unto You.”

   Objection: You will say, I have been a hearer of the Word a long time, yet it has not been effectual to my conversion.

   Answer: Yes but you have not attended upon it in this manner, as a means of your conversion, nor with this design, nor praying for and expecting the happy effect from it.

Join With The Spirit When He Works On Your Heart

13. Strike in with the Spirit when He begins to work upon your heart.

   When He works convictions, do not stifle them, but join in with Him, and beg the Lord to give you saving conversion. “Quench not the Spirit.” Do not reject Him, do not resist Him. Beware of stifling convictions with evil company or worldly business. When you are in anguish on account of sin and fears about your eternal state, beg of God that you may have peace only in thoroughly renouncing all sin, loathing it in your inmost soul, and giving your whole heart, without reserve, to Christ. Say to Him, “Strike home, Lord; do not leave the work half-done. Go to the bottom of my corruption, and let out the life-blood of my sins.” Thus yield yourself to the working of the Spirit, and hoist your sails to His gusts.

Constantly And Diligently Use Serious, Fervent Prayer

14. Set upon the constant and diligent use of serious and fervent prayer.

   He that neglects prayer is a profane and unsanctified sinner. He that is not constant in prayer is a hypocrite, unless the omission be contrary to his ordinary course, under the force of some instant temptation. One of the first things conversion appears in is that it sets men to praying. Therefore set to this duty. Let not one day pass in which you have not, morning and evening, set apart some time for solemn prayer in secret. Also, call your family together daily and duly to worship God with you. Woe be unto you, if you be found among the families that call not upon God’s name (Jer. 10:25). But cold and lifeless devotions will not reach halfway to heaven. Be fervent and importunate. Importunity will carry it, but without violence the kingdom of heaven will not be taken. You must strive to enter, and wrestle with tears and supplications as Jacob, if you would gain the blessing. You are undone for ever without grace, and therefore you must set to it, and resolve to take no denial. That man who is fixed in this resolution says, “Well, I must have grace, or I will never give over till I have grace. I will never cease earnestly pleading, and striving with God and my own heart, till He renews me by the power of His grace.”

Forsake Evil Company; Forbear Occasions Of Sin

15. Forsake your evil company, and forbear the occasions of sin.

   You will never be turned from sin till you decline and forego the temptations of sin. I never expect your conversion from sin, unless you are brought to some self-denial, so as to flee the occasions. If you will be nibbling at the bait, and playing on the brink, and tampering with the snare, your soul will surely be taken. Where God exposes men, in His providence, unavoidably to temptation, and the occasions are such as we cannot remove, we may expect special assistance in the use of His means, but when we tempt God by running into danger, He will not engage to support us when we are tempted. And, of all temptations, one of the most fatal and pernicious is evil companions. Oh what hopeful beginnings have these often stifled! Oh the souls, the estates, the families, the towns, that these have ruined! How many poor sinners have been enlightened and convinced, and been just ready to escape the snare of the devil, and have even escaped it. And yet wicked company has pulled them back at last, and made them sevenfold more the children of hell! I have no hopes of you, except you shake off your evil company. Your life depends upon it: forsake this, or you cannot live. Will you be worse than the ass of Balaam, to run on when you see the Lord with a drawn sword in the way? Let this sentence be written in capitals upon your conscience, “A COMPANION OF FOOLS SHALL BE DESTROYED” (Prov. 13:20). The Lord has spoken it, and who shall reverse it?

And will you run upon destruction when God himself forewarns you? If God ever changes your heart, it will appear in the change of your company. Oh fear and flee the gulf by which so many thousands have been swallowed up in perdition. It will be hard for you indeed to make your escape. Your companions will be mocking you out of your religion, and will study to fill you with prejudices against strictness, as ridiculous and comfortless. They will be flattering you and alluring you but remember the warnings of the Holy Spirit: “My Son, if sinners entice you, do not consent. If they say, Come with us, cast in your lot among us; do not walk in the way with them, refrain your foot from their path; avoid it, pass not by it, turn from it, and pass away. For the way of the wicked is as darkness, they know not at what they stumble. They lie in wait for their own blood, they lurk secretly for their own lives” (Prov. 1:10–19, 4:15–19). My soul is moved within me to see how many of my hearers and readers are likely to perish, both they and their houses, by this wretched mischief, even the frequenting of such places and company, by which they are drawn into sin. Once more I admonish you, as Moses did Israel: “Depart, I pray you, from the tents of these wicked men” (Num. 16:26). Oh flee from them as you would those that had the plague with sores running in their foreheads. These are the devil’s panders and decoys; and if you do not make your escape they will draw you into perdition, and will prove your eternal ruin.

Set Apart A Day
To Humble Your Soul In Secret

16. Set apart a day to humble your soul in secret by fasting and prayer, to work a sense of your sins and miseries upon your heart.

Read over a thorough exposition of the Commandments, and write down the duties omitted, and sins committed by you against every commandment, and so make a catalogue of your sins, and with shame and sorrow spread them before the Lord. And if your heart be truly willing to the terms, join yourself solemnly to the Lord in that covenant set down in Direction 10 of this chapter, and the Lord grant you mercy in His sight.

In this way I have told you what you must do to be saved. Will you now obey the voice of the Lord? Will you arise and set to the work? Poor man, what answer will you make, what excuse will you have, if you should perish at last through very wilfulness, when you have known the way of life? I do not fear your miscarrying, if your own idleness does not at last undo you, in neglecting the use of the means that are so plainly here prescribed. Arouse yourself, sluggard, and ply your work. Be doing, and the Lord will be with you.

