A Chronological Study of the Life of Jesus

A course of study designed to follow The Fourfold Gospel by McGarvey and Pendleton

Gene Taylor
Preface

The Fourfold Gospel by J.W. McGarvey and Philip Y. Pendleton is regarded as a classic work. For many years brethren have used it in Bible classes to study the gospels in chronological order. There has never been a study guide to accompany it—that is, until now. This workbook was developed to meet that need.

This book, of course, does not have to be used in connection with The Fourfold Gospel. It can be an independent study using only it and the Bible.

It is my hope that after the student has completed the 26 lessons he will have a good working knowledge of the life of our Savior while He was on earth.

No better purpose could be stated for writing and publishing these lessons than that given by the apostle John for his gospel—“...these are written that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing you may have life in His name” (John 20:31).

May God bless you in your study.

A Background Summary of the Gospels and Their Writers

Matthew

A. Author.

Matthew, the son of Alphaeus, whose surname was Levi, was one of the twelve apostles (Matthew 9:9; Mark 2:14; Luke 5:27-32). Prior to becoming an apostle, he was a publican, a collector of Roman taxes. Publicans were generally despised by the Jews. When Jesus called him to be a disciple, Matthew, leaving all behind, obeyed immediately.

Not much is known of Matthew personally. After his call by Jesus he hosted a supper for Jesus and invited many of his friends and fellow publicans (Luke 5:29). Since he was an apostle, he partook in the work of spreading the gospel even though none of his active ministry is recorded in Scripture. The Bible does not mention his death but tradition states that he died a martyr’s death, slain by a halberd, in 60 A.D. in the city of Nabadah, Ethiopia.

B. Message of the Book.

The book of Matthew was written to show how Jesus enlarged, explained and fulfilled the prophecies of the Messiah in the Old Testament. Written primarily to the Jews, it demonstrates that Jesus is Messiah and King, the rightful heir to the promises of the Abrahamic and Davidic covenants.

Since its main purpose is to show Jesus as the Messiah to the Jews, it contains more passages from the Old Testament than either Mark or Luke. In fact, there are about forty passages from the Old Testament concerning the Messiah contained in it. Even the minor details of Christ’s life, and the prophecies concerning them, are presented as evidence for the Messiahship of Jesus.

C. Some Exclusive Things in the Book.

Incidents. The vision of Joseph (1:20-24), the visit of the wisemen (2:1-12), the flight into Egypt (2:13-15), the massacre of the infants (2:16), the dream of Pilate’s wife (27:19), the death of Judas (27:3-10), the resurrection of saints at the time of the crucifixion (27:52) and the bribery of the guards of Jesus’ tomb (28:12-15).

Parables. The tares (13:24-30), the hidden treasure (13:44), the pearl of great price (13:45-46), the drag net (13:47), the unmerciful servant (18:23-24), the laborers in the vineyard (20:1-17), the father and two sons (21:28-32), the marriage of the king’s son (22:1-14), the ten virgins (25:1-13) and the talents (25:14-30).

Miracles. Two blind men cured (9:27-31), a dumb spirit cast out (9:32-33) and tribute money provided (17:24-27).

D. Special Considerations in the Book.

The word “church” does not occur anywhere in the gospels except in Matthew where it is found twice (16:18; 18:17). The first passage refers to the church as the universal body... of believers who have a common faith in Jesus Christ. The second refers to the local assembly of believers and the discipline they must exercise on sinful members. Jesus preached many sermons during His earthly ministry. While most of them are presented in some form in all four gospels, six of them are detailed in great depth and scope in the book of Matthew. As a matter of fact, Matthew gives such emphasis to them that the content of the book must be related to the literary placement of these discourses.

Mark

A. Author.

John Mark, whose given name was John but whose Latin surname was Mark, was the son of a wealthy family of Christians in Jerusalem. It seems he was reared in an atmosphere of culture and piety. Evidently younger than the apostles, at the time he wrote his gospel, he was most likely the youngest of the writers of the New Testament. Mark was the son of Mary, a friend of the apostles (Acts 12:12). Barnabas, Paul’s friend and traveling companion, was his cousin (Colossians 4:10). He was well-known to the disciples in Jerusalem. He worked with Paul and Barnabas and was said to have worked with the apostle Peter who referred to him as his “son” (1 Peter 5:13). He went with Paul and Barnabas on their first preaching journey but turned back in Asia Minor returning to Jerusalem (Acts 13:13). On the second trip, after Paul determined not to have him along, he and Barnabas sailed to Cyprus (Acts 15:36-41). He is mentioned some ten years later when in 2 Timothy 4:11 Paul commands Timothy to get Mark and bring him to Rome.