An Unregenerate Sinner
Communes With Himself

Ah wretched man that I am! What a condition have I brought myself into by sin! Oh I see my heart has deceived me all this while, in flattering me that my condition was good. I see, I am a lost and undone man, forever undone, unless the Lord lift me out of this condition. My sins, My sins Lord, what an unclean, polluted wretch I am. More loathsome and odious to You than the most hateful venom or decaying carcass can be to me. Oh what a hell of sin is in this heart of mine, which I have flattered myself to be a good heart! Lord, how universally am I corrupted, in all my parts, powers, performances. All the imaginations of my heart are only evil continually. I am under an inability to, and aversion from, and an enmity against anything that is good; and I am prone to all that is evil. My heart is a very sink of sin: and oh the innumerable hosts and swarms of sinful thoughts, words and actions that have flown from it! Oh the load of guilt that is on my soul! My head is full, and my heart is full; my mind and my members, they are all full of sin. Oh my sins! How do they stare upon me! Woe is me, my creditors are upon me: every commandment takes hold upon me; how endless then is the sum of all my debts. If this whole world were filled up from earth to heaven with paper, and all this paper written over within and without by arithmeticians, yet, when all were added up, it would come inconceivably short of what I owe to the least of God’s commandments. Woe to me, for my debts are infinite, and my sins are increased. They are wrongs to an infinite Majesty, and if he that commits treason against a mortal is worthy to be racked, drawn and quartered, what have I deserved that have so often lifted up my hand against Heaven, and have struck at the crown and dignity of the Almighty?

Oh my sins! My sins! Behold a troop comes! Multitudes! Multitudes! There is no number of their armies. Innumerable evils have compassed me about; mine iniquities have taken hold upon me. They have set themselves against me. Oh it was better to have all the regiments of hell come against me, than to have my sins fall upon me, to the spoiling of my soul! Lord, how am I surrounded! How many are they that rise up against me? They have beset me behind and before. They swarm within me and without me; they have possessed all my powers, and have fortified my unhappy soul as a garrison, which this brood of hell maintains against the God that made me.

And they are as mighty as they are many. The sands are many, but then they are not great; the mountains great, but then they are not many. But woe is me, my sins are as many as the sands, and as mighty as the mountains. Their weight is greater than their number. It were better...
that the rocks and the mountains should fall upon me,

Lord, I am heavy laden; let mercy help, or I am gone.

Unload me of this heavy guilt, this sinking load, or I am crushed without hope, and must be pressed down to hell.

If my grief were thoroughly weighed, and my sins laid in the balance together, they would be heavier than the sand of the sea; therefore my words are swallowed up: they would weigh down all the rocks and the hills, and turn the balance against all the isles of the earth. Lord, You know my manifold transgressions, and my mighty sins.

Ah, my soul! Alas, my glory! How are you humbled! Once the glory of the creation, and the image of God: now, a lump of filthiness, a coffin of rottenness, replenished with stench and loathsomeness. Oh what work has sin made with you! You shall be termed ‘Forsaken’ and all the rooms of your faculties ‘Desolate’, and the name that you shall be called by is ‘Ichabod’, or, ‘Where is the glory?’ How are you come down mightily! My beauty is turned into deformity, and my glory into shame. Lord, what a loathsome leper am I! The ulcerous bodies of Job or Lazarus were not more offensive to the eyes and nostrils of men, than I must needs be to the most holy God, whose eyes cannot behold iniquity.

And what misery have my sins brought upon me! Lord, what a state I am in! Sold under sin, cast out of God’s favor, accursed from the Lord, cursed in my body, cursed in my soul, cursed in my name, in my estate, my relations, and all that I have. My sins are unpardoned, and my soul within a step of death. Alas what shall I do? Where shall I go? Which way shall I look? God is frowning on me from above, hell gaping for me beneath, conscience smiting me within, temptations and dangers surrounding me without. Oh, where shall I fly? What place can hide me from Omniscience? What power can secure me from Omnipotence?

What do you mean, O my soul, to go on thus? Are you in league with hell? Have you made a covenant with death? Are you in love with your misery? Is it good for you to be here? Alas, what shall I do? Shall I go on in my sinful ways? Why then, certain damnation will be my end, and shall I be so drunken and mad as to go and sell my soul to the flames, for a little ale, or a little ease, for a little pleasure or gain or comfort to my flesh? Shall I linger any longer in this wretched state? No! If I tarry here I shall die. What then, is there no help? No hope? None, except I turn. Why, but is there any remedy for such woeful misery? Any mercy after such provoking iniquity? Yes, as sure as God’s oath is true, I shall have pardon and mercy yet, if I presently, unfeignedly, and unrestrainedly turn by Christ to Him.

Why then, I thank You upon the bended knees of my soul, O most merciful Jehovah, that Your patience has waited for me until now. For if You had taken me away in this state, I would have perished forever. And now I adore Your grace, and accept the offers of Your mercy, I renounce all my sins, and resolve by Your grace to set myself against them, and to follow You in holiness and righteousness all the days of my life.

Who am I, Lord, that I should make any claim to You, or have any part or portion in You, I who am not worthy to lick up the dust of Your feet? Yet since You hold forth the golden scepter, I am bold to come and touch. To despair would be to disparage Your mercy and to stand off when You invite me to come would be as once to undo myself and rebel against You under pretense of humility. Therefore I bow my soul unto You, and with all possible thankfulness accept You as mine, and give up myself to You as Yours. You shall be Sovereign over me, my King, and my God. You shall be on the throne, and all my powers shall bow to You; they shall come and worship before Your feet. You shall be my portion, O Lord, and I will rest in You.

You call for my heart. Oh that it were any way fit for Your acceptance! I am unworthy, O Lord, everlastingly unworthy to be Yours. But since You will have it so, I freely give my heart to You. Take it, it is Yours. Oh that it were better! But Lord, I put it into Your hands, who alone can mend it. M old it after Your own heart; make it as You would have it, holy, humble, heavenly, soft, tender, flexible. And write Your law upon it.

Come, Lord Jesus, come quickly. Enter in triumphantly. Take me up for Yourself forever. I give myself to You, I come to You, as the only way to the Father, as the only Mediator, the means ordained to bring me to God. I have destroyed myself, but in You is my help. Save, Lord, or else I perish. I come to You, with the rope about my neck. I am worthy to die and to be condemned. Never was the hire more due to the servant, never was penny more due to the laborer, than death and hell, my just wages, are due to me for my sins. But I fly to Your merits. I trust alone to the value and virtue of Your sacrifice, and prevalence of Your intercession. I submit to Your teaching, I make choice of Your government. Stand open, you everlasting doors, that the King of Glory may enter in (Ps. 24:7-10).

O Spirit of the Most High, the Comforter and Sanctifier of Your chosen ones, come in with all Your glorious train, all Your courtly attendants, Your fruits and graces. Let me be Your habitation. I can give You but what is Your own already; but here I give my two mites, my soul and my body, into Your treasury, fully resigning them up to You, to be sanctified by You, to be servants to You. They shall be Your patients. You cure their maladies. They shall be Your agents; govern their actions. Too long have I served the world; too long have I hearkened to Satan. But now I renounce them all, and will be ruled by Your dictates and directions, and guided by Your counsel.
O blessed Trinity, O glorious Unity, I deliver myself up to You. Receive me; write Your name, O Lord, upon me, and upon all that I have, as Your proper goods. Set Your mark upon me, upon every member of my body, and every faculty of my soul. I have chosen Your precepts. Your law will I lay before me; this shall be the copy which I will keep in my eye, and study to write after. According to this rule do I resolve by Your grace to walk: after this law shall my whole man be governed. And though I cannot perfectly keep one of Your commandments, yet I will allow myself in the breach of none. I know my flesh will hang back: but I resolve, in the power of Your grace, to cleave to You and Your holy ways, whatever it cost me. I am sure I cannot come off a loser by You. And therefore I will be content with reproach, and difficulties and hardships here, and will deny myself, and take up Your cross, and follow You. Lord Jesus, Your yoke is easy, Your cross is welcome, as it is the way to You. I lay aside all hopes of a worldly happiness. I will be content to tarry till I come to You. Let me be poor and low, little and despised here, so I may be but admitted to live and reign with You hereafter. Lord, You have my heart and hand to this agreement. Be it as the laws of the Medes and Persians, never to be reversed. To this I will stand: in this resolution, by Your grace, I will live and die. I have sworn, and will perform it, that I will keep Your righteous judgments. I have given my free consent, I have made my everlasting choice. Lord Jesus, confirm the contract. Amen.
CHAPTER SEVEN
The Motives To Conversion

Though what has already been said of the necessity of conversion and of the miseries of the unconverted might be sufficient to induce any considerate mind to resolve upon a present turning to God yet, knowing how desperately obstinate and intractable the heart of man naturally is, I have thought it necessary to add some motives to persuade you to be reconciled to God.

"O Lord, do not fail me now, at my last attempts. If any soul has read this far, and is yet untouched, then, Lord, fasten on him now, and do Your work. Take him by the heart, overcome him; persuade him, till he say, You have prevailed, for You are stronger than I. Lord, did You not make me a fisher of men, and have I toiled all this while and caught nothing? Alas, that I should have spent my strength for naught! And now I am casting this last time. Lord Jesus, stand upon the shore, and direct how and where I shall spread my net; and let me so enclose with arguments the souls I seek, that they may not be able to get out. Now, Lord, for a multitude of souls; now for a full draught. Oh Lord God, remember me, I pray, and strengthen me this once, O God."

Men and brethren, heaven and earth call upon you; yea, hell itself preaches the doctrine of repentance unto you. The ministers of the churches labor for you. The angels of heaven wait for you, for your repenting and turning unto God. Poor sinner, why should devils laugh at your destruction, and deride your misery, and sport themselves with your folly? This will be your case, except you turn. And were it not better you should be a joy to yourselves with your folly? This will be your case, except you turn. And were it not better you should be a joy to God than a laughing-stock and sport for devils. Truly, if you turn. And were it not better you should be a joy to angels than a laughing-stock and sport for devils. Truly, if you turn. And were it not better you should be a joy to God than a laughing-stock and sport for devils. Truly, if you turn.