Mark supposedly died by being “dragged to pieces by the people of Alexandria, at the great solemnity of Serapis their idol” (Fox’s Book of Martyrs, Zondervan Pub. Co., Grand Rapids, 1975, p. 3).

The book of Mark is an historical narrative which, though giving a representative picture of both the person and work of Jesus, emphasizes the person of Christ. As stated in the first verse of the book, this gospel was written to show Jesus as the Son of God. It was written to Gentiles, particularly those in Rome, to convince them of the deity and mission of Christ.

Mark’s book is the gospel of action. The Greek word “euthus,” which is variously translated “straightway,” “immediately” and/or “forthwith” is used some forty-two times in it. It seems that Mark is more concerned with deeds than words.

C. Some Exclusive Things in the Book.

Since over ninety percent of the content of the book of Mark is found in Matthew and Luke, there are very few unique passages in the book. The only incident peculiar to Mark is the flight of the young man (14:51-52). Only one parable is unique to it—the growth of the seed (4:26-29). Two miracles are peculiar to it—the deaf and dumb man cured (7:31-37) and a blind man cured (8:22-26).
D. Special Considerations in the Book.

Since Mark is a book of action, it has no prologue. It immediately launches right into the narrative. As previously noted, it uses the Greek adverb “euthus” more than all the rest of the New Testament put together.

This gospel shows the responses of audiences to Jesus. Twenty-three references are made to audience reactions of Jesus. He characterizes them as being “amazed,” “critical,” “afraid,” “puzzled,” “astonished,” “hostile,” etc.

Mark uses the historical present liberally. It presents events in action rather than viewing them as a historical past. This makes the gospel seem vividly alive.

Luke

A. Author.

Of all Biblical writers, Luke was probably the only Gentile. Thought to have been converted at Antioch, Luke was a well-trained Greek. He is referred to in Colossians 4:14 as “the beloved physician.”

Not satisfied with the partial accounts which were circulating about the life and work of Jesus, Luke determined to write an orderly, detailed account of the facts believed by the early Christians.

He also wrote the book of Acts. The “we” and “they” passages in that book indicate that Luke was often present with the apostle Paul in his travels. He joined Paul at Troas (16:10). He remained at Philippi when Paul traveled on (18:22). He was later found in Asia Minor (19:1-41). He rejoined Paul at a later time and accompanied him to Jerusalem. He was with Paul in Rome at the close of Paul’s life (2 Timothy 4:11).

The purpose of the book of Luke is stated in 1:4. Even though the original design of it was to confirm to an individual, Theophilus, the facts about Jesus, surely Luke knew that his book was intended for a much larger audience.

Luke presents the humanity of Jesus—that He was a blending of the Son of Man with the Son of God. He demonstrates Christ to be the perfect man but does not minimize His deity.

C. Some Exclusive Things in the Book.

Of the three synoptic writers (Matthew, Mark and Luke), Luke has the most distinctive material. Over fifty percent of its content is exclusive whereas Matthew has about forty percent and Mark only ten.

Parables. The two debtors (7:41-43), the good Samaritan (10:25-37), the friend at midnight (11:5-8), the rich fool (12:16-21), the watchful servants (12:35-48), the barren fig tree (13:6-9), the chief seats at the wedding feast (14:7-11), the great supper (14:15-24), the builder who did not finish (14:28-30), the king who sought counsel (14:31-32), the lost coin (15:8-10), the prodigal son (15:11-32), the clever steward (16:1-13), the unprofitable servants (17:7-10); the widow and the judge (18:1-8), the Pharisee and publican (18:9-14) and the servants and the pounds (19:11-27).
Miracles. The catch of fish (5:1-11), the raising of the widow’s son at Nain (7:11-18), the healing of the woman with an 18 year old spirit of infirmity (13:10-17), the healing of a man who had dropsy (14:1-6), the cleansing of the ten lepers (17:11-19) and the restoration of Malchus’ ear which had been cut off by Peter (22:50-51).