If it be little that men and angels would rejoice at your conversion, know also that God Himself would rejoice over you, even with singing (Lk. 15:9; Isa. 62:5). Never did Jacob with such joy weep over the neck of his Joseph, as your heavenly Father would rejoice over you upon your coming to Him. Look over the story of the Prodigal Son. I think I see how the aged father lays aside his state and forgets his years; behold, how he runs. Oh the haste that mercy makes; the sinner makes not half that speed. I think I see how his heart moves, how his compassions yearn. How quick-sighted is love! Mercy spies him a great way off; forgets his riotous course, unnatural rebellion, horrid unthankfulness— not a word of these— and receives him with open arms, clasps him about his neck, kisses him; calls for the fatted calf, the best robe, the ring, the shoes, the best cheer in heaven's store, the best attire in heaven's wardrobe. Yea, the joy cannot be held in his own breast. Others must be called to participate. The friends sympathize; but none know the joy the father has in his newborn son, whom he has received from the dead. Oh the melody of the heavenly choristers! I cannot learn the song (Rev. 14:3) but I think I overhear the theme at which all the harmonious choir with one consent strike sweetly in: "For this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found." I need not explain the parable further. God is the father: Christ is the provision, H is righteousness the robe, H is grace the ornaments, ministers saints and angels, the friends and servants, and you that read, if you will but unfeignedly repent and turn, the welcome prodigal, the happy instance of this grace, the blessed subject of this joy and love.

Oh adamant rock! What! You are not moved yet? Not yet resolved to turn at once and to close with mercy? I will try yet once again. If one were sent to you from the dead, would you be persuaded? Why, hear the voice from the dead, from the damned, crying to you that you should repent: "I pray that you would send him to my father's house; for I have five brothers, that he may testify to them, that they not also come into this place of torment. If one went to them from the dead, they will repent." (Luke 16:27–28). Poor sinner, hear those who have gone before you in impenitence; let them preach to you from the infernal flames, that you should repent. Look down into the bottomless pit. Do you see how the smoke of their torment ascends forever and ever?

What do you think of those chains of darkness? Can you be content to burn? Do you see how the worm gnaws, the fire rages? What do you say to that gulf of perdition? Will you take up your habitation there? Lay your ear to the door of hell. Do you hear the curses and blasphemies, the weepings and wailings, how they lament their follies and curse their day? How they roar and gnash their teeth! How deep their groans; how inconceivable their miseries! If the shrieks of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram, were so terrible when the earth split apart and opened its mouth and swallowed them up, and all that belonged to them, that all Israel fled at the cry of them (Num. 16:33-34), O how fearful would the cry be if God should take off the covering from the mouth of hell, and let the cry of the condemned ascend in all its terror among the children of men! And of their moans and miseries this is the piercing, killing emphasis and burden, “Forever! Forever!”

As God lives that made your soul, you are but a few hours distant from all this, except you be converted.

Oh I am even lost and swallowed up in the abundance of those arguments that I might suggest. If there is any point of wisdom in all the world, it is to repent and come in. If there is anything righteous, anything reasonable, this is it. If there is anything that may be called madness and folly, and anything that may be counted absurd, brutish, and unreasonable, it is this: to go on in your unconverted state. Let me beg of you, as you would not willingly destroy yourself, sit down and weigh, besides what has been said, these following motives, and let conscience say if it be not most reasonable that you should repent and turn.

The God Who Made You Most Graciously Invites You

1. The God that made you most graciously invites you. His most sweet and merciful nature invites you. Oh the kindness of God, His boundless compassion, His tender mercies! “As the heavens are higher than the earth, so are His ways above our ways, and His thoughts above our thoughts.” “He is full of compassion, and gracious, long-suffering, and plenteous in mercy” (Ps. 86:15). This is a great argument to persuade sinners to come. “Turn unto the Lord; for He is gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness” (Ps. 103:8). This is a great argument to persuade sinners to come. “He will turn again, and have compassion on you; He will subdue your iniquities, and cast all your sins into the depths of the sea.” “Return to me, says the Lord of hosts, and I will return to you” (Mal. 3:7). Sinners do not fail in that they have too high thoughts of God’s mercies, but in that they overlook His justice, or they promise themselves mercy out of God’s way. His mercies are beyond all imagination; great mercies, manifold mercies (Neh. 9:19), tender mercies, sure mercies, everlasting mercies. And all is yours, if you will but turn. Are you willing to come in? The Lord has laid aside His terror and erected a throne of grace. He holds forth the golden scepter: touch and live. Would a merciful man slay his enemy when prostrate at his feet, acknowledging his wrong, begging pardon, and offering to enter with him into a covenant of peace? Much less will the merciful God. Study His name (Ex. 34:7), “Keeping mercy for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin.” Also read Nehemiah 9:17.

God’s soul-encouraging calls and promises invite you. Ah, what an earnest suitor is mercy to you! How lovingly, how instantly it calls after you! How earnestly it woos you! “Return O backsliding Israel, says the Lord, and I will not cause my anger to fall upon you; for I am merciful, says the Lord, and I will not keep anger for ever; only acknowledge your iniquity, that you have rebelled against the Lord your God and have scattered your ways to the strangers under every green tree. And you have not obeyed My voice, says the Lord. Turn, apostate sons, says the Lord; ... return, and I will heal your backslidings... You have played the harlot with many lovers; yet return unto me, says the Lord” (Jer. 3:12-14, 22, 1). “As I live, says the Lord God, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but that he turn from his way and live. Turn! Turn from your evil ways; for why will you die, house of Israel?” (Ezek. 33:11). “If the wicked will turn from all his sins that he has committed, and keep all my statutes, and do that which is lawful and right, he shall surely live, he shall not die. All the transgressions that he has committed, they shall not be mentioned to him; ... Repent, and turn you from all your transgressions; so iniquity shall not be your ruin. Cast away from you all your transgressions, and make you a new heart and a new spirit; for why will you die, Israel? For I have no pleasure in the death of him that dies, says the Lord God. Therefore turn yourselves, and live” (Ezek. 18).

Oh melting, gracious words: the voice of God, and not of a man. This is not the manner of men, for the offended sovereign to offer to the offending, traitorous rebel. Oh how does mercy follow you, and plead with you! Is not your heart broken yet? Oh that today you would hear His voice!

The Doors Of Heaven Are Thrown Open To You

2. The doors of heaven are thrown open to you. The everlasting gates are set wide open for you, and an abundant entrance into the kingdom of heaven is administered to you. Christ now addresses you, and calls upon you to arise and take possession of this good land. View the glory of the other world, as set forth in the map of the gospel. Get up into the Pisgah of the promises, and lift up your eyes northward, and southward, and eastward, and westward, and see the good land that is beyond Jordan, and that goodly mountain. Behold the Paradise of God, watered with the streams of glory. Rise up and walk through the land, in the length of it, and in the breadth of it; for the land which you see, the Lord will give it to you forever, if you will but surrender. Let me say to you, as Paul to Agrippa, “Do you believe the prophets?” If you believe indeed, view what glorious things are spoken of the city of God, and know that all this is here tendered in the name of God to you. As truly as God is true, it shall be forever yours, if you will but thoroughly turn.

Behold the city of pure transparent gold, whose foundations are garnished with all manner of precious stones, whose gates are pearls, whose light is glory, whose temple is God. Do you believe this? If you do, are you not beside yourself, that will not take possession when the gates are thrown open to you, and you are invited to enter? Oh sons of folly, will you embrace the dunghill and refuse the kingdom? Behold, the Lord takes you up into the mountain, shows you the kingdom of heaven and all the glory of it, and tells you, “All this will I give you, if you will fall down and worship me; if you will submit to mercy, accept my Son, and serve me in righteousness and holiness.” “Oh fools and slow of heart to believe!” (Luke 24:25) Will you seek and serve the world, and neglect eternal glory? What! Will you not enter into paradise when the flaming sword, which was once set to keep you out, is now used to drive you in? But you will say I am uncharitable to think you infidels and unbelievers. What, then, shall I think of you? Either you are desperate unbelievers that do not credit it; or beside yourselves, that you know and believe the excellence and eternity of this glory, and yet do so fearfully neglect it.

Do but attend to what is offered you: a blessed kingdom, a kingdom of glory, a kingdom of righteousness, a kingdom of peace, and an everlasting kingdom. Here you shall dwell, here you shall reign for ever, and the Lord shall set you on a throne of glory, and with Him own hand shall set the royal diadem upon your head, and give you a crown—not of thorns, for there shall be no sinning nor suffering there: not of gold, for this shall be viler than the dirt in that day; but a crown of life, a crown of righteousness, a crown of glory, yea, you shall put on glory as a robe, and shall shine like the sun in the firmament of your Father. Look now on your worthless flesh. Your body, which is now mere dust and ashes, shall be brighter than the stars. In short, you shall be made like the angels of God and behold His face in righteousness.
Look now and tell me, do you not yet believe? If not, conscience must pronounce you an infidel; for it is the very word of God that I speak.

But if you say you believe, let me next know your resolution. Will you embrace this for your happiness? Will you forego your sinful gains, your forbidden pleasures?

Will you trample on the world’s esteem, and stop your ears to its flatteries, and wrest yourself out of its embraces?
Will you be content to take up with reproach and poverty, if they lie in the way to heaven, and follow the Lord with humble self-denial, in a mortified and fleshdispleasing life? If so, all is yours, and that forever.

And is not the offer a fair one? Is it not just that he should be condemned that will go on and perish, when all this may be had by taking it? Will you not take God at H is word? Will you not let go your hold of the world, and lay hold on eternal life? If not, let conscience tell you whether you are not beside yourself, that you should neglect so happy a choice, by which you might be made happy forever.

God Will Give You
Unspeakable Privileges In This Life

3. God will give you unspeakable privileges in this life.
Though the fullness of your blessedness shall be reserved till hereafter, yet God will give you no little things in hand. He will redeem you from your thraldom. He will pluck you from the paw of the lion. The serpent shall bruise your heel, but you shall bruise his head. He will deliver you from this present evil world. Prosperity shall not destroy you; adversity shall not separate Him and you.
He will redeem you from the power of the grave, and make the king of terrors a messenger of peace to you. He will take out the curse from the cross, and make affliction the refining-pot to purify the metal, the fan to blow off the chaff, the medicine to cure the mind. He will save you from the arrest of the law, and turn the curse into a blessing to you. He has the keys of hell and of death, and shuts and no man opens, and He will shut its mouth, as once He did the lions’, that you shall not be hurt of the second death.