D. Special Considerations in the Book.

Certain classes of people receive special attention in Luke. Women, mentioned some 43 times in the book, children, and the poor and oppressed are but a few of the classes of people which are emphasized.

The prayer life of Jesus is also emphasized in this gospel. This is not surprising since it is a mark of that which is stressed by Luke—the humanity of Jesus. Jesus is shown to be praying or in prayer at least thirteen times.

John

A. Author.

Although the authorship of the fourth gospel is anonymous, there exists a preponderance of evidence, both external and internal, which points to the apostle John as its writer.

John is a familiar figure in the New Testament. His name is mentioned almost twice as many times in it as those of the other three writers of the gospels combined (35 times). A son of Zebedee, along with his brother James he was chosen by Jesus to serve as an apostle (Matthew 4:21). Prior to following Jesus he had been a disciple of John the Baptist (John 1:35-40) and a fisherman (Matthew 4:21).

John was a member of the special inner circle of three disciples, Peter and James being the other two, who were with Jesus at the raising of Jairus’ daughter (Mark 5:37), on the Mount of Transfiguration (Mark 9:2) and in the Garden of Gethsemane (Mark 14:33). In spite of having been called one of the "sons of thunder" because of his angry outburst (Mark 3:17), his association with Jesus transforms him into a gentle disciple of love. In fact, he refers to himself as "the disciple whom Jesus loved" (John 13:23; 19:26; 20:2; 21:7, 20, 24). Present at Calvary, Jesus entrusts his mother to him (John 19:25-27).

In addition to the fourth gospel, John also wrote three epistles which bear his name and the book of Revelation. The only apostle to die of natural causes, tradition states that he was banished to the island of Patmos by the Roman emperor Domitian. Nerva, who succeeded Domitian, allowed John to return to Ephesus about 96 A.D. He stayed at Ephesus until he died sometime during the reign of Trojan (98-117 A.D.).

B. Message of the Book.

The gospel of John was written to generate and reinforce belief in Jesus as the Christ so that his readers might gain life. This purpose is clearly seen in John 20:30-31 which states, “And truly Jesus did many other signs in the presence of His disciples, which are not written in this book; but these are written that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing you may have life in His name.” Three key words which reveal his purpose are seen in this passage. They are “signs,” “believe” and “life.”
C. Some Exclusive Things in the Book.

John was the most selective of all the writers of the gospels. Over ninety percent of his content is exclusive to his book. Since he had such a distinct purpose, he was very selective in what he included in his writing. He was not seeking to produce an exhaustive biography of Jesus. Instead, he recorded only those miracles, sermons and interviews which suited his purpose.

Parables. To illustrate how selective he was, even though the teaching of Jesus was full of them, John did not record a single one of them.

Miracles. Of the seven miracles John uses, five of them are unique to his gospel— the turning of the water into wine (2:2-11), the healing of the nobleman’s son (4:46-54), the healing of the impotent man (5:1-15), the healing of the blind man (9:1-41) and the raising of Lazarus from the dead (11:1-44).

Sermons or topical discourses. The new birth (3:1-13), the water of life (4:6-29), the defense of His deity (5:19-47), the bread of life (6:22-71), the light of the world (8:12-59), the good shepherd (10:1-30) and the discourse in the upper room (13:1-17:26).

D. Special Considerations in the Book.

John places great emphasis upon the deity of Jesus through the claims Jesus made about Himself. Included in the many claims Jesus made to be “the bread of life” (6:35), “the light of the world” (8:12; 9:5), “the resurrection and life” (11:25), “the way, the truth, and the life” (14:6) and “the true vine” (15:1), is the claim that “Before Abraham was, I AM” (8:58) by which the Jews understood that Jesus was claiming to be God.

The book of John in the original Greek language is the easiest to read of all four gospels. That is because it is written in a very simple style. Though written in a simple style, it contains truths of great depth and complexity.

Much of the narrative of the book centers around the visits that Jesus made to Jerusalem for various festivals—the first Passover (2:23), an unnamed feast (5:1), the Feast of the Tabernacles (7:2), the Feast of Dedication (10:22) and the last Passover (13:1).