Besides, He will not only save from misery, but install you into unspeakable prerogatives. He will bestow His favors upon you; He will be a Friend and a Father unto you. He will be a Sun and a Shield to you. In a word, He will be a God to you. And what more can be said? What may you expect that a God should do for you, and be to you? That He will be, that He will do. She that marries a prince expects he should do for her like a prince, that she may live in suitable state, and have an answerable dowry.
He that has a king for his father or a friend, expects he should do for him like a king. Alas, the kings and monarchs of the earth, so much above you, are but like the painted butterflies amongst the rest of their kind, or the fair colored palmerworm amongst the rest of the worms, if compared with God. As He infinitely exceeds the glory and power of His glittering dust, so He will, beyond all proportion, exceed in doing for His favorites whatever princes can do for theirs. He will give you grace and glory, and withhold no good thing from you. He will take you for His sons and daughters, and make you heirs of His promises, and establish His everlasting covenant with you. He will justify you from all that law, conscience and Satan can charge upon you. He will give you free access into His presence, and accept your person, and receive your prayers. He will abide in you, and hold a constant and friendly communion with you. His ear shall be open, His door open, His store open, at all times to you. His blessing shall rest upon you, and He will make your enemies serve you, and work out all things for good unto you.

The Terms Of Mercy Are Brought As Low As Possible

4. The terms of mercy are brought as low as possible to you. God has stooped as low to sinners as with honor He can. He will not be the Author of sin, nor stain the glory of His holiness; and how could He come lower than He has, unless He should do this?

God does not impose anything unreasonable or impossible, as a condition of life, upon you. Two things were necessary to be done, according to the tenor of the first covenant. 1. That we should fully satisfy the demands of justice for past offenses. 2. That we should perform personally, perfectly, and perpetually, the whole law for the time to come. By our sins we render salvation through either of these ways impossible. But behold God’s gracious provision in both. He does not insist upon satisfaction. He is content to take of the Surety, and He of H is own providing too, what He might have exacted from you. “All things are of God, who has reconciled us to Himself by Jesus Christ, and has given to us the ministry of reconciliation: whereas God was in Christ reconciling the world to Himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them; and has committed to us the word of reconciliation” (II Cor. 5:18–19). He declares Himself to have received a ransom, and that H e expects nothing but that you should accept H is Son, and He shall be righteousness and redemption to you. If you come in His Christ, and set your heart to His Son, and He shall be righteousness and redemption to you. His blessing shall rest upon you, and He will make your enemies serve you, and work out all things for good unto you.

God Offers All The Grace You Need To Enable You

5. God offers all needed grace to enable you. “I have stretched out My hand, and no man regarded” (Prov. 1:24). What though you are plunged into the ditch of that misery from which you can never get out? Christ offers to take you out; H e reaches out H is hand to you. And if you perish, it is for refusing H is help. “Behold, I stand at the door and knock; if any man open to me, I will come in.” (Rev. 3:20). What though you are poor, and wretched, and blind, and naked? Christ offers to cure your blindness, a covering for your nakedness, riches for your poverty. H e tenders you H is righteousness, H is grace. “I counsel you to buy of me gold, that you may be rich; and white clothing, that you may be clothed; and anoint your eyes with eye-salve, that you may see.” (Rev. 3:18). Do you say, “The condition is impossible; for I have nothing with which to buy?” You must know that this buying is “without money and without price.” God commands you to know H im, and to fear H im. Do you say, “Yes, but my mind is blinded, and my heart is hardened from His fear?” I answer that God offers to enlighten your mind, and to teach you H is fear. So that now, if men live in ignorance and estrangement from the Lord, it is because they will not understand, and do not desire the knowledge of His ways. “If you cry after knowledge, if you seek her as silver, then you shall understand the fear of the L ORD, and find the knowledge of God.” (Prov. 2:3–5). Is not this a fair offer? “Turn at my reproof; behold, I will pour out My Spirit unto you” (Prov. 1:23). Though of yourselves you can do

Objection: Notwithstanding all the advantages of the new covenant, I am unable to repent and believe, and so comply with its conditions.

Answer: These you may perform by God’s grace enabling; but let the next consideration serve for a fuller answer.

nothing, yet you may do all through His Spirit enabling you, and He offers assistance to you. God bids you “wash and be cleansed.” You say you are unable, as much as the leopard to wash out his spots. Yes, but the Lord offers to cleanse you so that if you are filthy still, it is through your own wilfulness: “I have purged you, and you were not purged” (Ezek. 24:13). “Oh Jerusalem, will you not be made clean: when shall it once be?” (Jer. 13:27). God invites you to be made clean, and entreats you to yield to Him. Oh then accept His offers, and He will do for you, and in you, what you cannot do for yourselves.
And now, beloved, let me know your mind. What do you intend to do? Will you go on and die, or will you turn and lay hold on eternal life? How long will you linger in Sodom? How long will you halt between two opinions? Have you not yet resolved whether Christ or Barabbas, whether bliss or torment, whether this vain and wretched world, or the paradise of God, be the better choice? Is it a disputable case whether the Abana and Pharpar of Damascus be better than all the streams of Eden; or whether the vile pool of sin is to be preferred before the water of life, clear as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb? Can the world in good earnest do that for you which Christ can? Will it stand by you to eternity? Will pleasures, lands, titles, and treasures descend with you? If not, had you not need look after something that will? What do you mean to stand wavering? Shall I leave you at last, like Agrippa, only almost persuaded? You are forever lost if left here. It is as good not to be at all, as not altogether a Christian. How long will you rest in idle wishes and fruitless purposes? When will you come to a fixed, firm, and full resolve? Do you not see how Satan cheats you by tempting you to delay? How long has he drawn you on in the way of perdition!

Well, do not put me off with a dilatory answer; tell me not later. I must have your immediate consent. If you are not now resolved, while the Lord is treating with you and inviting you, much less likely are you to be later, when these impressions are worn off, and you are hardened through the deceitfulness of sin. When are you not resolved, while the Lord is treating with you and inviting you, much less likely are you to be later, when these impressions are worn off, and you are hardened through the deceitfulness of sin?

Will you give me your hand? Will you set open the door and give the Lord Jesus the full and ready possession? Will you put your name to His covenant? What do you mean to stand wavering? Shall I leave you at last, like Agrippa, only almost persuaded? You are forever lost if left here. It is as good not to be at all, as not altogether a Christian. How long will you rest in idle wishes and fruitless purposes? When will you come to a fixed, firm, and full resolve? Do you not see how Satan cheats you by tempting you to delay? How long has he drawn you on in the way of perdition!

Well, do not put me off with a dilatory answer; tell me not later. I must have your immediate consent. If you are not now resolved, while the Lord is treating with you and inviting you, much less likely are you to be later, when these impressions are worn off, and you are hardened through the deceitfulness of sin.

Will you give me your hand? Will you set open the door and give the Lord Jesus the full and ready possession? Will you put your name to His covenant? What do you resolve? If you still delay, my labor is lost, and all is likely to come to nothing. Come, cast in your lot; make your choice. "Now is the accepted time; now is the day of salvation; today, if you will hear His voice." (II Cor. 6:2). Why should not this be the day from which you are able to date your happiness? Why should you venture a day longer in this dangerous and dreadful condition? What if God should this night require your soul? Oh that you might know in this day of yours the things that belong to your peace, before they be hidden from your eyes! This is your day, and it is but a day. Others have had their day, and have received their doom, and now you are brought upon the stage of this world, here to act your part for your eternity. Remember, you are now upon your good behavior for everlasting; if you do not make a wise choice now, you are undone forever. What your present choice is, such must be your eternal condition.

And is it true indeed? Are life and death at your choice? Why, then, what hinders but that you should be happy? Nothing does or can hinder but your own wilful neglect or refusal. It was the saying of the eunuch to Philip, “See, here is water, what hinders me from being baptized?” (Acts 9:36). So I may say to you, “See, here is Christ, here is mercy, pardon, life; what hinders but that you should be pardoned and saved?” One of the martyrs, as he was praying at the stake, had his pardon set by him in a box, which indeed he rightly refused, because upon unworthy terms. But here the terms are most honorable and easy. O sinner, will you perish with your pardon by you? Do but henceforth give your consent to Christ, to renounce your sins, deny yourself, take up the yoke and the cross, and you carry the day. Christ is yours; pardon, peace, life, blessedness, are all yours. And is not this an offer worth embracing? Why should you hesitate or doubtfully dispute about the case? Is it not past controversy whether God be better than sin, and glory than vanity? Why should you forsake your own mercy, and sin against your own life? When will you shake off your sloth, and lay by your excuses? Boast not of tomorrow, you know not where you may lodge this night.

Now the Holy Spirit is striving with you. He will not always strive. Have you not felt your heart warmed by the Word, and been almost persuaded to leave off your sins and come to Christ? Have you not felt some motions in your mind, in which you have been warned of your danger, and told what your careless course would end in? It may be you are like young Samuel who, when the Lord called once and again, knew not the voice of the Lord, but these motions are the offers, and callings, and strivings of the Spirit. Oh take advantage of the tide, and know the day of your visitation.

Now the Lord Jesus stretches wide His arms to receive you. He beseeches you by us. How movingly, how melodiously, how compassionately He calls. The church is put into a sudden ecstasy at the sound of His voice, “the voice of my beloved.” Oh will you turn a deaf ear to His voice? Is it not the voice that breaks the cedars, and makes the mountains to skip like a calf; that shakes the wilderness, and divides the flames of fire? It is not Sinai’s thunder, but a soft and still voice. It is not the voice of Mount Ebal, a voice of cursing and terror, but the voice of Mount Gerizim, the voice of blessing and glad tidings of good things. It is not the voice of the trumpet nor the noise of war, but a message of peace from the King of peace. I may say to you, O sinner, as Martha to her sister,
An Alarm to the Unconverted

The Master has come, and He calls for you.” Now then, with Mary, arise quickly and come to Him. How sweet are His invitations! He excludes none. “Ho, every one that thirsts, come to the waters; and he that has no money, come, buy and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk, without money and without price. Why do you spend your money for that which is not bread, and your labor for that which satisfies not? Listen diligently unto Me, and eat that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in the Lord.” (Jer. 22:29). Unless you are resolved to die, lend your ears to the last calls of mercy. Behold, in the name of God, I make open proclamation to you, “And now listen to Me, O sons, hear instruction and be wise, and refuse it not” (Prov. 8:32–33).

“Ho, every one that thirsts, come to the waters; and He that has no money, come and buy; yea, come, buy wine and milk, without money and without price. Why do you spend your money for that which is not bread, and your labor for that which satisfies not? Listen diligently unto Me, and eat that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness. Incline your ear and come to Me; hear, your soul shall live; and I will make an everlasting covenant with you, even the sure mercies of David” (Isa. 55:1–3).

Ho, every one that is sick of any manner of disease or torment, or is possessed with an evil spirit, whether of pride, fury, lust, or covetousness, come to the Physician. Bring your sick. Lo, here is He that heals all manner of sicknesses, and all manner of diseases, among the people (Mt. 4:23–24).

Ho, every one that is in distress, gather yourselves to Christ, and He will become a Captain over you. He will be your protection from the arrest of the law. He will save you from the hand of justice. Behold, He is an open sanctuary to you. He is a known refuge. Away with your sins and come in to Him, lest the avenger of blood seize you, lest devouring wrath overtake you.

Ho, every blind and ignorant sinner, come and buy eye-salve, that you may see. Away with your excuses you are forever lost if you continue in this state. But accept Christ for your Prophet, and He will be a light to you. Cry to Him for knowledge, study His Word, take pains about religion, humble yourself before God, and He will teach you H is way, and make you wise to salvation. But if you will not follow Him, but sit down because you have but one talent, He will condemn you for a wicked and slothful servant (Mt. 25:24–26).

Ho, every profane sinner, come in and live. Return to the Lord, and He will have mercy on you; be entreated. Return, come. You that have filled your mouth with oaths and execrations, all manner of sins and blasphemies shall be forgiven you, if you will but thoroughly turn unto Christ and come in. Unclean sinner, put away your whoredoms out of your sight, and your adulteries from between your breasts, and give yourself unto Christ, as a vessel of holiness, alone for His use; and then, “though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool” (Luke 7:47, Isa. 1:18, 4:7).

Hear, O drunkards, how long will you be drunk? Put away your wine. Though you have rolled in the filthiness of your sin, give yourselves unto Christ, to live soberly, righteously, and godly; embrace H is righteousness; accept H is government; and though you have been vile, H e will Hear, O ye loose companions, whose delight is in vain and wicked society, to sport away your time in carnal mirth; come in at Wisdom's call, and choose her and her ways, and you shall live (Prov. 9:5–6).

Hear, O ye scorners, hear the word of the Lord. Though you make a sport at godliness and its professors, though you have made a scorn of Christ and His ways, yet even to you does He call, to gather you under the wings of His mercy. In a word, though you should be found among the worst of that black roll, yet upon your thorough conversion you shall be washed, you shall be sanctified, you shall be justified in the name of the Lord Jesus, and by the Spirit of God (I Cor. 6:10, 11).

Ho, every formal professor, you that are but lukewarm and resting in the form of godliness, give over your halting; be a true Christian; be zealous and repent; and then, though you have been an offence to Christ, you shall be the joy of His heart (Rev. 3:16–20).

And now bear witness that mercy has been offered you. “I call heaven and earth to record against you this day, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing; therefore choose life, that you may live” (Deut. 30:19). I can only entreat you and warn you. I cannot otherwise compel you to be happy; if I could, I would. What answer will you send me with to my Master? Let me speak to you as Abraham's servant to Nahor's family, “And now if you will deal kindly and truly with my master, tell me.” Oh for such a happy answer as Rebekah gave them: “And they said, We will call the girl, and inquire at her mouth. And they called Rebekah and said to her, Will you go with this man? And she said, I will go” (Gen. 24:49–58). Oh that I had this from you! Why should I, who agonize for your salvation, be your accuser? Why should the passionate pleadings of mercy be turned into horrid aggravations of your obstinacy and additions to your misery? Judge in yourselves; do you not think their condemnation will be doubly dreadful, that shall still go on in their sins, after all endeavors to recall them? Doubtless it shall be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon, yea, for Sodom and Gomorrah, in the day of judgment, than for you! (Mt. 11:22–24).

Beloved, if you have any pity for your perishing souls, close with the present offers of mercy. If the God that made you have any authority with you, obey His command and come in. If you are not the despisers of grace, and would not shut the doors of mercy against yourselves, repent and be converted. Let not heaven stand open for you in vain. Let not the Lord Jesus open His stores and bid you buy without money and without price in vain. Let not His Spirit and His ministers strive with you in vain, and leave you now at last unpersuaded, lest the sentence go forth against you, “The bellows are burned, the lead is consumed of the fire, the founder melts in vain. Reprobate silver shall men call them, because the Lord hath rejected them” (Jer. 6:29–30).

“Father of Spirits, take the heart in hand that is too hard for my weakness. Though I am done, do not end the matter here. A word from Your effectual power will do the work. My God, You have the key of David, that opens and no man shuts, then open this heart, as You opened Lydia's, and let the King of Glory enter in, and make this soul Your captive. Let not the tempter harden this one in delays. Let him not stir from this place, nor take his eyes from these lines, till He resolve to forego his sins, and accept life on Your self-denying terms. In Your Name, O Lord God, did I go forth to these labors; in Your name I close them. Let not all the time they have cost be lost hours; let not all the thoughts of the heart, and all the pains that have been about them be lost labor. Lord, put Your hand upon the heart of this reader, and send Your Spirit, as once You sent Philip to join himself to the chariot of the Ethiopian eunuch while he was reading the Word. And though I should never know it while I live, yet I beseech You, O Lord God, let it be found at the last day that some souls are converted by these labors; and let some be able to stand forth and say that by these persuasions they were won unto You. Amen, Amen.”

Let him that reads say, Amen.

In preparing this edition it was necessary to alter some words which have changed in their meaning and also to slightly abridge the work in some places.

T.E. Watson, Editor (1959)

This 1989 edition makes reading and understanding easier by the use of the English of this age, the capitalization of Divine names and pronouns, and the altering of some sentences, and sentence structure, to promote immediate understanding of Mr. Alleine's powerful message. Scripture is put in italic type to make it distinctive from text.
